4½ hours of testimony before zoning board

Multi-family rezoning approved for entire W. Strong Street area

by LYNN ASINOF

After 4½ hours of testimony, members of the Wheeling Zoning Board Tuesday night voted unanimously to recommend rezoning the entire W. Strong Street area for multi-family development.

Before voting on the zoning, however, the five zoning board members present noted their concern for the problems of the homeowners in the area. They said they felt the only way to bring street, water and sewer improvements to the area was to rezone the land to attract developers.

Zoning board chairman Frank Wojek was not present at the meeting.

Members of the audience took the decision quietly, saying they had known what the decision would be even before the hearings. Nearly 100 persons attended the meeting, most of whom are residents of the W. Strong Street protesting the zoning.

Before the hearings began, six letters were read into the record. Four urged the zoning board to vote against the rezoning, while only one urged the board to endorse the multiple family zoning. The sixth letter dealt with notification of the trust-holders who own the land under consideration.

ONE OF THESE landowners, Peder Pagh of Lake Zurich, presented an argument supporting the rezoning of the Strong Street area for multi-family development. Pagh is one beneficiary of a trust which owns six lots in the Fifth Street area.

Pagh's attorney, Fred Weisemann, based most of his case on testimony from land-planner Rolf Campbell. Campbell told the board he felt the proposed R-4 multi-family zoning was the best use of the land. "I think the matter of prime consideration is that the land is not really suited for its present purpose," he said.

The planner noted that none of the property could be developed without the installation of water and sewer lines. He said the cost of these improvements, which he estimated at $7,000 per lot, would be prohibitive for single-family development.

Campbell told the board that by increasing the number of units serviced by these improvements, a developer could economically handle the cost of these improvements.

According to Campbell, the present single-family homes in the area would be able to remain. He said, however, most of the homes would eventually be converted to some other use.

THE ATTORNEY for the objectors, John M. Burke, presented several arguments against the project. He pointed out

Confusion prompts zone law change request

Confusion Tuesday night over Wheeling's zoning ordinances led the members of the zoning board to recommend that the village board change the wording of at least one code.

During testimony on the rezoning of the W. Strong Street area for multi-family development, the board learned that the ordinance on R-4 zoning contradicts itself.

The ordinance defines the purpose of the R-4 zoning as providing a multiplicity of housing types from single-family to multi-family. In the next paragraph, the ordinance expressly prohibits single-family residential uses.

As a result of this discovery, the zoning board members recommended that the village board change the ordinance to allow single-family homes under R-4 zoning.

THE ZONING BOARD members noted that this change would also help the W. Strong Street residents, who would have been in non-conforming use under the R-4 zoning which the board recommended for the area.

Several Strong Street residents objecting to the proposed R-4 zoning told the board they didn't think it was fair to make their homes non-conforming uses. They said if their homes were non-conforming, they would be unable to make any structural changes in their buildings.

Residents also noted that their homes would eventually be torn down following the amortization schedule laid out in the village ordinances. This ordinance states that non-conforming buildings built before 1930 shall be torn down by 1971, and more recent buildings shall be removed no later than 2003.

An attorney arguing for the multi-family rezoning then discovered another technicality in the ordinances which caused even more confusion.

ACCORDING TO THE ordinance, a non-conforming building is one that does not meet either lot size or building bulk requirements. A non-conforming use is the use of land which is not permitted under the village zoning ordinances.

The homes in the W. Strong Street area are presently non-conforming buildings because the lot sizes are smaller than those laid out in the ordinance for R-1 zoning. The amortization schedule as written, however, applies only to non-conforming buildings.

If the property were zoned R-4, the Strong Street homes would become non-conforming uses rather than non-conforming buildings. Thus with the R-4 zoning, the homes would not be in any danger of being removed according to the amortization schedule.

In order to clarify the problem on non-conformancy with village zoning, the zoning board asked William Bieber, village director of building and zoning, to testify.

Bieber told the board he has never enforced any of the non-conforming use provisions on residential homes that were forcibly annexed into the village. He added that he has issued several permits for structural changes on homes that do not conform to zoning.

"AS FAR AS non-conforming uses, we have not enforced that," Bieber said. "Until this court case came out, the non-conforming use was not even considered."

Bieber said he did not think it was right to enforce these non-conformancy regulations on persons who were forcibly annexed into the village. He asked the zoning board to recommend removing those residential homes which were involuntarily annexed from the non-conforming classification.

If the village does act to remove the restriction on single-family homes under R-4 zoning, the entire area may no longer have to worry about non-conforming zoning uses.

This would leave them free to make any structural changes on their homes and to rebuild their homes in case of fire or other destruction. It would also allow new single family homes to be built in the area.

that the area is partially located in the flood plain, making building impossible in some sections.

In his cross-examination of Campbell, Burke emphasized traffic problems that multi-family development would bring to the area. Campbell testified that such zoning could be expected to provide housing for between 1,800 and 2,000 people, or three people per housing unit. He said two parking spaces would be provided for each of the approximately 600 units.

Burke also stressed the problems of making the single-family homes a non-conforming zoning use. He noted the village's amortization schedule which states that non-conforming buildings built before 1930 would have to be torn down, with more recent buildings being removed no later than 2003.

The ordinance also states that the village board can extend these time provisions at its discretion.

Twelve Wheeling residents and one former resident testified in objection to the rezoning. Objectors argued some of the points brought out by Burke, and introduced some of their own.

AT LEAST TWO residents told the board that they would not be able to sell their homes if they became non-conforming uses. Robert Ozark, 365 N. Tenth St., said he had checked with several lending institutions. He said those institutions would not make home loans for persons buying buildings that were non-conforming uses.

"If I can't get some equity out of my house, and if I can't sell it to someone else, I'll lose my shirt," he said.

Zoning board member Roman Domas pointed out that Ozark's home is presently a non-conforming use. He said since Ozark just recently bought his house, he was loaned money despite the non-conforming zoning usage.

Ozark also told the board he thought the crime rate in the area would go up if apartments were built. He said crime naturally increases in any area where there are more people living closer together.

Two residents complained that although the village officials had previously promised to bring water and sewer lines into the area, they have not done so.

SEVERAL RESIDENTS wanted to question the zoning board about the reason for the rezoning. They also asked questions about the past history in the area, water and sewer lines, and the village's attitude toward the area.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer stopped testimony several times to say the board could not answer these questions. He said the purpose of the hearings was for objectors to present testimony and not to ask questions of the board.

In summation, Burke told the board that the only reason for the rezoning was to influence a suit now in court which challenges last year's zoning of 47 Strong Street lots for six-flat apartment buildings.

"I submit to the board, the purpose of the rezoning is to bail out the village at the eleventh hour from a suit they feel they are losing from a spot zoning charge," he said.

Burke asked the zoning board to recommend to the village board that a hearing be held to determine the best use of the land. He said there was no evidence that R-4 was the best zoning, and suggested that R-3 (single family) would be more appropriate for the area.

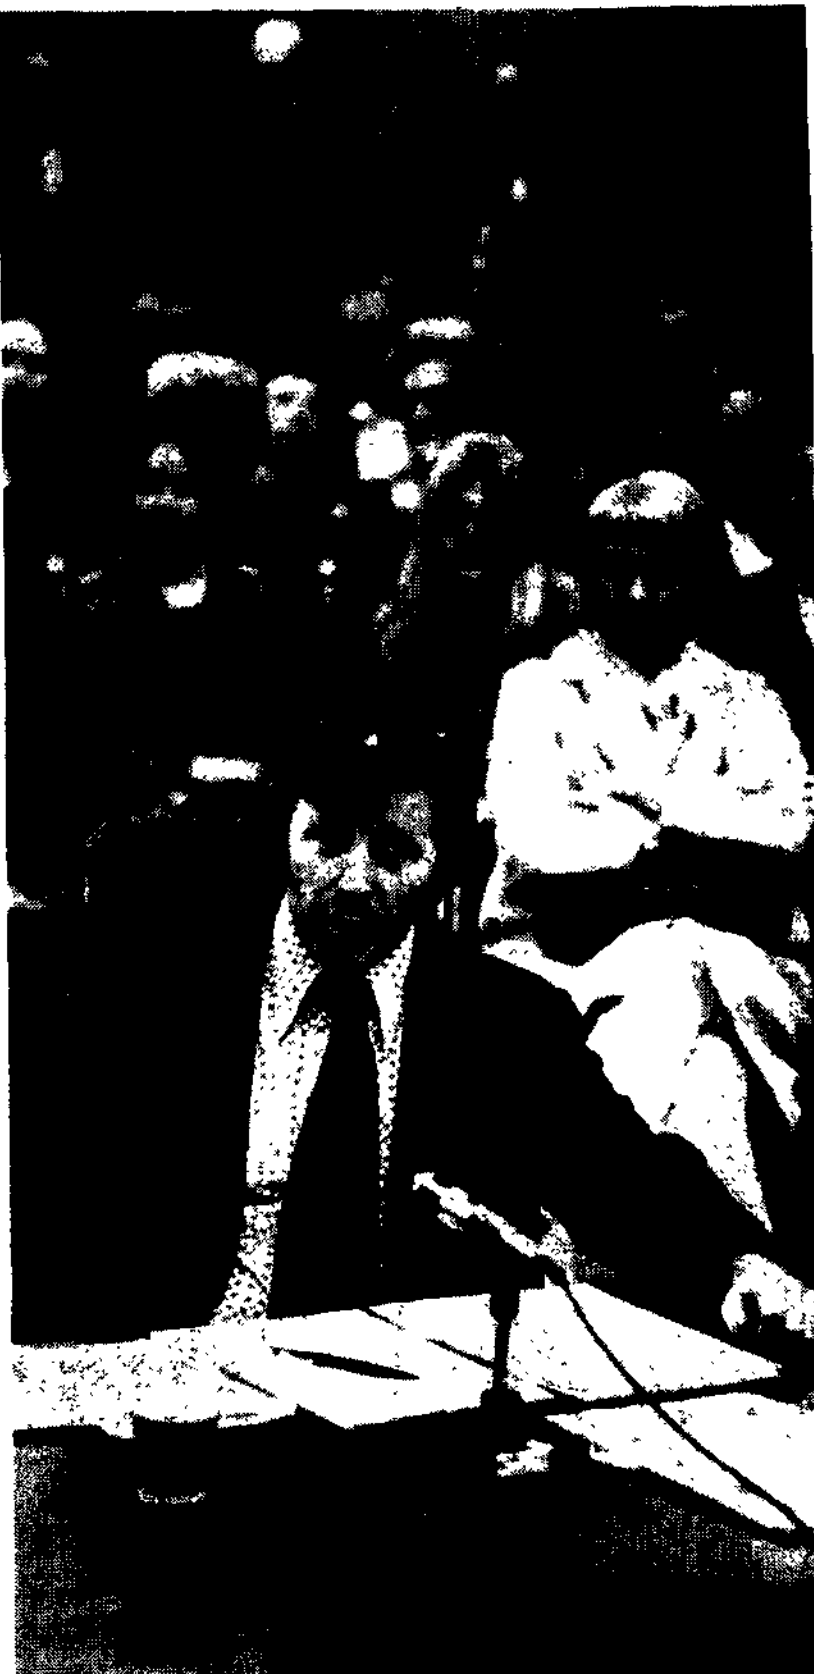

"IF YOU ARE really honest and sincere and want to do your job for these people, why don't you consider R-3," he said.

After the presentations were ended, zoning board member Ed Slepicka gave his thoughts on the major points of the objectors. He said he thought village ordinances would handle any potential flooding problems.

Turning to possible overcrowding of the schools, Slepicka noted that the local school board usually does not object to multi-family projects. "The only time the school board ever comes to protest is when we zone something single-family," he said.

Slepicka said he felt there was no answer to the traffic problem, and said the entire village is experiencing similar congestion. He added that if people were really concerned about the number of apartment projects coming into the village they would protest these developments. He said no one has protested such developments.

The recommendations of the zoning board will be forwarded to the village board which will take final action on the matter.

OBJECTORS TO the rezoning of the W. Strong Street area for multi-family development grimly listen while land-planner Rolf Campbell testifies in favor of the zoning. Campbell told the zoning board that R-4 zoning would allow developers to bring water and sewer lines into the village at considerably less cost per housing unit. Nearly 100 persons attended the hearing.

Principals to be named

The schedule of principals for Dist. 21 schools next year will be announced tonight by the school board at its regular meeting.

The session is set for 8:15 p.m. in the board room of the Dist. 21 administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd.

The board is to consider the list of principal assignments recommended by Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill.

According to tonight's meeting agenda, Ray Lee, principal of Sandburg School in Wheeling, plans to announce his retirement. Carl Ripley III, presently an instructor at the school, is scheduled to replace Lee next year.

In a memo to the board, Gill said of Lee, "We are very grateful for the contributions Ray has made during his time in Dist. 21. He has undoubtedly experienced many rewarding moments in his 38 years in public school education. We hope for him many more rewarding moments and much contentment in his retirement."

IN OTHER BUSINESS tonight, the board will consider a preliminary draft (Continued on page 3)

After attacking his "liberal policies" for more than two hours, Senate Republicans blocked committee approval of David Fogel, Gov. Daniel Walker's choice to head the state Department of Corrections. The 13 Republican members of the Senate executive committee overpowered the nine Democrats and sent to the full Senate a recommendation that Fogel's appointment be rejected. The Senate is expected to take up the matter today. A majority vote would override the committee action and approve Fogel's appointment, but that would take at least one Republican vote added to the Senate's 29 Democrats.

Supreme Court splits 5-4

Property tax use for schools upheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled constitutional today the use of local property taxes to finance public schools.

The Court split 5 to 4 in the decision. In a Texas case, the court was asked to decide the system that tends to ignore differences between rich and poor school districts violated the Constitution's guarantee of "equal protection of the laws."

Speaking for the five-man majority, Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. said the system is concededly imperfect, but said it bears a rational relationship to a legitimate state purpose.

Powell said while assuring basic education for every child in the state, it permitted and encouraged participation in and significant control of each district's school at the local level.

Only Hawaii finances its schools directly out of state revenues. Other states lean heavily on local property taxes.

CRITICS OF the system argued school districts with valuable property can provide a high-quality education at a low tax rate, while those with low-value property must get along with inferior schools even though the tax rate is higher.

Dissenters in the decision were Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr., Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall.

Texas finances its public schools through both state and local participation. The state provides about half the School officials surprised at ruling

by WANDALYN RICE

Local school officials expressed some surprise yesterday at the U.S. Supreme Court ruling on the Texas case which challenged the use of local property taxes for school financing.

At the same time, several officials said they were concerned that the ruling would slow efforts to change state school aid formulas that are now under way in the legislature.

The Supreme Court ruling in the Rodriguez case has been long discussed and awaited by school officials who believed that if the court ruled that local property tax financing was unconstitutional, states would be forced to increase the amount of aid available for schools.

Supt. Donald Strong, of Arlington Heights Dist. 25, said yesterday he believes the fight for increased state support of education will now shift to state courts because of the Supreme Court ruling.

"Even if the U.S. Constitution does not funds and each district supplements them through a property tax.

The Texas case was initiated in 1968 by 15 parents and children who protested use of property tax for financing schools in San Antonio's Edgewood Independent School District, a Mexican-American community. A special three-judge federal court which ruled in their favor was reversed by the Powell opinion.

The lower federal panel said despite its high tax rate, Edgewood produced a meager $21 per pupil from local property taxes, while a lower rate in more affluent Alamo Heights provided $307 per pupil.

A similar ruling was handed down by the California Supreme Court in 1971 in a case which went back to Los Angeles and was recently tried there.

The Texas panel found wealth was a "suspect" classification, as race had been found by the Supreme Court to be suspect when constitutional rights it deems "fundamental" have been denied.

POWELL HELD, however, the Texas system did not disadvantage any "suspect" class of people. He said it had not been shown to discriminate against any definable class of poor.

He said further the school financing system did not interfere with a fundamental right or liberty because education was not within the limited category of rights guaranteed by the constitution.

Powell emphasized in his majority opinion that the lawsuit involved most difficult and delicate questions of local taxation, fiscal planning, educational policy and the relationship between the federal government and the states — considerations which call for restraint on the part of the Supreme Court.

"The consideration and initiation of fundamental reforms with respect to state taxation and education are matters reserved for the legislative processes of the various states, and we do no violence to the values of federalism and separation of powers by staying our hand," Powell said.

Cost of living increase greatest in 22 years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government said Wednesday that in the first full month of President Nixon's Phase III controls, the cost of living in February scored its biggest increase in 22 years as food prices went up at the highest rate on record.

And in more bad news for consumers, an administration spokesman predicted that prices, especially for food, would continue going up sharply in the next few months, but hopefully would level out by the end of the year.

Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers held open the possibility the White House would reimpose the full range of Phase II mandatory price controls to stem the sharp inflation, but gave no indication that controls would be put on the exempt farm products — the main source of the present inflation.

"We are prepared to move," Stein told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, "but it is not clear the best move would be to reintroduce the formalities of Phase II."

STEIN testified after the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that the Consumer Price Index CPI went up 0.8 per cent in February after seasonal adjustment, the largest monthly increase since the same month in 1951 during the Korean War.

Two-thirds of the February inflation came from higher food prices, the BLS said, as the cost of food in grocery stores went up an all-time high of 2.4 per cent after seasonal adjustment, surpassing the old highs of 2 per cent in January and March of 1958. Prices also went up for gasoline, rents, fuel oil, clothing and on property taxes.

Stein said a 5.4 per cent jump in meat prices alone accounted for 40 per cent of the higher cost of living last month. The BLS said the 5 per cent seasonally adjusted price increase for meats, poultry and fish was the largest since June of 1965.

Village board candidates rap administration

Candidates charge village with inaction on flooding

by LYNN ASINOF

Two village board candidates have charged Wheeling officials with failure to act on flood control measures and a lack of cooperation with regional agencies on flood problems.

Don D. Jackson, 1313 Berkshire Dr., and Constance L. Heitkotter, 158 St. Armand Ln., both members of the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) ticket, made the charges at Monday night's village board meeting.

Jackson and Mrs. Heitkotter had asked last week to speak at the meeting and were allowed to address the board as residents, not candidates for office. Both are seeking village trustee posts.

The board, which includes two trustees and Village Pres. Ted Scanlon running for reelection on the To Overall Progress (TOP) Party ticket, has criticized opposition candidates for using board meetings as a political forum.

JACKSON READ copies of two letters to village officials from the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD). One, dated September, 1972, discussed three possible projects for the Heritage Park retention basin and offered partial funding for one of the projects. The other letter, dated November, 1972, asked for information on a proposed site for a retention basin in Wheeling.

"As of 4 o'clock today, you had not answered the letters," Jackson told the board. He said it was regrettable the board was not combating flood problems. "But that they were not even acknowledged is inexcusable," he said.

After a discussion of the letters and village flood control programs, George Passolt, village manager, said he has not replied by letter to the sanitary district but has been in contact with MSD officials.

Passolt explained that the letter about the Heritage Park retention basin dealt with three village suggestions to increase the basin's flood control capacity. He said the MSD was offering only partial funding for the one project that the village did not want.

According to Passolt, the MSD was offering to pay part of the cost of a pumping station to pump water from the basin into the creek. He said the same effect would be achieved by dredging the creek, a project which is now in the planning stages.

PASSOLT later said he did not answer the other letter because he was involved with more immediate flooding problems. He said the proposed retention basin site was a long way in the future.

"I've been concentrating on things where we can do something right away," he said. "I know this is a long way away."

Mrs. Heitkotter's complaints were based on a previous statement by Trustee Edward Berger that Wheeling was five to six years ahead of the other nearby communities in flood control. She said she had seen no proof of this statement, particularly when Wheeling was no longer a member of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). She said NIPC was one local agency that was providing flood control guidance through such means as drawing up model flood control ordinances. She asked why the village has not adopted these codes and is not participating in NIPC planning.

Berger said the five-to-six-year figure was based on the fact that Wheeling began its flood control program about seven years ago.

"Where we were then, some of these villages are now," he said. "We're here. They're just talking about it."

OTHER TRUSTEES explained that the village was not giving NIPC financial support because the agency was not really doing anything. In the past, Berger said, a village representative attended the meetings. "All they were doing was giving a lot of lip service and not really doing anything," he said.

Mrs. Heitkotter continued her charge that the village had not adopted NIPC's model ordinance. She said the present village flood plain ordinances do not take into consideration the water that comes to rest naturally on flood plain land.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer told Mrs. Heitkotter that Wheeling had adopted the original model ordinances proposed by NIPC.

"We were one of the first villages in the State of Illinois to adopt flood plain ordinances," he said. He added the ordinances have since been modified and have been referred to the village engineer for further study.

Hamer, who said he was a graduate civil engineer, then explained some of the difficulties the village has had in enacting flood control programs. He said various agencies recommend different standards in flood control capacities, and the village had to find out which standard to use.

"There is constant conflict as to who is going to have jurisdiction over this thing," he said.

When Mrs. Heitkotter asked why the village had not enacted a moratorium on building in the flood plain, Hamer said that such a moratorium was one of two alternatives.

"THEY HAVE the alternative of either having a moratorium or enacting flood plain regulations," he said.

Hamer then explained to Mrs. Heitkotter how engineers compute required storage capacities for retention basins to account for both the runoff and the amount of water that would come to rest on that land.

Before the discussion ended, Jackson read a letter from the MSD that blamed local flooding on high-density building along the creek. The trustees responded by saying the MSD had issued permits for all the building which they now say is the cause of the flooding.

Jackson said he did not consider MSD standards adequate. "Ours is the lowest there is, and theirs is the same," he said. "They are minimal standards." He then urged that the village should have a qualified engineer who could review such projects.

The trustees pointed out that they did have a qualified engineer who routinely reviews each project.

of the proposed policy manual for school board operation. The manual is reviewed and updated annually, according to Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger.

Gill is set to report on the status of bills currently before the Illinois General Assembly pertaining to education. He will also discuss his recent trips to two professional meetings.

Following the regular business portion of the meeting, the board plans to conduct an executive session to discuss the progress of negotiations on the 1973-74 teacher contract.

Negotiating teams representing the district and the Wheeling Faculty Council (WFC) have conducted four sessions. Since meetings are closed to the public, it is not known if agreement between the two teams is near. The next session is scheduled for April 2.

An Arlington Heights man was charged late Tuesday with kidnaping a 16-year-old Des Plaines food store clerk after he robbed the store and took her hostage at gunpoint, according to police.

The girl, Deborah Cook, 1805 Pine St., was released unharmed about a half hour later in Oak Park, where she called police.

Her alleged abductor, Roy Stover, 24, was captured later by Cook County Sheriff's police outside his home, 702 Haven St., and charged with kidnaping and armed robbery.

DES PLAINES police said Stover walked into the Convenient Food Mart, 1920 Mannheim Rd., shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday night and pretended to buy groceries. He displayed a pistol and threatened Miss Cook and night manager Charles Davis, 1852 Mannheim Rd., demanding money, police said.

Stover was given $55 cash, and told the two employees to lie on the floor behind the counter, police said.

Two unidentified customers then entered the store and Stover ordered Miss Cook into his car and drove off.

Using the license number of Stover's car obtained by Davis, plus description of an auto used in a Feb. 28 holdup of another Des Plaines food store, police traced his identity.

DES PLAINES detectives then staked out the Algonquin-Elmhurst Road Shell Service Station, where Stover was to report for work at midnight. He has been employed at the station since December.

But a night attendant at the station told police Stover called to say he would be late for work because he wanted to change clothes at home.

Stover was then arrested at home by sheriff's police, who said they found a gun and money in his car. A search of his house later turned up the clothes Stover wore in the robbery, police said.

STOVER ALSO WAS charged in connection with the Feb. 28 hold-up in Des Plaines and March 9 robbery in Mount Prospect. On Feb. 28, police said, he struck clerk Dale Baumann with an ice tea jar and took $100 cash from the 7-Eleven Store, 578 Thacker St., Des Plaines.

Arlington man charged with kidnaping

In the Mount Prospect robbery, Stover pistol-whipped Mary Kozel, 140 Morrison Ave., Mount Prospect, an employee of Western Fashion Store, 1749 W. Golf Rd., police said.

He fled with $90 cash and Mrs. Kozel was hospitalized with a fractured skull at Northwest Community Hospital, where she is now in good condition.

Stover, who was once convicted in Maryland of sexual assault, was charged with kidnaping and two counts of armed robbery by Des Plaines police. Mount Prospect police have charged him with armed robbery and armed violence.

He is currently being held in lieu of a total of $125,000 bond. Stover will appear today in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court and is scheduled for an April 23 appearance in the Mount Prospect circuit court branch.

Arlington's ex-POW in good shape

Army Staff Sgt. John A. Young, a five-year Viet Cong prisoner of war, is listed in good condition at Fitzsimmons General Hospital and may return home to Arlington Heights this weekend.

Officials at Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Aurora, Colo., said yesterday a release date has not been set but that it is possible Young could be released over the weekend. Details on his arrival in Illinois were not available.

Young has been undergoing a series of routine tests since he arrived at Fitzsimmons from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines last Sunday.

Hospital officials said his condition was listed as good. He is being treated for parasites, slight malnutrition, some dental problems and an old fracture of the left leg that has healed over.

Today, Young is undergoing radiology

tests, nerve conduction tests, an examination by an orthopedic physician, psychiatric tests and administrative discussions.

Young, whose wife Erica and sons John, 7, and Steven, 4, live in Arlington Heights, reportedly has been linked to antiwar statements and actions in prison camps of North Vietnam.

THE 70,000-SQUARE-FOOT Courtesy Home Center is opening its doors tonight at its new location at 700 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect. The home improvement center will officially open at 7 p.m. with ribbon cutting ceremonies.

Alcott PTA to feature gymnastics, ice cream

A gymnastics exhibition and ice cream social will highlight the March 28 Alcott School PTA meeting.

The regular business portion of the meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Students in the primary grades are set to perform at 7:15 p.m. Pupils in the intermediate grades will take the stage at 8 p.m.

Miss Wood, physical education instructor at Alcott School is in charge of the entire gymnastics program that is entitled "What the Kids Do in Class."

During the show, student art and science projects will be on display in the classrooms. Parents are encouraged to visit their children's rooms to view the projects while their children are not performing.

At the intermission of the gymnastics show and following the performances, ice cream sandwiches, ice cream cups and brownies will be on sale. Free coffee will be served.

3 school incumbents still are unopposed

The three incumbents who have filed nominating petitions to participate in the Dist. 125 school board election remained unopposed yesterday. Tomorrow is the deadline for filing.

There are two three-year terms and one one-year term available on the school board.

Edward Smith, 7 Springside Ct., Buffalo Grove, and John Balmes, 10 Portshire Dr., Lincolnshire, are running for the three-year terms.

Rex Reade, 1207 Riverwoods Rd., Lake Forest, is the unchallenged candidate for the one-year term.

The election is scheduled for April 14.

Intravenous fluid bottles recalled

About 60 bottles of intravenous fluid that may be contaminated have been recalled from Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, a hospital spokesman said yesterday.

"To our knowledge none of the contaminated fluid has been given to patients," said Burton Chatner, vice president of hospital administration.

Cutter Laboratories, which makes the solution known as Cutter IV, is recalling 60,000 one-liter bottles of the fluid. The recall started Friday after three women at a Milwaukee medical center suffered blood infections after being given the solution. One of the women died.

Chatner said Northwest Community, like other Chicago area hospitals, was notified of the recall Tuesday. Officials at three other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs — Holy Family, Alexian Brothers and Lutheran General — said they did not stock Cutter IV.

Currently, two patients at Northwest are receiving the solution, but have not been given any from contaminated lots, Chatner said. The recall concerns only one-liter bottles manufactured in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Chatner said the recall "will not cause any problem here." He said Northwest has half-liter bottles of the solution and other lots not made in Tennessee in stock.

The Food and Drug Administration

(FDA) has been studying the matter to see if they can find a conclusive link between the intravenous fluid and the three infection cases. Cutter spokesmen say there is no proof any contamination of the fluid occurred before the hospital received it.

A fourth possible infection has been reported at the Community Hospital in Springfield, Ohio, where a woman developed a high fever after gynecological surgery last Friday. Cutter IV fluid was used in the operation, but a hospital spokesman said the hospital has not connected the fever incident to the fluid. The FDA has also been studying that case, officials said.

Math-science fair Saturday at Wheeling

Wheeling High School will host its sixth Annual Math-Science Fair Saturday. Approximately 400 entries are expected from students in grades 7 through 12. The fair is sponsored by the north suburban region of the Illinois Junior Academy of Science.

Entries this year will include a DNA Study, a planarium, and several ecological projects. The projects will be judged between 8 a.m. and 12 noon by teachers and representatives of industry. Award winning projects will be entered in the state competition scheduled later this spring in Champaign, Illinois.

The fair will be held in the Wheeling High School field house, and will be open to the public after noon.

3 from Wheeling in state speech finals

Three Wheeling High School students qualified for the state speech finals to be held in Bloomington, Ill. at the end of the month.

At the sectional meet in Woodstock on March 17, Jan Egan won a 1st place for dramatic interpretation, Dan Adomitis placed second in radio speaking, and Pam Menas placed third in verse reading. The three will participate in the state finals March 30 and 31.

COG backs special-service tax areas

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The Cook County Council of Governments (COG) yesterday endorsed pending enabling legislation to allow home-rule municipalities to create special-service areas for taxing purposes.

COG Executive Committee members voted to support bills allowing local mu-

Mountain of bills await action in legislature

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The subjects ranged from soybeans to slingshots as House and Senate committees bit into a mounting pile of bills awaiting consideration in the Illinois General Assembly.

Along the way, various committees approved several sales tax relief measures, but rejected the plan offered by Gov. Daniel Walker in his budget; postponed for another week any vote on a bill to ban private ownership of handguns, and approved a bill establishing a five-member state board of elections to oversee balloting in all areas of the state.

Tax relief was the major interest in the House Revenue Committee. That panel, on a vote of 16-8, approved a bill sponsored by House Speaker W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, to cut the state share of the sales tax on food and medicine from 4 per cent to 2 per cent.

THE COMMITTEE also approved, 23-0, a bill sponsored by Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, which would eliminate the sales tax altogether on prescriptive drugs. But the members rejected, 12-10, a plan similar to Walker's to grant income tax exemptions in lieu of direct sales tax relief.

THE HOUSE Judiciary Committee, delayed by a steady stream of opponents, held off for a week on a bill which would ban private ownership of handguns. More than 200 persons appeared to testify against the bill, which is sponsored by Rep. Leland Rayson, D-Tinley Park. But Rayson said the Legislative Reference Bureau had not completed an amendment he wants added to the bill and, rather than vote on an incomplete bill, the committee put the measure over until its next meeting.

A few moments later, however, the panel approved a bill which would ban the sale or manufacture of slingshots in the state. The sponsor, Rep. Bruce Douglas, D-Chicago, said he submitted the bill after being alerted to injuries caused by the weapons.

Douglas also said his bill would outlaw "slings" and "slingshots," which he said are different from slingshots. He said he found the differentiation in Black's Law Dictionary while doing research on his bill.

Jayne trial may open next week

The trial of three men accused of the 1970 murder of Inverness horseman George Jayne is expected to begin next week.

The trial had been postponed until today, but Assistant State's Atty. Nicholas Motherway said today's session will be only for a status report to the judge.

Gerald Alch and F. Lee Bailey, the two attorneys defending Silas Jayne and Joseph LaPlaca on the murder charges, are involved in other trials. Once those trials end, the Jayne trial will begin.

Alch told the Herald Monday he does not expect either of the two trials to be finished this week. He estimated that the Jayne trial would begin next Tuesday at the earliest.

Silas Jayne, LaPlaca and the accused triggerman, Julius Barnes, have been awaiting trial on the murder charges in Cook County Jail since May, 1971.

municipalities to tax portions of their communities for specific improvements without taxing the entire community.

The legislation is designed to permit municipalities to use a provision of the 1970 state constitution permitting the creation of special-service areas.

By using the provision, communities could provide improvements for a fraction of the cost under special assessment procedures, COG members said.

The legislation is necessary because the Illinois Supreme Court handed down a ruling preventing the Village of Oak Park from using the provision without specific enabling legislation enacted by the general assembly.

PARALLEL legislation for non-home rule communities is also expected to be introduced in the Illinois General Assembly.

Two of the bills endorsed by COG have been approved by the Senate and are on their way to the House. Two others are coming out of a House committee to be considered by the full House.

Oak Park Village Mgr. Lee Ellis, speaking for Village Pres. John Gearon, explained the bills "need all the support they can get," because of "partisan infighting" in the legislature.

Ellis said some suburban legislators have opposed the bill on the ground they would give Cook County the power to build low-income housing in the suburbs. He said those arguments are merely "scare talk" and are "specious."

Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher said his village has faced problems providing improvements within the three separate drainage districts in Schaumburg — Salt Creek, DuPage River and Poplar Creek.

ATCHER SAID special assessments mean a 20 to 25 per cent hike in costs for any improvements. Residents living in two drainage basins will often oppose work in the third drainage basin and referenda fail, he said.

Atcher urged support of the enabling legislation. "There is not the need for costly special assessment steps with special service areas, and you can pay a contractor in cash," he said.

Also yesterday COG Executive Director Roland Schlegel said the Suburban Mass Transit Coordinating Committee is undertaking a special study of financing for a unified mass transit district.

He said a subcommittee will compile information on various means of financing, and area communities will be asked to comment on the funding proposals prior to a meeting, scheduled for May 5, of the coordinating committee.

Atcher said he believes the accent will be on additional motor fuel taxes to be used only to finance mass transit. The tax would be levied only in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area, he said.

Legislators seek overpass funds

Two suburban legislators are seeking state funds for construction of a railroad grade separation in Franklin Park.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Howard R. Mohr, R-Forest Park, assistant Senate majority leader, and Rep. Jack B. Williams, D-Franklin Park, asks an appropriation of $3 million for the project. Williams said it is also hoped that a federal grant of $1 million to $2 million could be secured to supplement the state grant.

Mohr and Williams, in addition to their state legislative posts, are mayors of their communities. Both are from the 5th Legislative District, which includes about half of the city of Des Plaines.

The grade separation they propose would carry Fullerton Avenue over the Indiana Harbor Beltline Railroad.

Williams said 117 trains pass the Fullerton Avenue crossing daily, resulting in unreasonable traffic tie-ups that sometimes produce back-ups of cars for more than a mile on both sides of the track.

Williams said he considered construction of an overpass the responsibility of the state because the trains which come into the area are involved in interstate commerce and that heavy industrial development there attracts a massive number of automobiles from other areas in Illinois and other states.

The bill proposed by Williams and Mohr would designate River Road and Fullerton Avenue as state highways in order to qualify the project for federal funds.

Firm told to return money

A Cook County judge Tuesday was issued an order that will enable thousands of Illinois residents to recover money they lost in a "get rich quick scheme" operated by the Holiday Magic cosmetic firm of California.

Circuit Court Judge Walter P. Dahl has ordered Holiday Magic to reimburse anyone who invested more than $2,500 in the firm and can show he made the investment because of "false, deceptive or misleading representations."

Illinois Atty. Gen. William Scott, who announced the decision at a news conference, said Holiday Magic has agreed to the reimbursements.

Scott said thousands of Illinois residents have invested a total of $5 million in the firm in the past few years, and he called it "one of the cruelest types of get-rich-quick schemes."

SCOTT SAID Holiday Magic operated on a "pyramid marketing" concept. Persons who put money into the company were expected to recruit other distributors.

"In a pyramid marketing scheme," Scott said, distributors make money not through direct sales to consumers, but rather by head-hunting — that is, by earning commissions by recruitment of new distributors."

Scott said the firm preyed upon blacks and Latinos especially and got many persons "to invest their life savings in the company."

Holiday Magic, he said, was the largest "pyramid marketing" type of company operating in Illinois. Suits have been filed against the firm in at least 14 other states, he said, but this is one of the first orders obtained against it.

Another pyramid-type firm, Koscot Interplanetary, a Florida-based cosmetic firm, already has paid $300,000 to Illinois residents due to an earlier court order.

Scott said Holiday Magic had advertised falsely that housewives could earn more than $9,000 a year through part-time work, and that an average distributor should be able to recruit two new distributors a week, and earn up to $100,000 a year.

Scott said the only ones who got rich from the Holiday program were the promoters — or the persons on top of the pyramid.

Morton won't seek another Harper College board term

Harper College board member Joseph Morton has announced he will not run for reelection in the April 14 board election. Morton, a resident of Arlington Heights, is completing a three-year term on the board. In a prepared statement, Morton said, "After careful consideration I have decided not to stand for reelection to the William Rainey Harper college board of trustees. The three year term on the board has been for me exceedingly interesting and edifying."

"The associations with fellow board members, President (Robert) Lahti and the other administrators, the faculty and students have been rewarding and have convinced me that Harper College is serving our district's expectation and need for a quality community college," he added.

Morton's announcement means that two incumbents will seek reelection in the April election. Board Pres. Jessalyn Nicklas has filed for another three-year board term and William Kelly, who was appointed to the board in January, has filed for the one year remaining on the unexpired term of Eugene Nugent.

Two other candidates also have filed for the two three-year terms. They are William Clair of Buffalo Grove and Robert Bromley of Rolling Meadows. Nominating petitions for the board require equal funding of education," Strong said, "the constitution of a given state might require adjustments in state aid."

High court's property tax ruling surprises local officials

In addition, he said educators will continue pressuring the legislature for increased funding. "Even if it's not a Constitutional matter, it is still a matter of principal," he said.

SUPT. JAMES ERVITI of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 said he was "a little bit surprised but not too surprised" by the decision. "It was one of those cases that could go either way," he added. The case will probably give legislatures across the country the chance to back off from major changes in support of schools, Erviti added. Referring to a portion of the majority decision that says changes should come from legislatures through the democratic process, Erviti added, "I think the court is probably just talking when it says the democratic process is going to do something because the democratic process produced what we have."

Although the court decision may not immediately affect Illinois law, officials also speculated that it might give more impetus to studies on formation of unit school districts in the area.

Unit school districts, which include kindergarten through twelfth grade, currently receive more state school aid than separate elementary and secondary districts in Illinois. Critics have said the Supreme Court might wipe out that financial advantage.

GEORGE CONEY, chairman of the Dist. 59 Citizens Reorganization Study Committee that is studying the question of unit districts, said the Supreme Court ruling "supports any financial advantage for a unit district. We have said that there was a short-term financial advantage for unit districts, but this might turn it into a long-term advantage."

Even so, Coney said the main concern of the committee will be the effect unit district formation will have on quality education in the area. "Financial advantage is about third on our list," he said.

Dianne Marks, president of the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board who has been critical of another unit district study now under way in her area, said a court case challenging the Illinois law which benefits unit school districts will still have to be decided by the courts.

Even if that case is affected by yesterday's ruling, Miss Marks said, "I don't think any unit district should be formed on a financial basis. It should be formed on the basis of the best thing for education."

State School Supt. Michael Bakalis said the Supreme Court decision was "a great disappointment and will make the task of bringing equal educational opportunities to all the people of the state — no matter whether they live in a rich or poor area — that much longer and that much harder."

Bakalis added that he will continue to fight in the legislature to increase state funding of education from the present level to at least 50 per cent of the costs.

YOUR MONEY...

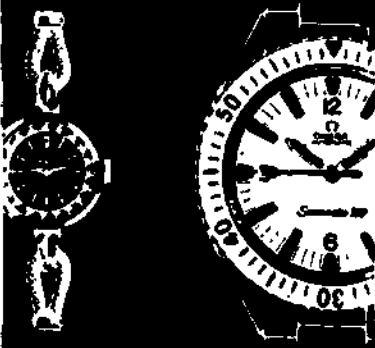

They say "you can't have your cake and eat it too." And like most adages, this one has a lot of truth in it. You generally can't for instance, enjoy all the luxuries you want and still have the cushion of savings you need. But there are exceptions. One of the rewards about having a large enough "nest egg" of savings deposited with us is that the high dividends earned annually can make it possible for you to enjoy extra luxuries without touching the savings itself.

In other words, your annual dividends add up to a lot more than you think as your savings build up. Many savers use those dividends to pay for the "extras" ... that vacation trip, special Christmas gift, new car down payment, and many other things ... without having to deplete their savings. Start regularly with us now ... and you'll be surprised how quickly the savings add up, and how the dividends accumulate, until you, too, can start to "have your cake and eat it, too."

The Almanac

Today is Thursday, March 22, the 81st day of 1973 with 284 to follow. The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars, Mercury and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries. American physicist Robert Millikan was born March 22, 1898.

On this day in history: In 1791, Congress enacted legislation forbidding slave trading with foreign nations.

In 1874, the Young Men's Hebrew Association was founded in New York City. In 1941, the Grande Coulee Dam on the Columbia River began producing electrical power for the Pacific Northwest.

In 1968, President Lyndon Johnson recalled Gen. William Westmoreland as commander of U.S. troops in Vietnam and made him Army chief of staff. Gen. Creighton Abrams took over in Saigon.

A thought for the day: British poet Letitia Elizabeth Landon said, "Few, save the poor, feel for the poor."

Frances M. Hudson

Funeral Mass for Mrs. Frances M. Hudson, 76, nee Benedict, of Chicago, formerly of Des Plaines, will be said at 10 a.m. today in St. Mary Catholic Church, 794 Pearson St., Des Plaines. Burial will be in St. Boniface Cemetery, Chicago.

Solutions seen to Alexian sex discrimination gripes

Female employees of Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village apparently are satisfied that their complaints of sex discrimination are being considered seriously and will be resolved.

The group of women, technicians in the radiology department, met last night with Gordon Rice, their department supervisor, to learn the hospital administration's official response to a letter sent in February listing grievances.

Meanwhile, the department is running smoothly and the problems noted in the letter are less evident now than they were before, said the spokeswoman for the group.

"Our demands are not that extreme. They are things they (administrators) can meet, that maybe they weren't aware of before," said Nancy Moore, representative of the group.

AMONG THE technicians' concerns were alleged discrepancies in salaries, promotions and hiring practices between qualified men and women working at the same jobs. Lack of clarification of professional liability in malpractice cases involving technicians, uncertainty about plans for future staff expansion by the administration, and poor communication between hospital levels of command.

Five of the 17 technicians are men, and they have joined with the women in most complaints, an unofficial spokesman has said. All but one of the men holds a supervisory position, while the highest position a woman in the department holds is floor coordinator, said the source.

The technicians also have asked for review of their salaries in comparisons with hospitals in the area having similar workloads.

On dean's list

Veterans' News

Q) I am to be discharged from the service soon, and am interested in applying for a GI home loan. Where do I obtain the necessary information and forms, and how can I prepare for it now?

A) Upon separation you will receive your DD Form 214. Send a copy of this separation form with a letter stating your intention to buy a house to the nearest VA office.

Memorial Day parade sponsor seeks units

Arlington VFW Post 981 will host the annual Memorial Day parade and services in Arlington Heights Monday, May 28.

Persons wishing to participate should contact Edward R. Doyle, secretary of the Memorial Day Committee, 1221 S. Pine, Arlington Heights. The information should be received by April 27.

est VA office. You will receive a certificate of eligibility for a VA insured loan. The lending institution which finances your home will require a copy of the certificate.

Q) I received a General Discharge from the Army. Am I entitled to any GI Bill benefits?

A) Generally this type of discharge entitles you to the same benefits as an Honorable Discharge. Apply at your nearest VA Regional Office.

Q) A veteran's widow receiving pension died on June 15 and had in her possession a VA check for the month of May. Is this check payable to anyone?

A) The check must be returned to the disbursing office which issued it. It may then be paid, upon submission of a claim to the nearest VA office, to any children entitled to VA death benefits, or if no eligible children, then to the person or persons who bore the expense of the last illness or burial.

'Judge' Kerner should resign

More than a month has passed since former Illinois Governor Otto Kerner was convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud and income tax evasion.

More than 30 days have passed since a jury found Otto Kerner guilty on all counts — guilty beyond a reasonable doubt — and, simultaneously, guilty of violating the public trust.

Yet Otto Kerner remains a U.S. Appeals Court Judge. Officially he remains, "The Honorable Otto Kerner, Circuit Judge." Still he collects his salary at the rate of $42,500 a year.

That situation should not be permitted to continue.

Otto Kerner

Unfortunately, there has been no indication any action has been taken — indeed, even contemplated — to terminate Kerner's tenure in passing judgment on matters of federal concern.

There exist but two alternatives to bring about that termination: Either Kerner resigns or he be removed by impeachment.

The former, certainly, is to be preferred, and we urge Kerner to submit his resignation without delay.

Failing that, however — and we note Kerner has given no indication he plans to resign — we feel the necessity of maintaining integrity in our federal courts demands he be removed from office.

The process of impeachment requires the U.S. House of Representatives vote favorably on a resolution to impeach, thereby sending the matter to the Senate for trial.

A two-thirds vote of the senators present would be required for conviction and removal from office.

That machinery can be initiated by the introduction of a resolution in the House.

It would be appropriate for a representative from the State of Illinois to introduce such a resolution. We urge U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, and U.S. Rep. Sam Young, R-10th, either individually or jointly, take such action.

Additionally, we can see no reason for delaying the necessary procedures pending whatever avenue of appeal Kerner may choose to follow.

Once the verdict was returned in that federal courtroom last month, the presumption of innocence vanished. If Kerner decides to appeal his conviction — a process which could take years — he will do so under the presumption of guilt.

If he remains in office, Kerner will only further tarnish the integrity of the judiciary, justice and government. We find it intolerable that a person proven to have violated the trust of the public can continue to be paid by taxpayers' money — even to the extent he can be paid while serving time in a federal penitentiary.

Cook County Clerk Edward Barrett was removed immediately from office following his conviction on similar charges. While we recognize the law differs between the two cases, the equities are the same.

Kerner is a convicted felon and should neither serve the people nor be served by them any longer.

Horatio Alger's back

Millions of Americans who have only heard of Horatio Alger have a chance to do something no one has done since granddad's day, and that is to read a brand-new, never-before-published novel by the original Horatio Alger himself.

True, "Silas Snobden's Office Boy" originally appeared in serial form in Argosy magazine back in 1889-90, but the by-line was a pseudonym and only recently did a scholar discover that the story had never been published under Alger's name in book form.

Doubleday and Company has just rectified this oversight, bringing out the first new Alger book since 1910.

"Silas Snobden" follows the formula Alger used with slight variations in his scores of other books, that of the poor but industrious — and above all, honest — young man working his way up the ladder of success.

But before he gets his foot on the first rung of that ladder, the hero — as did all Alger heroes — performs some act of bravery and daring that brings him to the attention of the man who rewards him with a yank up.

It may be the thwarting of a robbery, the recovering of some valuable possession, the stopping of a runaway horse, the rescue of the bank president's daughter, etc.

In other words, the element of luck is as important as pluck to the typical Horatio Alger hero, a fact usually ignored when those heroes are held up as examples.

That being the case, aside from its curiosity value, "Silas Snobden's Office Boy" will have little to say to today's poor but industrious youths.

After all, how many runaway horses are there these days? And while it can be argued that the decrease in the number of escapades equines has been more than offset by the rise in the number of muggers prowling the streets, there simply aren't that many bank presidents' daughters in peril at any given time.

What with the abolition of the Office of Economic Opportunity and cutbacks in job training programs and the like, the country could sure use a few.

Center cut 'political'

Reading the Rolling Meadows Herald last week really was a very discouraging experience. It was hard to believe that some members of our city council who at one time fought to have the cross incorporated on our city stickers were now debating whether or not they would give $2,000 to the Northwest Opportunity Center, an organization dedicated to helping families that are in need in our own community.

One day Assistant Welfare Officer Schmitt made headlines by stating that since the welfare office of the city helps those in need, the Northwest Opportunity Center should not get any funds. Re-reading all the articles it does not appear that either organization's services overlap the other one's. They both are dedicated to helping those in our city who for some legitimate reason or another are not able to help themselves. Together they are asking $5,000 or possibly $7,000 and it seems to me that this is a small amount of money to ask from a city our size.

On the day the headlines stated that the city won't stand behind its Welfare Office, an article on the front page left the impression that the city would be willing to pay $10,000 to get Wilke Road completed even though the developer of the land along Wilke had originally stated it would pay the full cost of the road, $10,000 for a road and not $7,000 for our fellow men — where are our priorities?

This very definitely is a political matter and I know I, for one, will want to know how my alderman will vote on giving funds to the Center and the Welfare Office. It will influence my vote and I think it should. If you are electing a man to represent you he should vote as you would like him to. I'm sure if a vote were taken, the biggest majority of Rolling Meadows residents would be willing to help those less fortunate than themselves.

Just when I was beginning to lose faith in humanity a teen-aged girl approached me and asked if I would like to chaperone a dance at St. Colette's on April 7. It seems that several local rock groups have volunteered their time for that evening and are playing in the church basement and all the proceeds of the dance will go to the Northwest Opportunity Center. It seems these teenagers heard of the trouble the Center is facing and were willing to do their share to help.

'Top Secret' can be comical

by BOB LAHEY
Political Editor

Maybe it is just because the controversy over the Pentagon Papers brought it to consciousness that that word "classified" seems to be cropping up so much in the news.

In a newspaper at hand, there is a Page 1 story from a foreign correspondent contending that the government is releasing, piecemeal, bits of Secret and Top Secret information — which remain "classified" after being broadcast to the world press — to prepare the public for some bad news brewing in Vietnam.

On Page 2 there is a story which relates testimony of a former government security man who said that the indiscriminate use of the "classified" label has taught foreign intelligence analysts that the labels don't mean a thing. An intelligence expert, he said, wouldn't give any added weight to information culled from a document which bore that tired label "Top Secret."

Anyone who has had any remote experience with the classifying of documents in the U.S. military can appreciate the picture of some superspy being handed a passel of Top Secret U.S. documents and yawning, "So what?"

Some years ago — and there is no reason to suspect that things have changed — rules for classification of documents at an establishment known as the Army Intelligence School were so pervasive as to be comical.

Students at the school, for instance, were taught to enter on the top of every page of their notebooks the word "CONFIDENTIAL." This was in case one of them, most likely a buck private, should write down something in his steno pad which would result in the overthrow of the Republic, if a foreign spy happened to sneak by 800 MP's and filch it from his desk.

On one memorable occasion, a buck private was very nearly court-martialed because he left a blank notebook, with every page dutifully labeled "CONFIDENTIAL," lying in his footlocker.

Another student used to amuse himself during interminable lectures on the theory of Marxism by scrawling obscene limericks in his notebook. Classified CONFIDENTIAL, they were laid to rest each night in the school safe with the rest of the state secrets.

The trivial and inconsequential nature of classified material at that Army establishment sometimes boggled the mind. There was a movie about how to blow up a train, cleverly entitled "How To Blow Up a Train," and easily as funny as anything Laurel and Hardy ever did.

Daily, for years, dozens of budding intelligence specialists watched this SECRET movie, which must have been made by a bunch of East European gypsies in the late 1930's, and lustily cheered the little locomotive as various combinations of dynamite failed to derail it.

What value the lesson of the movie ever was to have for a bunch of buck privates in a peace-time Army was never made quite clear. But it was emphasized that even an acknowledgement that such a movie existed would constitute a grave danger to the national security.

There were veterans of the intelligence service around that citadel of secrecy who recalled when Army intelligence guardians stamped a SECRET label on a blueprint of the new B-17 bomber plane — which they had clipped from the pages of Popular Mechanics (or some such) magazine.

None of the foolishness accruing to these and similar examples, of course, says that there are not things which the government or the military must keep from prying eyes. The pity is that the abuse and misuse of the labels which government applies to ordinary information tend ultimately to render those labels meaningless.

Once a young buck private encountered a TOP SECRET document. It was during the course of an official snooping mission, known officially as a Security Inspection, and he was pawing through the unlocked desk of a high-ranking officer.

In a bottom drawer, easily available to numbers of foreign workers who prowled the building while the colonel slept, was the entire battle plan for the particular theater in case of war. It was labelled, quite properly, TOP SECRET.

The label had obviously lost its meaning to the colonel.

Word a day

those less fortunate than themselves. It might do us well to take an example from these young people.

Sometimes we get so caught up in the business of running a big city we try to cut corners in the wrong places. I'm sure $7,000 can be trimmed off our budget in a place that will not harm so many people desperately in need. You can be sure the $7,000 will be spent some place and will not be returned to the taxpayers so let's put it where it will do the most good. It's a good idea for all of us every now and then to sit down and read St. Matthew, 25: 31-46. That's what it's all about.

Hospital lauds story

Dear Billie Bachhuber:

What a fantastic article! Thanks so much for your generous allotment of time and your accurate and lively reporting of the activities of our department.

Since it came out yesterday we've gotten numerous compliments from hospital personnel, as well as phone calls from members of the community. I wish we could refer each compliment to you directly — you certainly deserve them.

Again, on behalf of the Social Service Staff, thank you so much.

Daniel A. MacLean,
Director
Social Service Department
Alexian Brothers
Medical Center
Elk Grove Village

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. MacLean is referring to an article which Mrs. Bachhuber wrote on social services at Alexian Brothers.

'Peace of mind' from first aid course

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank Hoffman Estates Deputy Fire Chief Ed Kalasa and his team of men who so graciously gave their time to present the six-week first aid course recently held at Vogeley Recreation Center.

Too often the efforts of these men are taken for granted and until a tragedy occurs like the recent Palatine disaster, the gratitude and esteem we hold for these men is shown too late for them to know how much they are needed and appreciated.

Mr. Kalasa presented the course with candor and patience, making it easy to learn and understand. While I hope the situation never arises where I may have to use the many procedures we learned, I know that accidents and emergencies are indiscriminate of age, time or place. Personally, the course gave me more peace of mind.

When the course is presented again, everyone would be doing themselves and their community a service by participating. Perhaps with more people instructed in the basics of first aid, the tremendous job these men do would be just a little easier.

Again, thanks so much.
Ginger Dickerson

'Boycott meat'

This is an invitation to all the oppressed meat-buying public to join a crusade regarding a cause that is relevant to every single one of us.

Shoppers from every salary level join together at the meat counter every week and commiserate with one another. Strangers discuss freely their mutual disbelief as prices soar in an unprecedented upward whirl. Yet every article on the subject tells us that we can stop the trend merely by banding together.

Across the country groups are being formed to this end. It has been proposed that if everyone would refrain from buying meat for one week the movement would have a noticeable impact on the prices. One week of hot dogs, canned meats or fish is not an impossible goal. We could all manage this small sacrifice. (To sneak a roast or chop from your freezer would not endanger the cause, you know, just so you don't buy it during the one-week boycott.)

Could we all make this effort work by boycotting the meat counters for the first week in April? Others have chosen this week — we would not be jousting with giants alone. The combined efforts of the meat-buying public could be an awe-inspiring stroke of power.

Please try to recruit everyone you meet. Please help this crusade and try to put some strength into your meat-buying dollar. It could be worth the effort.

Business Today

BY EDWARD S. LECHTIN
DETROIT (UPI) — The shrinking U.S. dollar is creating a sales headache for the imported cars in the $2,000 to $3,000 price range where the difference of a few dollars can mean a sale or no sale.

Imported car sales in February were the best ever — more than 145,000 — but their share of the U.S. market was sliced to 15.8 per cent from the even 16 per cent it had been in January. Sales of foreign cars are holding their own as domestic-make sales zoom to new records.

The imports' share of the market last year — following the December, 1971, dollar devaluation of 8.57 per cent — dropped to 14.7 per cent from 15.2 per cent in 1971.

MARCH RESULTS aren't in yet, but they'll probably reflect the increased prices of some European makes. The Japanese haven't increased prices yet because of large inventories that could last more than two months.

Volkswagen already has increased the price of its popular Beetle by $140 to $2,190. The sub-compact Ford Pinto comes in at $2,100, the Chevrolet Vega is $2,140 while the least expensive Toyota — the Corolla — is $1,990.

At that price level, a few dollars can make the difference in deciding what car to buy. For the higher-priced imports — the Mercedes-Benz, Porsche, Volvo, Jaguar and other specialty cars that are more than just a means of transportation — the upward price change won't have as much effect, industry observers say.

VOLVO INCREASED its prices by $200 effective April 1, but a devaluation of the Swedish crown almost immediately after the dollar helped keep the increase down to 5.5 per cent.

"Many of our competitors face a more difficult situation because the currencies of their countries have not responded as favorably as the Swedish crown," says Björn Ahlstrom, president of Volvo of America. "As a result, many of our competitors will be forced to absorb a more substantial share of the loss created by the dollar devaluation or pass on a greater share of it to their customers."

While the Japanese aren't expected to pass on the full costs of devaluation, they have either scaled down their sales estimates for 1973 or say they will come in close to predictions.

Japanese imports by the two largest firms — Toyota Motor Co. and Nissan Motor Co. — declined sharply in February even as sales were increasing. Both companies blamed the drop on large shipments the previous months in anticipation of currency realignments.

2% state tax to be shown in light bills

Electric bills processed after March 1 show the exact amount added to the bill for state tax.

The 2 per cent state tax has been included in the bill for years but previously was not shown separately.

City or municipal taxes, where applicable, will continue to be shown as usual.

Will branch banking finally be reality?

Branch banking's time has come, say some 300 bankers from throughout Illinois. This week, they're putting the finishing touches on a bill to allow the opening of commercial bank branch operations.

If all goes as planned, the bill should be approved by these members of the Association for Modern Banking in Illinois and sent to the Illinois General Assembly within a matter of weeks.

This is the report by Theodore "Ted" Roberts, a member of the group's executive committee and executive vice president at Harris Trust and Savings Bank in Chicago.

ROBERTS says the group, headed by Jack Charlton of Kankakee, is undaunted by the two-to-one rejection of a limited branching proposal by the Illinois Bankers Association membership earlier this year. "On a one-to-one bank basis, the rural banks in Illinois have a two-to-one majority over the larger banks in the state," he concedes. But Roberts contends that banks favoring branch operations represent a much larger chunk of Illinois bank customers.

"The better deal for the customer is always when there is a greater number of options," he says of the branching proposal. The association favors a flexible form of branching operations.

"Our proposal is to allow holding companies or branching, or a combination of the two," he said. On this basis, a commercial bank could choose the type of service best meeting the needs of its market area, said Roberts. Holding company branches would be restricted within metropolitan areas within a given county, or up to 20 miles.

The customer would gain services now unavailable in many areas, through branch operations, Roberts said. These include a greater number of facilities to conduct banking operations, trust services, computerized operations and investment counseling service. The price structure on loans for small-town investments would be more favorable with the greater assets achieved, he added.

CRITICISM of branching operations, which are practiced in some form in every state except Illinois, includes the potential lack of responsiveness to local capital needs. "The argument is that the branch manager would not have authority to lend money to local businesses," said Roberts. He said this is in theory only, citing the mammoth Bank of America, which has more than a thousand branch operations in California.

Another branching criticism is the possible dampening effect on competition among financial institutions. But to this Roberts counters, "The fact is that you would still have banks competing vigorously as in other states where you have branching."

The existence of a large number of chain (group) banking operations in Illinois could be cited in the move to legalize branching, he added.

"The fact that federally chartered savings and loan associations will be allowed to branch is another argument in favor of our bill," he said. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced earlier this year that it will allow federally chartered thrift associations to open branch facilities in Illinois as of July 1.

Roberts believes that all financial institutions should be given equal opportunities to open branch facilities. However, the Association for Modern Banking in Illinois leaves consideration for the opening of branches by state-chartered S&L's John Lanigan, Illinois savings and loan commissioner.

Arlington Fed. chief heads S&L Institute

Donald F. Morton, president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association, was installed last night as president of the American Savings and Loan Institute.

The installation was held during the institute's national conference in Denver, Colo.

Morton, who joined Arlington Heights Federal in 1955, has served as president since 1968. During this period the association's assets more than doubled to the present level of nearly $120 million.

The institute is the educational and professional arm of the savings and loan business. Its membership of 40,000 persons represents 5,500 savings and loan associations from every state. It sponsors educational programs for in-service development of employees, including on-campus programs for middle and advanced management. The institute also maintains a network of published communications.

West would have shown out and try as he might there would be no way to bring home the contract against the 4-0 trump split.

Lancelot decided that there was some slight possibility that East might hold all four missing trumps and that maybe he should find a way to lead trumps twice from dummy.

Therefore, Lancelot led a heart toward dummy's queen at trick two.

West took his king and led a second club. Lancelot won the trick, entered dummy with the queen of hearts and led a trump. East played low and Lancelot's 10 won the trick.

West showed out and now Lancelot was ready to get to dummy again. He simply led his ace of hearts and ruffed it. Then he led a second trump from dummy.

East had no way to get more than two trump tricks and the peerless one had won another battle.

GENERAL INFORMATION:

The village of Wheeling deserves much mention because of its rapid growth rate and its strategic location between the lake shore communities and the northwest suburbs.

Wheeling is fulfilling a trend toward suburbanizing the northwestern Chicago farmlands. New residential areas plus 9 industrial centers are being rapidly expanded on the south and west sides of town, as brick and combination buildings more and more replace the vast surrounding farmlands. Small shops and some older stores remain, but Wheeling is growing at an amazing rate. The Des Plaines River and its surrounding Forest Preserve forms the village's eastern boundary. The village was incorporated in 1894 and has become a famous shopping area for gardening, patio, and unique household wares.

SCHOOLS:

Within Wheeling there are 7 public elementary schools, 2 junior high schools, and District 214's Wheeling High School. The pupil-teacher ratio is 22:1 with $619 spent annually per pupil. In addition, one Catholic elementary school serves Wheeling residents.

CHURCHES:

Baptist, Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran, Methodist, and Presbyterian churches are all located in Wheeling.

HOUSING:

In original Wheeling, 60-year-old frame homes stand next to modern townhouses and new apartment buildings. All styles are available in homes ranging from $32,000 up to $60,000. New homes start at $40,000. Rental prices are from $200 to $275. Also within the village are Cameo Condominiums (388 units) for senior citizens only.

HISTORY:

As preparations were being made to admit Illinois to statehood, settlement in Wheeling was better than a decade away. The territory around Wheeling had been chartered centuries earlier as noted in the journals of Joliet and Father Marquette in 1673.

The earliest settler of record to come to Wheeling Township was a Mr. Sweet in March, 1833. Under present village boundaries Wheeling's first actual resident was Joseph Filkins who staked his claim in 1834. The following decade brought Wheeling its first building boom and in the next 10 years several stores and a school were added.

Incorporation gave rise to new problems, primarily, finding and keeping marshals and obtaining funds to operate the village. All seemed well for Wheeling's 331 residents at the turn of the century. The 1950 census revealed a population increase to 916, and a second building boom in progress. The current population of 16,100 represents an increase of nearly 225% in the last 12 years.

RECREATION:

The village has a separate park district, with offices and a recreation building at Heritage Park, 222 S. Wolf Road. The park district has a full time park director, a superintendent, and an elected board which is not paid. The district has an outdoor pool at Chamber of Commerce Park; the park also features a community meeting room in an old, historic church which was scheduled to be torn down but was saved and moved to the park. The district has an indoor pool - Neptune's Pool - adjacent to the high school. Several portions of the Cook County Forest Preserves which line the Des Plaines River are in Wheeling — the rest of the area is readily available to residents for recreation.

TRANSPORTATION:

Milwaukee Road trains are available in Northbrook (4 miles east) or residents may use the C&NW system in Arlington Heights. United Motor Coach buses transport citizens to the Loop in 80 minutes. Glenview buses are also available in the area. An entrance to the Tri-State Tollway is located northeast of town. PalWaukee airport is near Wheeling. The airport is the busiest private airport in the world, complete with an FAA tower. It takes much of the small plane burden off O'Hare.

TOWN SHOPPING:

Old stores and a new shopping center form downtown Wheeling. On edges of the village are newer centers: Park-and-Shop, Gaslight, K-Mart, and South Point. Randolph Shopping Center is approximately 6 miles to the southeast, and many additional regional and community shopping complexes are nearby.

ORGANIZATIONS:

45 community and civic groups serve the community.

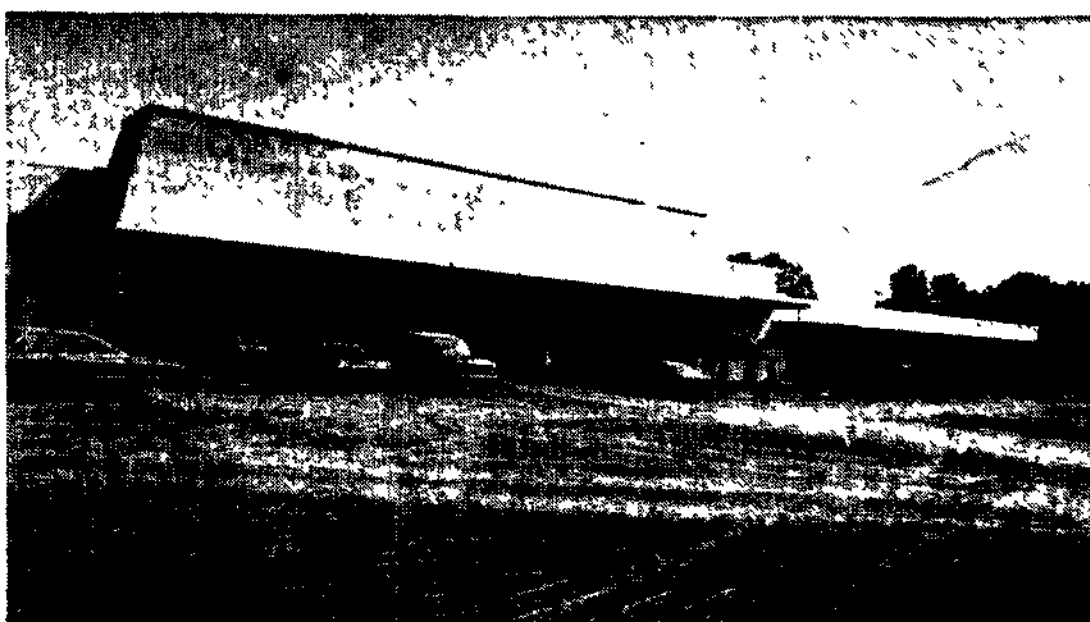

GOVERNMENT:

Wheeling is run by a Board of Trustees and a Village President, with several appointed commissions, such as Human Relations, Industrial Commission, and others.

The police department has modern equipment and is in contact with neighboring police departments, and the fire department has a contingent of full-time men who are helped by several volunteers. The fire department has a new yellow-green truck which experimentally was proven to be more visible than red. The ambulance, also new, is the same color.

White Hat award goes to builders of Wood Creek

Two Chicago builders, Bruce S. Biletz and Joseph E. Valenti, have been given the White Hat Award by Professional Builder, a leading magazine in the building industry, for their development of The Wood Creek Courts in Lincolnshire north of Chicago.

Biletz and Valenti were cited for their "knockout of a natural environmental development, a model of ecological elegance" by Edward C. Birkner, director of the magazine's marketing information network.

Writing in the magazine's February issue, Birkner described the unique community as follows:

"Wood Creek Courts (is) on a prime site — a 20-acre woodland full of rocks and hills, that frames and fences clusters of seven to 11 single-family detached houses with two-car garages. Each of eight clusters circles a motor court with space for guest cars.

"Every housing cluster is a private island of landscaped lawn and trees, screened from its neighbors by the big trees the builder has taken pains to save and by the manmade lakes and ponds he is creating throughout the development. The whole site is sheltered from a bypassing highway by big earth berms planted with scores of evergreens.

"THE PRICE OF ALL this privacy and class comes to $90,000-$100,000-plus per unit including landscaping and all the interior trappings that tend to be optional extras elsewhere.

"...Wood Creek (is) high-priced, sumptuous, superlatively planned and sited (near a major interstate thruway). The campaign accents Wood Creek's address, its special flavor, its image as the poshest possible place for Chicago's elite to count their calories in style."

Wood Creek Courts, offering homes priced from $98,700 is on Half-Day Rd. Ill. Rte. 22) in Lincolnshire within a half-mile west of the Tri-State Tollway exit.

Furnished homes are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week.

The homes are specifically designed for adult living, and include 2,300 to 2,400 square feet of living area. All are two-story designs. Some stress one-level living, with the living and sleeping areas on one level for convenience, plus a bedroom and library on the second floor. Others emphasize the first level as a major entertainment area for intimate or large gatherings, with the bedrooms on the second floor.

Each single-family home in The Wood Creek Courts is on its own lot, but all of the landscaping and exterior maintenance chores are taken care of by an owners' association.

The development is believed to be the first in which single-family home ownership is combined with the maintenance conveniences of a condominium, freeing the owners of all the chores normally associated with ownership.

Centex warehouse mortgage arranged

Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance Corp. has arranged a $370,000, 25-year first mortgage loan on an existing 43,000 square foot industrial warehouse in Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village.

Presently leased to the Alps Corp., the one-story building contains a 36,000 square foot warehouse area and 7,000 square feet of office space. Enclosed truck docks, a five-ton overhead crane and parking facilities for 80 cars also are included.

Kaiser Investments, a Chicago real estate development company, is sponsoring the project.

Loan negotiations were arranged by Albert C. Hanna, vice president of Wilson's commercial and industrial division and Harry Guydan, a loan officer. Disbursement of funds was handled by Richard Thompson, treasurer of the firm.

Realtors attend state reception

George R. Busse and Jim Harris, from G. L. Busse Real Estate located in Mt. Prospect were in Springfield to attend a reception honoring all members of the 78th General Assembly and all Elected Officials of the State of Illinois. The gala reception was sponsored by the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards.

IAREB's Legislative Reception is held at the beginning of each new General Assembly to give Realtors and Associates from all across Illinois an opportunity to meet their Legislative Representatives in the State Capitol. Many IAREB Members travel to Springfield and spend the day calling on their various Legislators in their offices to get a first hand look at the legislative process in action.

In all some 500 IAREB Members attended the reception, and with the addition of the Legislators, Elected Officials and their Staffs, the total number in attendance was close to 1,000.

The evening is designed to be one of enjoyment and relaxation for both Legislators and IAREB Members. The business of legislating the affairs of state is left for another day, another time.

George R. Busse is chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Northwest Suburban board of Realtors and Jim Harris is a member of the committee.

Heating system demands expert

No matter how handy he is, unless he happens to be a heating expert, the smart homeowner will maintain a "hands off" policy about installing his home heating system.

More than the ability to solder copper tubing is required to install a hydronic (hot water) heating system.

The difference between a house and a home, reports the council, is a balanced heating system which can maintain the desired temperature throughout the house. Only a skilled heating contractor will have the knowledge of heat loss calculation, pipe sizing and design to install a system which will respond to the heavy demands of winter weather.

A heating man will know how to measure the heating needs of each room, where to place the baseboard radiators and the proper location of the thermostats. Also, he can advise you about the "extras" you can get from a hydronic system — things like a heated bath tub, separate thermostats, automatic snow melting, etc.

To find a good heating man, advises the council, check with your local plumbing-heating contractor association in the yellow pages.

Mobile homes take on 'un-mobile' look

Simple rectangle shapes of the past are fast becoming obsolete while exciting new designs are beginning to unfold. New roof lines, stylish windows and fas-tionable siding have given homes an un-mobile look. "Mobile home design has advanced so rapidly it's hard to keep up with all the changes," says Herbert Behrend, director of planning and consulting services for the Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association.

Tip-outs and pull-outs extending from homes have added new dimensions and produced an appealing, versatile layout, both inside and outside the home.

A variety of new siding materials have been added to the already popular variety of aluminum exteriors. The rough-sawn wood look has become increasingly popular, with rough-sawn cedar being one of the favorites.

For added beauty to the new unmobile look, suppliers are constantly developing new skirting ideas. Wood lattice designs, decorative tiles, and aluminum panels or slats visually tie a home to the ground. This keeps the area under a home dry and adds an extra touch of beauty.

Although white remains the basic color for mobile home exteriors, greens, beiges and browns are gaining popularity.

Roof lines are also beginning to take a more creative shape. Flat, square roofs have been replaced with different variations. The mansard roof, short and steeply sloped, is one of the latest innovations. A buyer can also purchase a home with the "usual" roof then have a roof of his choice attached for a modest cost.

The unmobile look has reached window designs. Bay windows, sliding windows, clerestory windows and windows with shutters are becoming more popular. They offer more light, ventilation and beauty.

Accessories also compliment the new unmobile look. Sliding-glass doors, patios and attractive outside lighting are some of the extras offered new mobile home buyers, who want the distinctive unmobile look.

and Blue Earth, Minn. In this photo, the curtains have been drawn to show the wide expanse of windows and the beauty provided by curtain effects. Models can be seen at Whipple Tree Village, Wheeling.

New members announced by multiple listing service

Three new members of Computer Multiple Listing Service (MLS) were announced recently by the Arlington Heights office of Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

Joining the MLS roster are Desmond Reaky, Mount Prospect; Douglas Real Estate, Des Plaines; and Bice-Grand, Realtors, Arlington Heights.

Chester D. Osmolok of Des Plaines is the principal of Desmond Realty which opened March 1. A real estate broker-salesman since 1968, he has previously been associated with Double M Realty in Des Plaines, and Rich Port in Des Plaines and Mount Prospect.

A Des Plaines resident since 1969, he headed Osmolok Construction Company until an automobile accident forced him to give up his activities in the building trade. He began selling real estate part-time nine years ago, and combined this with ownership and operation of the Dairy Queen at Potter and Bume in Park Ridge for 4½ years before deciding on a full-time career in the real estate field.

LAWRENCE F. and Marjorie Johnston Douglas are the owners of Douglas Real Estate, in operation since 1969, and located on Northwest Highway in Des Plaines for the past year.

A full colonel in the Air Force Reserve stationed at O'Hare, Larry Douglas is a graduate of Purdue University and has taught courses in investment and finance for eight years at the Real Estate Institute at the YMCA College in Chicago, where he received his own real estate training, as did his wife.

Mount Prospect residents for the past 7½ years, the Douglasses have a daughter and two sons.

David Hansen of Lake Zurich and Norman Copeland of Northfield are the salesmen in charge of the new Bice-Grand, Realtors office in Arlington Heights. A division of A.R.E.A., Inc. (Affiliated Real Estate Associates), principals are Kenneth M. Gunstons of Bice, Realtors and Virgil E. Grand of V. E. Grand Realty, both located in Park Ridge.

Hydronic boiler has many uses

You can melt snow automatically, heat a backyard swimming pool, a greenhouse, your bathtub and garage, get hot tap water, and have separate thermostats for different parts of your house — all from the single hydronic (modern hot water) boiler that heats your house.

Starck announces salesmen of month

At the recent monthly sales meeting of Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors, it was announced that Dick Williams, of the

Dick Williams

Lorraine Glasby

Carol Schaub

Mount Prospect office; Lorraine Glasby of the Arlington Heights office; Sue Jordan of the Schaumburg office; Adelle Tavill of the Hoffman Estates office, and Carol Schaub of the Palatine office were the February Sales people of the Month. Desk trophies designate each monthly office winner and their names will be engraved on the 1973 annual winner's plaque.

In spite of the fact that for one week 15 Starck Sales Associates attended the GRI Advanced Real Estate School in Peoria, the firm had 51 sales during the month of February, 1973, as compared with 30 sales in 1972, or an increase of 70 per cent. The firm now has five offices in the Northwest suburbs.

Heed advice before buying cooling plant

Would you believe that almost one million people will be buying a central air conditioning system for their homes this year? If you are one of them, heed a few words of advice from the National Better Heating-Cooling Council.

Is your house equipped with a forced warm air heating system? When you bought the house you may have been told that "it would be simple to add air conditioning later." If so, watch out. Remember the important principle you learned in your high school science class — heated air rises, cooled air falls. This maxim will be significant when you make plans to add cooling.

Because cooled air falls, the best location for air conditioning outlets is near or on the ceiling. This will make for the most comfortable and efficient cooling. If the cooling system uses the heating registers near the floor, only your feet will be cool this summer, the rest of you will stay warm.

Another point to remember: cool air is heavier than warm air and needs larger ducts. If the ducts were not sized originally for cooling, the cold air won't get into the room fast enough to do you much good. Some people try to compensate for small ducts by using a larger fan. This creates vibration noises which can be as irritating as heat.

No matter what type of heating system you have — forced warm air or hydronic (modern hot water) heating — the Council recommends separate, overhead air conditioning, properly sized for the home in which it is installed.

On the other hand, you may only want to keep one or two bedrooms cool. For these you will find many very good individual units, either window air conditioners or through-the-wall types. Another word of advice, keep them on all the time, otherwise they will have to work overtime to catch up. If you turn them on at bedtime, you may not feel cool until dawn.

Buying another home may beat remodeling

Many homeowners assume that money they spend on remodeling will be returned with a profit when they sell. That assumption frequently is untrue. It may be cheaper to buy a different home than to renovate your present residence, according to Al Whitney, president, Barrington Board of Realtors.

Consultation with a Realtor can be important before remodeling as well as when the house is up for sale. A Realtor is probably the best source of market information on neighborhood growth patterns, current housing trends and what the home may require to keep it salable.

A recent survey revealed that the average dollar spent on remodeling adds only about 50 cents to the resale price of the house. Some improvements add nothing at all.

Another survey listed some improvements that are virtually sure bets. An investment of up to 10 per cent of the value of your house in modernizing an outdated kitchen should pay off in resale value. You can modernize an existing bathroom for as little as $1,000. Adding a bathroom is a good deal more expensive, but if the house is in the $50,000 bracket and has three or more bedrooms, it will be hard to sell without two full baths and at least a powder room on the main floor.

According to the experts, basement recreation rooms are not in vogue in most areas. Appraisers say that these days most people simply do not like to spend their leisure hours underground. Family rooms at ground level are more expensive but also are far more popular with most buyers.

Central air conditioning often pays its way, while window and wall units do not.

Outdoor improvements are usually riskier investments than indoor ones. A patio is likely to help sell a house, but unlikely to return more than half its cost. A drive way is important and worth maintaining well, but an elaborate U-shaped drive adds little to resale value. Bedraggled landscaping may make a house a pariah on the market, but it is not economically worthwhile to replace it with extensive landscaping that may repel some buyers who would rather spend their weekends golfing than pruning.

A swimming pool may pay off in family fun, but it may add less than half its cost to the value of the house. In fact, it may act as a deterrent to a family with small children.

Some substantial but prosaic improvements add virtually nothing to the sale price, according to surveys. Replacing galvanized water pipes with copper, for example, or boosting the electrical wiring capacity would not be easily noticed improvements. Even though more visible, there is also little return on some exterior improvements such as storm windows, aluminum siding or tile or cedar shingles.

An aluminum siding job costs three to four times as much as repainting, but it does little more to keep up the resale price. You cannot expect the buyer to pay you the money he will save by not painting every few years.

Staying in a choice location may more than justify the high cost of remodeling. The quality of the neighborhood is by far the most important factor in the sale price, according to this survey. If the average neighborhood price is $75,000 and your house cost $65,000 you may recoup most of a $10,000 remodeling job. But a $20,000 venture may price you out of the market for homes in that neighborhood.

If you are considering a remodeling job, the simplest and least expensive solution may be to move. But that depends on the type of remodeling and your neighborhood. Your Realtor can give you good advice, ask him what is best for your particular situation.

Heated bathtub cheap luxury

A heated bathtub is one of those relatively simple, inexpensive luxuries which are usually forgotten when buying or renovating the home. If the house has hydronic (modern hot water) heating, have the heating contractor add a length of tubing behind the tub and connect it to the heating system. When the thermostat calls for heat, the tub will be warmed, too. No more chills when bare skin touches cold enamel.

Office machine unit buys large building

The National Office Machine Dealers Association has purchased a new 5,000-square-foot office and warehouse building on Jarvis Avenue, Elk Grove Village. The facility will be used by NOMDA as national headquarters.

The seller was the First Palm Building Corp. of Franklin Park. William L. Kumbel & Co. represented by Frank Kotnauer was sole broker in the transaction.

Custom builder opens in two new locations

Alexco Corp. has acquired land for custom construction in two new suburban settings, one near St. Charles and the other in Crystal Lake.

One of the home-lot groupings is heavily-wooded land with a creek meandering through it and is located about 4 1/2 miles west of St. Charles near Burlington and Carron roads.

Alexco plans to offer 15 home-settings there averaging one acre each and priced at $17,000; also available will be one, 10-acre setting.

Bill Hickey, marketing director for the custom builder, said Alexco will sell wooded land raw or develop it from a homebuyer's blueprint or the builder's own set of plans.

Second offering will consist of a grouping of 11 settings on rolling terrain and averaging 1-1/8 acre each; the settings will be priced at $18,000.

EACH HOME-lot will have its own adjoining private bridal path with stable facilities nearby.

The home lots are located on Hillside Road west of Oak Road in Crystal Lake. This makes the third offering Alexco has made since beginning building operations in the Chicago area late last year.

The company is a new kind of custom homebuilder offering the buyer individual settings for their custom homes outside of the "subdivision look." The homebuyer can buy the land raw or have Alexco build a custom home on it, according to Hickey.

Alexco's concept is to offer the homebuyer a highly-tailored setting and home by carrying a larger-than-average library of plans and locations. The builder mainly concentrates its efforts on buying up small pockets of land that the bigger builders have passed up and then offering them as new home settings.

ALEXCO CARRIES more than 50 home plans in the $40-70,000 price range for the homebuyer to choose from.

The builder made its first entry into the custom home market in January with St. Charles home-settings at the corner of Redhawk and Randall roads. There Alexco currently is offering 31 lots priced at $13,000 each and displaying several of its most popular models.

The building firm anticipates that it will announce several new home-settings per month and expects to build from 150 to 200 homes this year, according to Hickey.

Homebuyers wishing more information about any of Alexco's offerings of home-settings may visit the models in St. Charles at Redhawk and Randall roads or call Alexco which is headquartered in Lockport.

Skokie's Barcelona units nearly finished

The seventh and final building of the deluxe Barcelona condominium apartment community in Skokie is under construction two years ahead of schedule, it was announced by Hollywood Builders vice president Manuel S. Kramer recently.

The development began construction three years ago and the last few of the one, two and three-bedroom apartments available for immediate occupancy are expected to be sold before summer.

There will be 46 units in the seventh building and these are selling in advance to people who want particular locations and are willing to wait for completion of their apartment/home.

"The total number of apartment units in all seven buildings will be 600 making for an ideal community," Kramer said.

THERE IS a steady stream of qualified traffic by people who are able and ready to buy. Most of these are referrals by present resident owners.

They can see for themselves that the number of apartments available is rapidly diminishing. Inflation and the yearly rise in construction costs motivate the condominium buyer to protect his capital by hedging against the shrinking dollar purchasing power.

Ownership and equity building influence buying and the deductibility of property tax and interest payments from income tax also inspire buying.

Present owners have seen their Barcelona condominium property increase in value 12 to 14 per cent a year. Many new buyers are now beginning to come from Chicago rather than from the older suburban buildings as they formerly did.

THE CHICAGO buyers have seen their annual rents increase and would rather have an equity increase.

A substantial jump in rents is expected in the spring now that the lid is off the Phase II rent control.

Condominium ownership confers the advantages of a full service maintenance crew to take care of the grounds and walks and eliminating all chores that usually accompany homeownership.

The attraction of the completely landscaped area, the outdoor Olympic style swimming pool, the shrubs, grass, trees and flowers and the privacy of the walled in community make shoppers into buyers.

THE BEAUTY of the buildings Mediterranean architecture with massive arches and private balconies provide security and elegance.

AN OLYMPIC-STYLE swimming pool will provide Barcelona condominium residents a refreshing way to beat the heat this coming summer. Located on Golf Road in Skokie, Barcelona is just a five-minute walk from Old Orchard Shopping Center.

All the amenities of a luxurious life style are provided from the heated garages to the deluxe apartment interior. All electric kitchens, self cleaning ovens, illuminated ceilings in kitchen and baths, large master bedroom, two walk-in closets, and a breakfast patio on a 33 foot balcony help maintain the record sales pace.

The North Shore location provides many more benefits; walking distances to schools, theater, parks, restaurants, Old Orchard shopping center and easy access to Chicago by commuter train or automobile.

Models are located at 4901 Golf Rd. in Skokie. To reach them take Edens Expressway north, exit at Old Orchard and go east one block, then go south to LaVergne to Golf Road. Turn east two blocks to models.

24 qualify for membership in industrial realty unit

Twenty-four industrial real estate specialists in 14 states and the Canadian province of British Columbia have passed a written examination as their final step in qualifying for membership in the Society of Industrial Realtors, it was announced recently by SIR president A. Kyle Bettilyon, Salt Lake City.

Mrs. Anne L. Brown of Elizabeth, N.J., the first woman to hold active membership in the society since 1953, and Leland F. Bunch of Huntington, the only SIR currently in the state of West Virginia, are among the 24.

The society, a professional affiliate of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, has 1,190 members throughout the U.S. and Canada.

In addition to passing a written examination, active members of the society must have a record of at least eight years successful experience as industrial property brokers, satisfy the SIR admissions committee as to their competence and integrity and be sponsored by a society member.

Salesman affiliate members must have a creditable record of at least five years in the industrial real estate field with the firm of an active member, in addition to passing an examination.

Hot water heating cuts down noise

Privacy is another fringe benefit you get from hydronic (modern hot water) home heating. Because there are no ducts in hydronic systems, bathroom sounds or bedroom conversations cannot be carried from room to room, nor from apartment to apartment.

Earwin's townhome designed for Tanglewood lifestyle

Earwin's California-styled San Marino townhome blends perfectly with both the architecture and the sociable lifestyle of Tanglewood Village, Greenbrook Country.

Tanglewood Village is an architecturally distinct, resort-style townhome community located within the 1,800-acre Greenbrook Country off Lake Street (U.S. Rte. 20) just east of Barrington Road in DuPage County.

Entry of the two-story San Marino opens into a foyer with a powder room and a coat closet on the left, an open, decorative stairway on the right, and a straight-ahead view clear through the large, garden view living room and its sliding glass doors to the townhome's private, fenced-in patio.

A formal dining room adjoins both the living room and large kitchen, with its breakfast area and built-in pantry. Dishwasher, waste disposal, refrigerator, range and oven, and automatic washer and dryer, along with full house carpeting, are included in the $29,900 price of the San Marino.

DECORATOR designed vinyl asbestos tile in the entry area, kitchens, family room, and bathrooms, are Earwin "extras" that enhance the practicality of its townhomes while adding color highlights to match the California styling.

Although the San Marino is a three-bedroom, 1½-bath home, one of the bedrooms at the top of the stairs may be ordered as a den/library with a Dry Bar and privacy partition. As shown in the model on display, this option adds another dimension of living for the small family.

Master bedroom suite of the townhome features a separate entrance to the upstairs bathroom, double entry doors, a wall-length clothes closet, and an outdoor balcony that affords a view of Tanglewood Village with its recreation center, swimming pools, and park areas.

Basements at Tanglewood defy tradition to provide full-height, eight-foot ceilings, enabling the homeowner to create downstairs rooms with all the livability of the upstairs areas. Basements may be ordered at extra cost at the time of purchase.

Three basement options are available to the San Marino homeowner. They can choose a large family room as shown in the model on display that takes up about half of the basement area, with a downstairs bath, utility room, and bonus room completing the plan. Or, they can select a larger family room and a utility room, or leave the entire basement and utility area unfinished.

Five townhome models at Tanglewood Village include one and two-story plans, and two to four bedrooms, with prices starting from $25,900 to $33,900.

MAINTENANCE AT Tanglewood is handled by professionals and includes home exteriors, grounds, and facilities at nominal monthly cost. Club Tanglewood is the central recreational facility with a spacious lounge, adult and children's game rooms, a snack bar, swimming pool, children's wading pool, shuffleboard courts, and areas for volleyball and badminton.

The village is designed in seven clusters, each with approximately 100 homes. A second swimming pool now under construction will be in use this summer, and the village's third swimming pool located in the model home area and its large recreation center will become available to residents as soon as Earwin completes its sales program at Tanglewood.

Free, professional decorating counsel is available from the Earwin Home Center at Tanglewood. The Home Center also offers a full line of home furnishings and accessories.

Tanglewood Village, and its sister single-family home villages, Tempo and Trend, in Greenbrook Country, are being developed by the single-family housing division of The Earwin Group, headquartered in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Earwin also has major divisions in multiple-family housing, mortgage banking, real estate investment trust management, recreational communities development, commercial development and urban housing. Earwin is a subsidiary of CNA Financial Corporation, a Chicago-headquartered management company with $4 billion in assets.

Protection plan aids home buyer

New consumer protection safeguarding the home buyer is accelerating in a number of states, according to Ira Safer, president of American Homeowners Association and developer of the Palace Guard protection plan for buyers of used homes.

"Up to now, the consumer who bought a home which was not new had no protection against failure of the home's major equipment," Safer says. "Our national offering of home service contracts has changed that."

Under the Palace Guard program, the home buyer receives a service contract when he purchases a home through an authorized Realtor. The contract provides for free maintenance, repair or replacement of major home equipment which fails due to normal wear during the first crucial year of occupancy. The contract covers central heating and cooling systems, plumbing systems and fixtures, electrical systems, hot water heaters, water softeners, built-in ovens and ranges, garbage disposers and dishwashers.

Application for renewal of the contract can be made by the homeowner at any time prior to the end of each year term.

Palace Guard home service contracts are now being made available through leading real estate firms in over twenty states. Interested Realtors everywhere are being supplied with information as quickly as possible, according to Safer.

"The buyer of a used home is now freed of unforeseen repair bills," says Safer, "and realty firms are finding that our program builds business and instills confidence on the part of home buyers. Consumerism has finally hit the real estate business." Many legislators have commended the program, according to Safer.

American Homeowners Association and its Palace Guard Division, national firms meeting the repair needs of homeowners, are headquartered at 3301 W. Burlington St., Milwaukee, Wis.

Des Plaines office leads Kile sales

The Des Plaines office of Kile Real Estate, Ltd., topped $1 million in residential sales during the first 27 days of February. This precedent-setting record made Kile number one in sales of all Des Plaines realtors, and assured them continued possession of the company's Gold Crown Award.

This is presented each month to the top office in sales volume among Kile's nine northwest suburban offices. Des Plaines has won the Kile Crown every month since last August when the monthly competition began.

The announcement was made by Maxine Kokonas, manager.

Mobile-home boom follows population explosion

The recent boom in mobile home sales was generated by the population explosion. This is the most important factor in determining where mobile home growth has concentrated, according to a recent report released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

In 1971, Florida, Texas and California led the nation in receiving mobile home shipments. Florida had about 60,000 deliveries, approximately 10 per cent of the total homes shipped during the year. Texas and California each accounted for approximately 7 per cent of 1971 shipments and Michigan 4.6 per cent.

"Manufacturers shipments to states is a good indication of the number of homes sold because dealers usually sell within a local area. Generally there is a two month lag between the time dealers receive shipments and actual sale of a home," said John M. Martin, president of the Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association (MHMA).

MHMA SURVEYS indicate 2.8 million mobile homes are being used as primary residences as of June 1972. This is more than 3.3 per cent of all households. In 1960, the figure was less than 800,000 or less than 1.5 per cent of all housing units.

Currently there are more than 13,000 mobile home communities with 15 or more homes. Approximately 80 per cent of all mobile homes are located in parks while the others are located on private property.

The private property market is expected to grow as costs on stick-built homes continue to rise. At present, site built construction averages about $17 per square foot while the average mobile home costs approximately $6.07 per square foot, including furnishings.

"With costs continuing at their present rate of increase, by 1980 many families will not be able to afford a home unless it is some type of factory built housing," said Dick Mitchell, MHMA's director of land development.

MLS reports record sales

Home values in the Northwest suburbs have climbed nearly $5,000 in the past year as reflected in sales figures released for February by Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors Computer Multiple Listing Service.

Average sales during February a year ago were $38,141, while in the second month of 1973, sales averaged $42,891. This $4,750 rise, coupled with a 60 per cent increase in the number of sales transactions last month resulted in a total sales increase of more than Five Million Dollars for MSL real estate firms — a whopping 81 per cent jump over comparable figures in February of 1972.

The number of sales recorded in February, 1973, were the highest of any month since March, 1972.

Sixty-eight per cent of the February sales were the result of cooperation between MLS member firms, reports Doris Kendzie, executive vice president of NWSBR, for the MSL office in Arlington Heights.

Robert P. Kaleth of P. R. Kaleth & Co., Park Ridge, is chairman of the Multiple Listing Service committee for 1973.

Baseboard heat reduces drafts

Are there drafts along the floors in your home? Are the walls cold? If so, you have a heating system problem.

When the temperature outside falls, the inside surfaces of windows and exterior walls get colder. As the air within the house comes in contact with the cold windows and walls, it chills and settles to the floor, creating a draft as it moves across the floor.

The best way to eliminate these drafts, is to locate heating units along the outside walls, especially under the windows. Hydronic (modern hot water) baseboard heating panels are specifically recommended because tests conducted at the University of Illinois demonstrate they yield only a minimum difference in temperature between floor and ceiling.

Heat emitted from hydronic baseboard units, flows upward and blankets windows and floors with warmth. Actually, they act as a barrier against the cold and prevent chilling drafts.

Preusse named 3H Building Corp. president

U.S. Home Corporation recently announced the appointment of Karl E. Preusse as president of 3H Building Corp., its subsidiary operating in the Chicago area.

Robert H. Winerman, U.S. Home chairman and chief executive officer, and Charles Rutenberg, president, jointly announced the appointment and said that "using 3H as our base, we are aggressively pursuing the business opportunities offered by the fast-growing Chicago housing market."

U.S. Home is currently operating in seven 3H communities in the area. They are Cherrywood, Cherrywood Village and Monterey Village in the south and southwest suburbs of Chicago and The Timbers, Cedarbrook, Larkspur and Hanover Square in the northwest suburban area of metropolitan Chicago.

These communities contain a diversified range of products including conventional single-family homes, as well as sixplex and triplex attached condominium units. The homes are priced in the $20,000 to $60,000 range, Rutenberg noted.

Preusse is also a vice president with U.S. Home Corp. where he was responsible for the planning requirements of the company.

WHEN YOUR CHILDREN WANT TO COOK

Sooner or later it will happen. The magic of turning something white, wet and drippy into a magnificent golden creation like a cake will capture your child's imagination, and Kitchen Research & Development will be on the way.

Generally speaking, the older child will tell you of this desire, but the small ones may tend to begin on their own.

So be on the watch for some of the signs: More-than-usual absorption in watching you prepare food, prolonged make-believe cooking, intense involvement with the form and decoration of mud-pies. When these begin, start education in the arts of better ice cream sundae-making, better dessert topping, and other creations that require no use of heat, fire or knives.

Remember, when it comes to children and the kitchen, you just can't start the rules about hot pots and pitfalls too soon!

Office building newest facility at Countryside

A distinctive touch in design has given a lift to the occupancy level at a new office building in Palatine. Located in the Countryside apartment community on Northwest Highway, the low-rise structure is built around a large atrium, affording every tenant pleasant views of a well-landscaped space and bringing the outdoors into what is often a dreary atmosphere.

The new office facility is being developed by L. F. Draper & Associates, Inc. as a part of their extensive Countryside community. Other components of this diversified development are a planned total of 1,040 one and two-bedroom apartments, a shopping center, a new YMCA and a school for preschoolers and kindergartners.

All the buildings are low-rise, with a subtle combination of country brick and dark wood that blends with the surrounding countryside. The office structure was designed by architect Paul Magierek, as was the special building that houses the unique "Kids Country" school.

At present the office facility is completely occupied, with the tenants a professional group of engineers, an insurance agency, an architectural practice and the developer, L. F. Draper & Associates.

The Countryside community is located on Northwest Highway (Rte. 14) just east of Baldwin Road in Palatine.

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING
REAL ESTATE SERVICE

It Pays To List With The Leaders

There are many, many reasons why it pays to list your home with a MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate office, but actually, when all is said and done, it's really RESULTS that count.

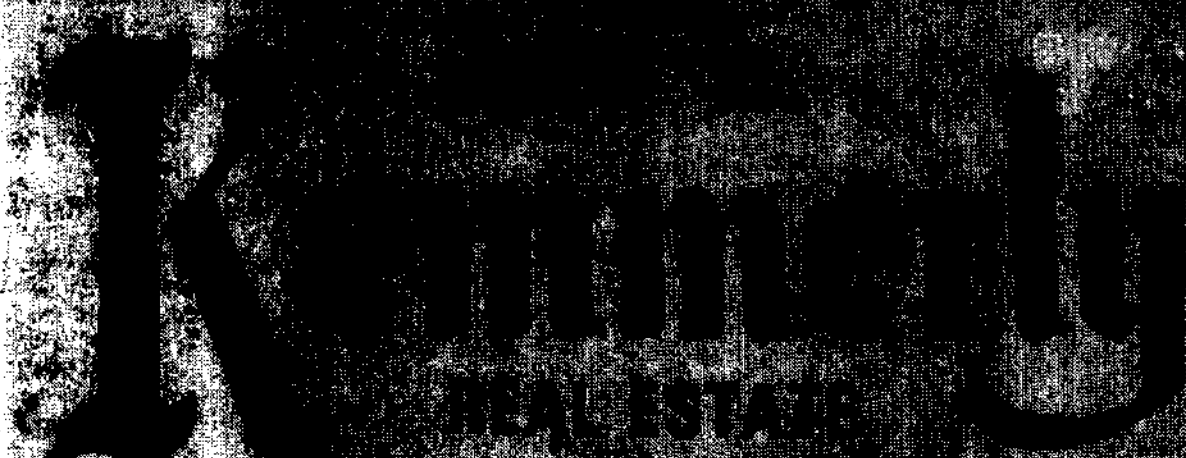

MAP "results" can best be reflected in the sales figures compiled by the entire MAP organization. In Feb., 1973, participating MAP offices made 778 cooperative sales amounting to $31,802,615 volume. Month after month, year after year, MAP sales figures show continual increases, due mainly to the fact that MAP GETS RESULTS, and results are what home buyers and sellers demand.

When you're ready to sell, talk over the current market situation with a MAP broker in your area and get all the facts on why MAP gets the job done quickly and conveniently.

Sold by John Kotleba

... this says it all!

Yes, another home both listed and sold by Starck. Sure, some of our listings are sold by other brokers through MAP Multiple Listing Service, Inc. BUT, we sell a whole bunch of our listings and we do it FAST!

How?

In any successful business the most valuable resource is people. We are very proud of all the salesmen, managers and office personnel in our organization. We select them carefully, train them well and keep retraining so that our clients and customers get total real estate service.

In addition, our advertising and merchandising is aggressive and combines both quantity and quality. Every home we list has its own merchandising campaign put into writing. You are kept informed of all details and progress every step of the way until the property is sold.

An important part of merchandising is establishing the proper selling price for your property. Using established and accurate appraisal techniques we prepare a Value Analysis on your property. This results in a fast sale at top market price for you.

We offer three exclusive extras that greatly assist us in selling your property:

1. Inter-City Relocation Service Inc. 650 nationwide Realtors constantly are referring their transferred clients to us. In 1972 this has resulted in over $2,000,000 in additional sales.
2. Palace Guard, Inc. In this age of consumerism buyers expect to purchase things and know that they will work properly or will be fixed so that they do. Palace Guard Service is only offered through us.
3. The Starck Home Guarantee Purchase Plan and Potere PET Equity Program permits us to sell a buyer your property and "take his home in trade" anywhere in the country.

Since 1960 Robert W. Starck & Co., Realtors have sold thousands of homes in the great Northwest Suburbs. We have grown to five offices with over fifty associates.

We'd love to spotlight your home with our SOLD sign!

the District of Columbia and Canada will participate in the Design Engineering Show to be held in the Civic Center, Philadelphia, Pa. The show will continue April 9-12. Among the exhibitors will be ECM Motor Co., Schaumburg; and Illinois Lock Co., Wheeling. Some 20,000 engineers who design manufactured products are expected to attend the show. New developments in materials, components, finishes and coatings, fasteners and adhesives will be featured in the 400 exhibits. Accompanying the show will be a four-day conference sponsored by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. Additional information is available from Clapp & Pollak, Inc., 245 Park Ave., New York, New York, 10017.

SEVENTH DISTRICT kickoff for the American Cancer Society's Illinois Division 1973 Crusade was held recently in Long Grove. Participants included Lawrence Welk, television personality; Sandra Spruill, community relations representative for Kemper Insurance in Long Grove; and Clay Hart, country and western singer. Nearly 500 volunteers throughout the state are participating in kickoff efforts. The Lake County Kickoff will be held today at the Deerpath Inn, Lake Forest, at 7 p.m. The goal for Lake County donations to the Crusade is $138,000.

COMPUTERIZED system that allows bus drivers to hold the green light for themselves goes into operation next month at downtown Washington, D.C. intersections, reports the current issue of Electronics magazine. The system will permit a bus driver to hold a green light that is within 10 seconds of changing if the bus is close enough to the intersection. The light will not hold for a bus stopped for passenger pickup unless passengers have boarded and it is close enough to the intersection. The bus priority system is part of Washington's $5 million electronic traffic-light control system. The effort is being sponsored jointly by the Federal Highway Administration and the D.C. Department of Highways and Traffic.

ENVIRONMENTAL problems, state taxes and spending and key legislative issues affecting the Illinois business community will be discussed at an Illinois State Chamber of Commerce legislative conference Tuesday, April 10 in the Holiday Inn East, Springfield. Participants in the day-long program include new state officials and legislative leaders, headed by Governor Dan Walker. "This conference is designed as a practical legislative outlook, with emphasis on the gut issues that affect companies every day," said state chamber president Lester W. Brann Jr. The leaders and the issues is theme of the evening banquet, featuring House Speaker W. Robert Blair, House minority leader Clyde Cheate, Senate president William C. Harris and Senate minority leader Cecil A. Partee. Other participants in the day-long conference include Kenneth W. Holland, director, State Department of Labor; Melvin L. Rosenbloom, chairman, State Industrial Commission; Mrs. Mary Lee Leahy, director, Environmental Protection Agency; Harold Hovey, director, Bureau of the Budget; Willard Lee, acting director, Department of Revenue; Frank Kirk, director, Department of Local Government Affairs; and chairmen of several key House and Senate committees.

FIRE PREVENTION, shoplifting and assault are among the topics discussed in the new publication of Securiviews, a quarterly newsletter. James Humphrey, president of Securiviews Corp. in Palatine, announced the new publication of home and office security tips. A free copy may be obtained by writing Securiviews, 744 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, Ill. 60067.

SHOWCASE FOR ALL types of products for home and garden usage will be featured at the 1973 Chicago Flower and Garden Show. It will be held March 24-April 1 at McCormick Place, Chicago. Spectacular flower gardens and exhibits are planned at the show, according to the sponsors (Chicago Horticultural Society and the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry). Refreshment areas will be provided for the first time, in addition to commercial exhibits rivaling the professionally-designed gardens for audience appeal, said Robert Wintz, executive director of the Chicago Horticultural Society.

Last year, all John Benson saved was $54.32.

This year, he joined the Payroll Savings Plan.

Poor John. Money just seemed to slip right through his fingers. Every time he planned to stash something away, there wasn't anything left.

Then John decided to join the Payroll Savings Plan where he works. Now, an amount he specifies is automatically set aside from his check before he gets it. And invested in U.S. Savings Bonds.

Because John has become such a systematic saver, he's almost forgotten about it. When he gets around to remembering, he's going to have quite a nest egg laid away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for 6 months, 3 1/2% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra 3 1/2%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970, ... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

If you keep forgetting to save something out of your check, join the Payroll Savings Plan and let somebody else do the remembering for you.

Take stock in America.
New Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Turnberry is for people, young and old, who have a real zest for living.

There are 1100 acres of woods, hills and valleys to be hiked, biked, explored and enjoyed. Three beautiful lakes of nearly eighty acres to be fished and sailed. And the private Turnberry Country Club includes a championship golf course, an imposing French Normandy Clubhouse high on a hilltop with breathtaking views of lakes, fairways and surrounding countryside. An Olympic-size pool set dramatically into the hillside, and tournament-quality tennis courts adjoin. That's the good life at Turnberry. Every day is a vacation from busy city life—the first year-round community of its kind in the Chicago suburbs.

Turnberry, in the village of Lakewood, is a 10-minute drive from the Crystal Lake North Western Station. The Loop is within easy reach by air-conditioned trains. O'Hare Airport and all of Chicagoland are readily accessible by expressways.

Patterned after Arthur T. McIntosh & Company's Inverness—unquestionably one of the most distinctive and beautiful villages in the Midwest, Turnberry has similar protective covenants assuring that the basic way of living—the good life at Turnberry—will never change.

There are no ordinary homesites at Turnberry. Here, the crest of a hill, a lush green fairway, a beautiful lake or century-old trees adjoin your living room. Homesites average 3/4 of an acre, and more important, have a minimum of 150 feet at the building line. Prices range from $16,000 to $34,000. All sites are fully improved with winding, paved roads, water, sewer and underground utilities. Drive out now, or send for free brochure.

Take Northwest Tollway (90) to Barrington Rd. North to Algonquin Rd. (62), then northwest on 62 into Town of Algonquin. Cross Rt. 31 and go straight ahead (west) 5 miles on Huntley-Algonquin Rd. Turn north on Huntley-Crystal Lake Rd. to property. Watch for signs.

What a beautiful idea for $23,950

The rambling mansion in the Christmas card setting shown here is one of the four-unit townhome clusters in Bright Oaks. There will be others like it—in six different architectural styles, set widely apart on the naturally landscaped, oak-shaded grounds. The effect is like an exclusive colony for millionaires, and that's not a bad way to live.

You'll get a membership in the Bright Oaks Club with your townhome. And while you're playing tennis, swimming, or enjoying the clubhouse, a professional maintenance staff will be tending to all exterior upkeep—including the broad expanses of common grounds.

Two, three and four bedroom furnished models are now on display.

Accuracy problems for Fremd five

Zikes hungers for TV pressure

IT WAS LIKE Miami a week early at Toledo last Saturday.

The wilting Florida-like heat was furnished by ABC-TV's television lights. This artificial furnace provided the spotlight for the Ohio city's hosted Ebonite Open bowling tournament.

Five finalists, who survived the least competitive field (216) ever, rolled themselves into a fever pitch for the third last stop on the televised kegling tour.

Everybody was throwing strikes prior to the live coverage, according to Les Zikes, Jr., the Herald area's only touring pro. As the alternate, Beverly Lanes' manager took in the warmups from his special chair near lane 23.

"When the show started, even (Nelson) Burton was feeling the pressure," continued Zikes, speaking from his parents' home in Tampa, Fla. "I'd like to get the chance to feel the pressure."

This was what Palatine's most famous bowler was thinking as he waited in vain for the chance to use the bowling shoes he was wearing and the ball that sat useless in a nearby rack.

Once the first match had concluded, the loser becomes the alternate. So Zikes, briefly visible most of the time when lane 23 held center stage, was bumped by Dick Ritger a few minutes into the show. Burton edged him out, 235-233.

The night before it was Ritger who just nipped Les. Despite having had trouble in the past at this bowling house, Zikes adjusted from his normal slight hook to "straightening out the ball and throwing as hard as I could." Going into the final three games, he led the field. However, he had the misfortune of finishing up on the two lanes that had given all the pros the most trouble.

After struggling to a 172 and a 149 (his opponent, Don McCune, beat him on those terrible alleys with a 185 in that second game), he held a 20-pin margin over Ritger. Les rallied despite the conditions for a 198. However, a solid eight pin ruined his chances for a big strike in the late going.

Ritger, a tough competitor who won several weeks ago, saw the opening from his adjacent lane. He caught fire with a string of strikes to barely overcome the deficit.

So on the sidelines Les sat, unable to demonstrate his talents before area viewers in a television debut and stopped from contending for the first prize, $10,000.

Weber repeated history by defeating his brother-in-law, Norm Meyers, for the second time in two years. But even Weber — one of Les' idols and a champion for 29 years — "admitted how nervous he was" when it was showtime, according to Zikes. Weber proved how tough the pressure can be by blowing the four pin in his first match.

The chances for Les playing were almost nil from the start for "an alternate hasn't bowled in the last five years at least," he pointed out. "The way the show was coming down, everybody was wondering if they all (the top five) would be there." But the blizzard wasn't helpful.

Nevertheless, Les is "very optimistic about" his game. He averaged a lofty 220 last week which brought him a check for $2,050 — his biggest payday in quite a while. With the $80,000 STP Classic (Miami) and the $125,000 Tournament of Champions (Akron, Ohio) remaining, he seems to be peaking at just the right time.

Since his close call last week, his spirits seem to have been boosted for the future.

"Actually, I want to at least win another tournament. I think I've got a little more to prove," he added.

As the huge Ebonite trophy was being presented to Weber, through the metal spaces you could see a very hungry alternate. Maybe he'll satisfy his pangs for pressure this weekend or next.

by KETH REINHARD
Leon Kasuboske is probably glad he wasn't coaching a pistol team this past winter.

For the group he did govern, marksmanship was not their claim to fame, at any rate.

Fortunately for Kasuboske, who heads up Fremd's basketball program, there are other facets to his sport than gunning. It was because of some of those other areas that the Viking cage season was not as long as might have been.

Fremd wound up with a 9-14 slate. It was one victory more than the Vikings had compiled on the hardwood court the previous season but no romping success by any stretch of the imagination.

Schl "Kas" and company were pleased rather than relieved when the campaign was all over. A respectable show down the stretch, a good group of youngsters in tow, and some brightness on the horizon all contributed to a positive overall frame of mind.

"There's no question about our shooting ability . . . It was not at all inspiring," commented the Vike mentor. "But I felt we did a lot of other things well to compensate for this."

Duly noted, that ability to hold their own in such categories as defense, rebounding and ball handling prompted the Vikings to finish on the upswing when the accuracy did start to come around. Fremd dropped seven of their first nine contests but played .500 ball the rest of the way out. They won four out of six going down to the wire before a narrow loss to Palatine in regional action snuffed out the season.

"I think a key asset for this team was their ability to work together as a unit," Kasuboske continued. "It was perhaps not long on talent, but definitely made up of kids with excellent, unselfish attitudes. Even though they didn't end up with a winning record, I enjoyed coaching them this season."

The helmsman noted that this isn't always the case, even for a coach with a highly successful team in terms of wins and losses.

"Kas" also pointed out that Fremd's sluggish start was probably due in part to that fact that he went to a large degree with three young ballplayers. It was a situation that eventually paid dividends, but not without extracting its toll from that won-loss ledger.

"It's been my experience not to expect immediate success with underclass players in the lineup. We broke in three juniors — Bob Frank, Randy Weber and Doug Mize — right at the start of the year and it took some time for them to become acclimated."

Going into February the Vikings owned a 5-11 slate. Successive wins over Rolling Meadows, Hersey and Palatine followed and after then succumbing to Wheeling, Fremd barely missed another victory at Elk Grove 67-66 in their conference play-off match.

The Vikes hammered Schaumburg in their regional opener and were in turn eliminated by the Pirates on a scant four-point margin. They had turned back Palatine twice by nine points earlier in the year.

Although at one juncture early in the season the Vikings had no one regular shooting better than 40 per cent afield.

(One in a series of reviews of varsity basketball seasons at schools in the Herald circulation area.)

the team finished up strong enough to post a 43.3 overall mark from the floor and Mize led the way.

Mize, in fact, progressed at such an accelerated tempo that he earned all-conference honors, finishing eighth in the circuit in field goal percentage, 15th in rebounds and 18th in scoring.

There were other standout individual displays too. Mark Funk battled his way into a starting guard slot early in the year and went on to establish a new school record for assists at 139, eclipsing the 137 standard set by Terry Kukla two years ago.

Other notable accomplishments included a 32-point scoring display put on by Larry Coughlin and Frank's 15-board effort in single games.

Coughlin, who wound up leading the squad in overall scoring with 261 points, will probably be the hardest man for Kasuboske to replace next year.

"Larry didn't have the quickness to keep up with some of the real fast teams like Wheeling but he was big and aggressive enough to stalemate most of the other big men he played against."

Kasuboske pointed out that he had some good guard-types coming up from the system in Jeff Hantsch, Ken Hanks and Steve Dwyer to complement probably forwards Mize, Frank and Weber but nothing specific to replace Coughlin.

"This job is going to be wide open. If we can find a solid, steady performer to fill Larry's shoes I might get real excited about our prospects for next year."

A pivotal replacement and some genuine shooters might be more than Kasuboske could fathom in '73-74 but he'd like to try and handle it.

"Shooting is part natural ability but year-round practice at it goes a long way too. With some help at center to go with talent I'm already counting on at the other positions, there's no telling how far we could go next year with some good shooting to start off with."

Jr. colleges approve playoff in football

Illinois will have a true junior college football champion beginning this fall, the Herald learned yesterday.

The Region IV athletic committee approved a playoff between the first and second ranked teams after a meeting recently in Rockford.

Just as has been the procedure in the past, all the college grid coaches will be polled weekly for their ratings. After the final week of the regular season, the teams which receive the 1-2 rating will meet on a field designated by the first-place team for the championship.

The game will take place either Friday or Saturday, Nov. 16 or 17. The winner will be declared the Region IV or the Illinois state champion.

Dave Rowlands, director of Region IV as well as the athletic director of Mayfair College, listed two reasons for the playoff:

"I think this will be a real stimulus to creating interest in junior college football in Illinois. And I think this will eliminate the old argument that one team is better than the other, but scheduling prevented them from meeting. This way they'll resolve it right on the field."

Inexperience, shortage of size hurt St. Viator

by LARRY EVERHART

It's been said before, it will be said again, and it must be said in regard to St. Viator's recent long basketball season: There's no teacher like experience.

If that's true, the Lions were "taught" plenty in the past winter. But they also labored without much court savvy and this, more than anything, explains the club's 4-18 record — worst since the school's infancy years a decade ago.

Actually, though, the Lions don't really deserve to have that number and their 1-13 Suburban Catholic Conference record associated with their name. It doesn't take into account the effort the club put out in the face of forbidding odds — not the least of which was a lack of height. (No St. Viator player was taller than 6-foot-3).

But short teams have been known to win. It was the squad's greenness that coach Ed Wasielewski felt told the story. Wasielewski resigned after the season, his sixth at the varsity helm at St. Viator. He will remain at the school as a driver education teacher. A successor has not yet been named.

This season's record was a rarity for Wasielewski, whose other teams were near or above the .500 mark.

"To sum it up, lack of experience was the key factor," said Ed. "If this club were all coming back next year, it would be a fine team. Sometimes you need two years.

Ed Wasielewski

record. It was nearly 5-3, except for the heart-breaking losses to Wheeling and Moline West (in overtime).

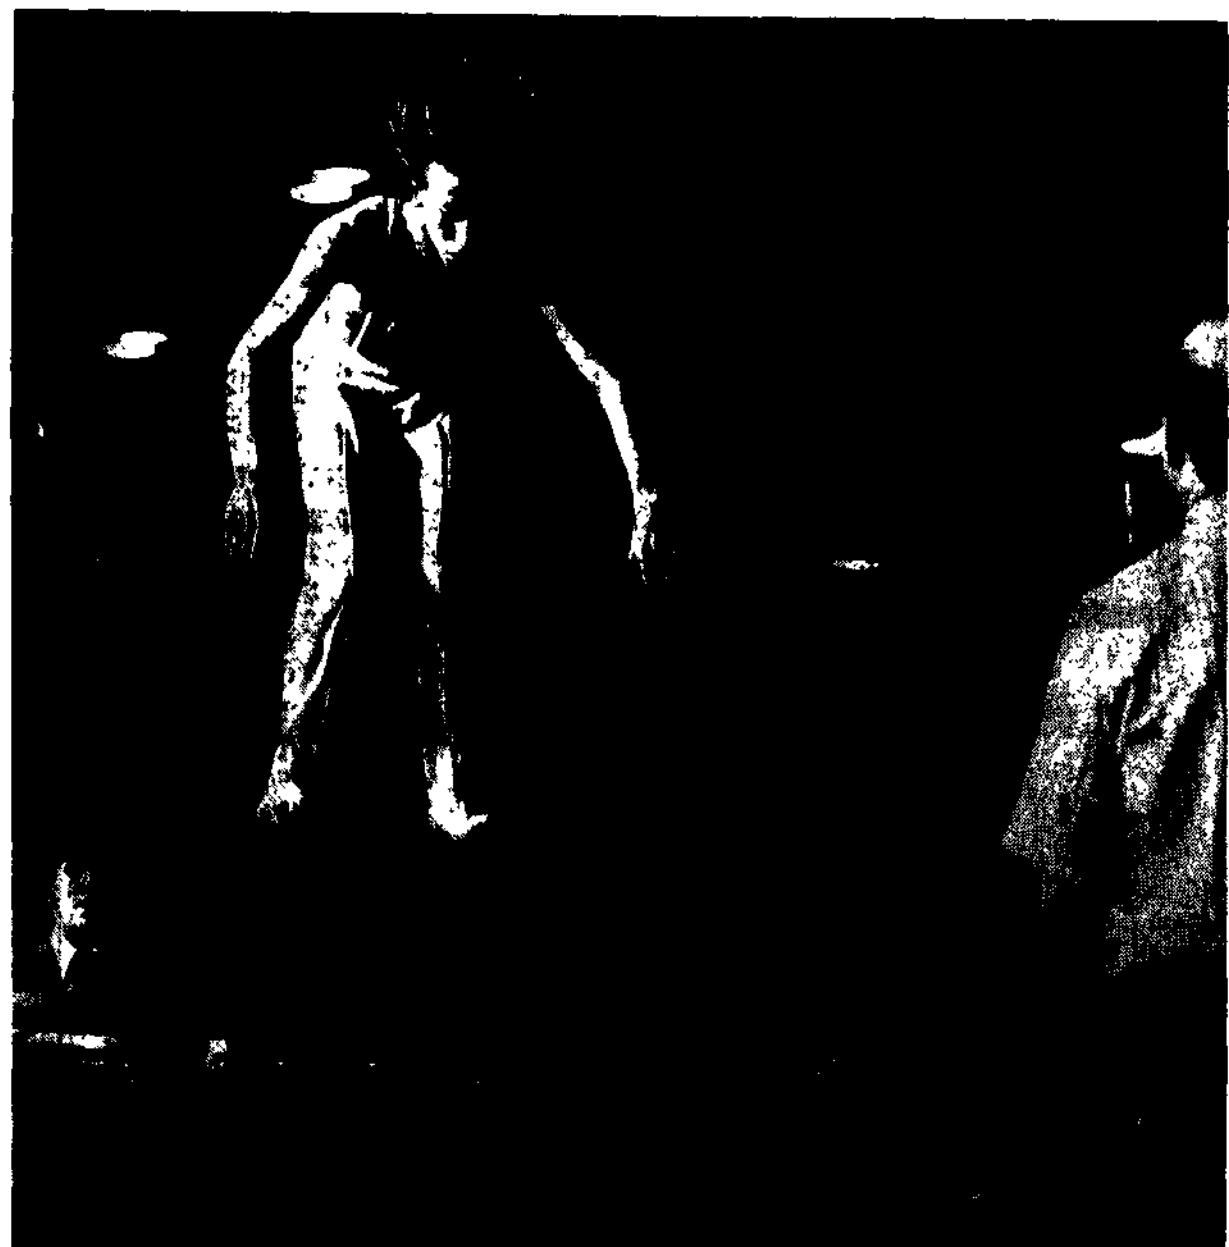

Another positive aspect of the season, contrary to the overall record, was fine team defense. The Lions played a tenacious man-to-man, limiting opponents — many of them generally high-scoring — to an average of just 56.7 points per game.

Now for the bad news: the offense. Unfortunately most statistics are scoring ones and it was here that the Lions were frustrated. Some facts that will be best forgotten are these:

- St. Viator was over 60 points only once in 22 games.
- The club averaged 48.1 per game, which must be a school low.
- The Lions scored 50 or under in more than half their games (14).
- They were under 40 six times.
- Only three times all season did any player score 20 points or more in a game (Dave Hutcheson and Terry Keehan each had a 24-point showing and Mike Cook a 20-pointer).
- No Lion averaged in double figures.

It was, at least, a balanced team with the above three names scoring most of the points. They along with Tom Chapman, Mike Dwyer, Fred Hallahan, Ed Collins and Tony Thompson played spirited defense and never quit trying.

Schaumburg anxious for new season

Forget the past; look to future

by LARRY EVERHART
One group of modern-day Saxons hit some rough waters this past winter, but smoother sailing appears to be ahead.
That's the summary of the state of Schaumburg's basketball program as assessed by the man at the helm, coach Joe Breaux.
A look at the stormy seas they have just passed over is unavoidable, although the Saxons are looking only ahead, not back. Their 1972-73 season is best forgotten. The club, try as it did, lost its last nine games and 14 of its last 18 to finish with a 4-17 overall record, 2-12 in the Mid-Suburban League.
But Breaux and his crew much prefer to let their minds wander towards next winter.
"We really were just building for the future," said the head man. "We didn't have experience but we will next year, along with more size. I think we'll have a much, much better season."

There are good reasons for that kind of thinking. The Saxons' two tallest men, 6-foot-3 Ray Kralick and 6-4 Jim Schimbke, will both be back along with guards Dave Hill and Dan Gallagher, who figure to be improved with a season of varsity ball behind them.

There will also be some promising sophomore guards moving up, one of them Wayne Morgan who shows lots of hustle. And the lower-level feeder teams have material. This year's Schaumburg freshmen posted a 17-3 record and the sophomores were 12-7.

Getting back to this year, Breaux said, "Schimbke did a good job towards the end (he was elevated to the varsity for the last eight games) and he is still growing. Kralick hustled, was consistent and is a real good shooter. Next year he'll play outside more. We found he is better as a forward." (This year, as the club's only player taller than 6 feet most of the season, Kralick was forced to play in the pivot until Schimbke came up).

Trent Tucker, a 6-foot forward who was the team's best senior, ended with a 10.6 average. Kralick, who almost never had a bad game, was the other double-figure average at 11.3 (these statistics are for conference games only). Ray was the most accurate free-throw shooter in the league with 23 out of 23.

Schimbke averaged 8.2 and gave the club some inside strength in his short stint. Bill Papetefan was the best man off the bench with a fine 7.4 average and Art Abraham, only 5-foot-7, made up for his lack of size with hustle and ball-handling. Papetefan and Abraham will graduate this spring.

Despite the season-long scoring of Kralick and Tucker, putting points on the board was a problem for the Saxons. They scored less than any team in the league and averaged just under 50 points a game throughout the schedule. Schaumburg was held under 40 five times and hit 60 or more just five times.

Defense was also a weakness as the Saxons gave up the second-most points among teams in both divisions of the MSL. Opponents averaged 70 points, were over 80 eight times and under 60 only five times.

At Rolling Meadows

In the Washday League high bowlers were Jackie Wright with 510-217, Janet Markese 544-203, Paula Betzold 500-184, Jackie Sorrentino 463-171, Virginia Leanne 492-186, Rosella Huntly 490-166, Millie Crowley 456-172, Vivian Huntley 490-166, Sis McIntosh 466-182, Mary Grunwald 462-187. . . The Fantastics are still in first place with a 43½-23½ mark. . . Clean Sweeps are second with a 43½-28½ mark.

Both problems grew partly from a shortage of rebounds — due to the lack of both size and aggressiveness. And the shooting percentages in league play were just 42 per cent from the floor and 62 from the line.

The Saxons began by winning three of their first six games, all before Christmas, but then beat only one other team — Rolling Meadows — the rest of the way.

But all of that is water over the dam and there is only one direction to go from here. The only question will be how far.

Pancratz to Illinois

Kevin Pancratz, a 6-2, 247-pound offensive tackle from Hersey High, has signed a Big Ten Conference tender to attend Illinois on a football scholarship.

He was named to numerous all-state teams for his play in 1972, was a two-time All Mid-Suburban Conference offensive tackle and also excelled in wrestling. He compiled a 33-1 mat record and took second in the state meet in 1973. He was 28-4 in wrestling his junior season.

"Kevin Pancratz just turned 17 and is still growing. He is one of the most outstanding offensive blocking technicians that our coaching staff has ever seen in high school," said Illini head coach Bob Blackman.

"Since three of our top four varsity offensive tackles will be seniors in 1973, Kevin's decision to attend the U. of I. was extremely vital to our future offensive success."

"Pancratz displayed excellent quickness and sustenance at offensive tackle. He and Marty Friel (who has also announced for the Illini) were devastating blockers in Hersey's running game which led them to a division championship and into the Mid-Suburban playoff game," concluded Blackman.

Kevin

It's about time

(Reprinted by permission of the Selling Sporting Goods magazine.)

As any player, coach, official, or spectator can testify, intervals of time are an important segment of the game of basketball. Not so much the 32 minutes of playing time in high school ball, or the 40 minutes of playing time in college, but the 3-second, 5-second, and 10-second time intervals that mean turn-overs, scores, and games.

In its constant effort to improve on the administration of the rules of basketball, the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada is presently testing a newly developed timing device that could be of help to basketball officials in producing an accurate timing for the 3, 5 and 10 second intervals now in the rules.

The unit being tested is called the Basketball Violation Timer and was developed by Peter R. Julian, president of a new firm called Electro Sport in Columbus, Ohio. Not only is Julian an electronics engineer, but a basketball and football official in the State of Ohio as well.

As illustrated in the accompanying photos, the unit fits on either hand like a mitt. The battery powered timing device is contained in a pouch on the back of the hand with a two-position thumb operated toggle switch positioned across the inside of the fingers.

Moving the switch in one direction begins the 5-second timing interval; moving it in the other direction activates the 3-second interval. A buzzer gives the official an audible indication that the 3 or 5 second interval has been reached. If he is timing the 10-second time interval, he restarts the unit in the 5-second position to give him the 10-second timing he wants.

The unit has a volume control so the buzzer can be audible to only the official and can be adjusted to compensate for noise.

Results of these tests will be reported to the National Basketball committee at their annual meeting in St. Louis on March 27, and if found to be a device that can materially contribute to the better administration of the rules that concern these time intervals, the rules governing the manner in which these time intervals are counted could be amended to include the use of this or some other device that may be approved by the Committee.

The Doctor Says...by Dr. Lawrence Lamb

70-year-old urged to restrict sweets

Dear Dr. Lamb — My Mom, age 70, after having suffered from insomnia, was given a complete physical examination by a doctor and the only thing he found was that she is a mild diabetic. The blood sugar on the original examination was 110. A month later it was 127. She was put on a diet and got so nervous and upset that she lost eight pounds. She is five-foot four and weighs 107. When the doctor saw how upset she was over the diabetic diet he told her to forget about the whole thing and told her to eat what she wanted but she continued to watch her intake of sweets and starches for fear the blood sugar level might rise again.

The following month her blood sugar was 130 and she had a three-hour glucose tolerance test which showed her to be slightly diabetic. The doctor advised her to eat everything, but limit her intake of sweets and avoid table sugar. Understandably, she is rather confused.

My question is, if she does eat a limited amount of sweets and starches and avoids table sugar will the diabetes gradually worsen as time goes on, thus requiring her to take medicine, or will the condition be cleared if she avoids sweets, fats, and starches completely?

She still hasn't gained any weight and is afraid to eat anything which she feels might up her blood sugar. Incidentally, upon each of her examinations for blood sugar there was never any sugar in the urine.

Dear Reader — Certainly if your mother has diabetes it must be relatively mild. Without seeing the results of the three-hour glucose tolerance test it would be difficult to say what her problem is. However, since you tell me that she has had no sugar in the urine and assuming that her kidney function is normal I know that her blood sugar level couldn't rise too high, even during the test. This, plus the relatively low blood sugars you mentioned, leads me to believe that the doctor had ample reason to feel that if she was a diabetic it was very mild indeed and didn't require medicine.

The mild change in blood sugar levels that your mother must have are not particularly uncommon in her age group and I don't think it's anything to be unduly alarmed about.

There is no way I can guarantee you that your mother's problem won't progress, but as long as she doesn't gain a lot of weight — and she certainly doesn't have a weight problem — I would guess that it would be unlikely that she would develop severe enough diabetes to require treatment other than simple dietary management.

I really would like to reassure you that from the information you have given me it sounds like your mother doesn't have any real problem and that what she needs more than anything else is reassurance and a reasonably normal diet with a moderate restriction on her intake of sweets and sugar.

Stamp Notes...by Bernadine M. Rechner

'Stop Drug Abuse' issue ready April 13

The United Nations Postal Administration will release a commemorative stamp April 13 on the theme Stop Drug Abuse.

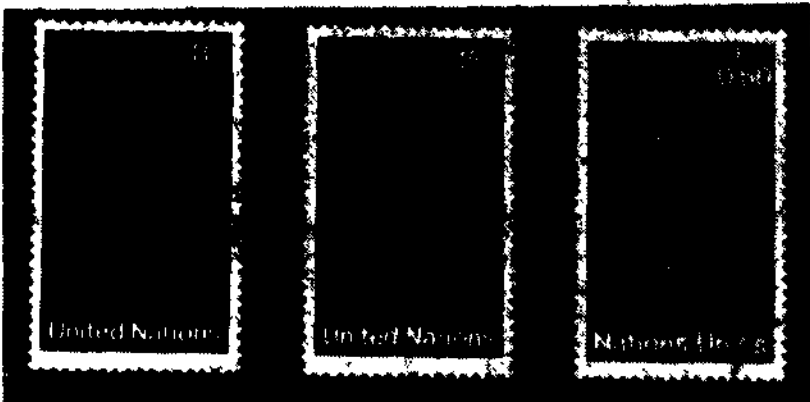

Designed by G. Hamori of Australia, the stamp will be issued in three denominations, 8 cents, 15 cents and the Swiss F.s. 6.80 (U.S. equivalent, 17 cents).

Two years ago the United Nations Fund for Drug Abuse Control was created to attack a complex international problem which knew no national borders. Today, 100 projects are directed toward solving the problem in its three main aspects — supply, demand and illicit trade of drugs.

Print order for the 8-cent stamp will be 2.5 million; for the 15-cent stamp 2.1 million and 2.1 million for the Swiss denomination. Heractio Fournier S.A. of Spain will be in charge of the photogravure production.

FOUR MARGINAL inscriptions will appear on each sheet of 50 stamps, two at the top and two at the bottom. They will consist of the United Nations seal with the text "Stop Drug Abuse" on top of the seal and "1973" beneath it. The equivalent text in French will appear on the F.s. 0.00 sheet.

Requests for first-day cancellation should be addressed to "FDC — Stop Drug Abuse Stamp, United Nations Postal Administration, P.O. Box 5000, Grand Central Station, New York, New York 10017" enclosing the proper remittance, which is the cost of the stamps to be affixed, plus a 5-cent service charge for each cover requested.

Requests for first day cancellations of the Swiss denomination must be sent to United Nations Postal Administration, Palais des Nations, CH-1211, Geneva 10, Switzerland. Remittance must be in Swiss funds.

THE UNPA'S catalog of all United Nations stamps issued from 1961 through 1972 is available for 50 cents from P.O. Box 5000, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y., 10017 or from your stamp dealer.

The catalog also contains a special, full-color poster of all stamps listed.

If it is anything like an early version in my file, there will be vital statistics on each postal issue; denomination, date of issue, subject, color, designer, printer or engraver, process stamp size, etc. It's quite a useful 50 cents' worth and the pictures of each issue make it even better.

THE CANADA Post Office has a deposit account service which will insure you of receiving your philatelic items automatically. An initial deposit of $20 (Canadian) will open an account and after that you may add whatever amount you please. For full information and an application blank write the Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, Ottawa, Ont. K1A 0B 5.

The 6-cent definitive stamp, issued by the United Nations in 1968, was sold out at the close of business Jan. 18, 1973.

Handsaws are included on every list of basic tools, but sawhorses seldom are. The saw is rather useless or at best awkward without the sawhorse. The latter really is just about as important as a workbench, maybe more important.

Most people end up trying to saw lumber precariously balanced on the workbench or across a couple of boxes.

A sawhorse is not a once-in-a-while item, to be used only when cutting lumber. Sawhorses are useful in many ways — to hold projects that are being assembled, glued or painted. For such jobs the workbench is generally too cluttered and the basement floor or stairs are not the best spots.

A COUPLE OF sawhorses plus a few planks turn into a spare table, useful for backyard picnics or recreation room entertaining. Tracks for model trains can be fastened to hardboard and the whole setup supported on sawhorses when in use.

2 college nights slated for students

High School Dist. 214 has arranged to have representatives of some 140 colleges and universities present for the annual college programs on March 26 and 27, at 8 p.m.

The program is planned to give juniors and their parents an opportunity to talk with college representatives and hear something about several schools. Students attending parochial schools are welcome.

On March 26 the program will be held at Elk Grove High School; on March 27 at Wheeling High School. Students and their parents may attend either or both nights. The program will be the same, and most of the schools represented are scheduled for both nights.

You can make a Ping-Pong table with just a plywood table top and sawhorses for support. Use a panel 54 by 60 inches and sawhorses 30 inches high.

Some sturdy 2x4's or 2x2's placed on sawhorses turn into a scaffold for painting or papering a ceiling. It's a lot better than shifting a ladder across the room.

A plywood panel across some sawhorses makes a fine pasting table if you are wallpapering.

Ideally, you should have more than a single pair of sawhorses if you plan to have them for a variety of uses.

If you make your own sawhorses, make certain every pair is exactly the same height. A good height for most work is two feet. For tables, heights of 30 inches and 36 inches are better.

MOST HARDWARE stores and lumber yards carry special sawhorse brackets. With these metal fittings, all you need are a few lengths of 2x4s. Some lumber yards carry complete kits of pre-cut lumber that only need assembling.

You can make an all-wood sawhorse using four pieces of one-inch lumber for the legs, 25 inches long or longer if you want more height; one 2x4 three feet long for the top, two pieces of 1x3 lumber 8 1/2 inches wide for braces.

The braces should be shaped so that they are 4 5/8 inches wide at the top, the full 8 1/2 inches at the bottom.

Nail the braces across the narrow edges of the legs so that the narrow edge of the brace is 1-7/16 inches from the top ends of the legs. Measure four inches from each of the tops and notch out the narrow edges so that the top ends of the legs will fit in place flush with the edges.

Cut the top ends of the legs so that they will be flush with the top. Fasten legs, tops and braces with nails or screws.

The Lighter Side... by Dick West

Executive privilege grabs imagination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen Sam J. Ervin Jr said the other day any White House aides who refuse to testify at the Senate's Watergate bugging investigation may be jailed for contempt of Congress.

The North Carolina Democrat, head of the committee conducting the inquiry, said he would recommend sending the sergeant-at-arms to arrest the recalcitrant witnesses.

That put him on a collision course with President Nixon who vowed presidential counsel John W. Dean II and other White House personnel would decline to appear at the hearing.

I have often wondered what would happen if the President and Congress ever reached the point of actual confrontation over the executive privilege issue.

WHILE WAITING to find out, let us try to envision what might transpire.

The first thing to consider is that the White House makes a rather formidable hideout. It has a high iron fence around the outer perimeter, with armed guards manning the gatehouses.

From the looks of it, a White House aide on the Senate's "most wanted" list could hold out for weeks, particularly if he had undercover waiters from the Sans Souci restaurant smuggling in lunches to him.

But bear in mind the Senate sergeant-at-arms, William Wannall, has substantial reinforcements at his beck and call. For his jurisdiction includes a cabinet shop foreman and three assistant cabinetmakers.

I see Wannall leading a phalanx of cabinetmakers down Pennsylvania Avenue. When they reach Lafayette Park across the street from the White House, they bring forth lumber and tools and set to work.

Next morning, the Capitol Hill craftsmen are nowhere in sight. But standing in the park is a huge wooden nickel.

SURVEYING the scene from an upstairs window, Nixon pokes a broom handle under the Lincoln bed where Dean is hiding.

"You can come out now, John," he calls. "They've gone."

He then dispatches a squad of Secret Service agents to roll the outsized coin onto the White House grounds.

"I am impounding this wooden nickel as a symbol of my determination to force Congress to cease its fiscal irresponsibility," he says.

But the "tails" side of the coin suddenly springs open and out pops Wannall, who nabs Dean by the collar and cries "You're under arrest!"

Moral: You can lead a Trojan horse to water, but don't take any Trojan wooden nickels.

Social Security and You

Q.) My 47 year old brother has a chronic kidney disease. His medical expenses are very high. He is able to hold a job but his earnings are not high enough to pay the cost of the hemodialysis treatments he needs. Can he be helped by Medicare?

A.) Yes Beginning July 1, 1973, people under 65 who need hemodialysis or a kidney transplant because of chronic kidney disease, may be covered under Medicare. People who have worked long enough under Social Security to be insured, or who receive monthly social security benefits, and their wives or husbands and dependent children, will be eligible if they need hemodialysis or kidney transplant. Medicare coverage can begin with the fourth month after the person first begins a course of hemodialysis treatments. Information about how to apply for this coverage will be available soon at your local social security office.

Q.) When I retire this fall at 62, I'll have a large lump-sum payment coming to me for accumulated vacation earned during my last year of work. However, I won't actually receive this payment until about two months after I retire. When I apply for social security payments, do I include this lump-sum payment in my estimate of earnings for this year?

A.) Yes Your payment for accumulated vacation leave will be counted as wages earned in the last month you actually worked and will not affect your monthly social security checks for months after you retired.

Q.) My wife and I receive social security retirement benefits. Our 14-year-old granddaughter lives with us and I provide all of her support. Could I receive social security benefits for my granddaughter?

A.) A recent change in the law provides for social security benefits for a grandchild if certain requirements are met. Your granddaughter must have begun living with you before she was 18. Her parents must have been disabled or deceased before the month you became entitled to benefits. She must have been living with you and receiving at least one-half of her support from you for the entire 12 months before your entitlement began.

Announcing a new collection of all-weather coats
Raindrops by London Fog®
Not a cliché in the collection

Our new Raindrops by London Fog have a whole new identity of design. These are coats for the new-world woman who does as she feels, says what she thinks and knows what she likes. The A-line with happily checked lining, and the trench in a new mood of black and white Glen are only two from a collection unique in its fresh and imaginative combinations of fabric, line and detailing...in looks that are unexpected but never kooky. If you're one of today's young women who keep their minds and their size 6-to-14 bodies in great shape, come choose your favorite from our new collection of Raindrops by London Fog today. Raindrops by London Fog...the New-Fashioned Coat

CHAS. A.
STEVENS & CO.

HUBBARD WOODS, LAKEHURST
WOODFIELD, LA GRANGE PARK

Coats shown are, left, FRAN, $68 in canary yellow or white, sizes 6 to 14. Right, CHRIS, $88 in a black and white plaid; sizes 6 to 14. Both made of Dacron® polyester and cotton. Both protected from rain and stain by DuPont ZEPPEL.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Herald Newspaper does not knowingly accept HELP WANTED ads that indicate a preference based on age from employers covered by the AGE DISCRIMINATION IN EMPLOYMENT ACT. HELP WANTED headings directed specifically toward either men or women are used merely for the convenience of our readers, to let them know which jobs have historically been more attractive to persons of one sex than the other. The placement of an ad under a heading is not in itself an expression of a preference, limitation, specification or discrimination based on sex. Before I joined the

Savings Plan, all I could save was

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Sick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

The Salad Buffet

Whether you're having a sit-down dinner or buffet supper, let guests help themselves to salad available on a side board or separate table. Many people like to eat salad along with their meal while others prefer to make salad a separate course following the entree. Encourage guests to dish up their salads whenever they feel like it, and, of course, to go back for seconds.

Make the salad even more enticing by offering a variety of pour-on dressings. There should be a mild, rather classic dressing such as a pour-on Russian one. Also add one with more bite such as a classic blue cheese dressing. Add other dressings with a variety of seasonings. Don't worry about leftovers, the family can enjoy them, too.

Easiest way to make a variety of pour-on dressings is to begin with a basic ingredient such as mayonnaise. All you need to do is to thin the mayonnaise and add the seasonings that give it its own individual flavor. If after chilling, the dressings become a little too thick for easy pouring, then thin with a tablespoon or two of milk. All recipes may be doubled for party amounts.

SCANDINAVIAN DRESSING

- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup plain yogurt
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill or 1 teaspoon dry dill weed
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1/4 teaspoon onion salt
- 3/4 cup milk

Mix mayonnaise and yogurt. Stir in dill, lemon juice and onion salt. Gradually stir in milk. Chill. Makes about 1 cup.

POURABLE RUSSIAN DRESSING

- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons chili sauce
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard

Mix together mayonnaise, milk and chili sauce. Add onion, Worcestershire sauce and mustard; mix well. Chill. Makes 1 1/4 cups.

FAVORITE BLUE CHEESE DRESSING

- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/4 cup crumbled blue cheese
- 1/4 cup milk

Mix together mayonnaise, sour cream and blue cheese; gradually stir in milk. Chill. Makes about 1 1/4 cups.

ORIENTAL DRESSING

- 3/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/4 cup finely chopped celery
- 1/4 cup finely chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon sesame seed
- 2 teaspoons soy sauce
- Dash garlic powder

Mix together mayonnaise, milk, celery, green pepper, sesame seed, soy sauce and garlic powder. Chill. Makes 1 cup.

CREAMY FRENCH DRESSING

- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup catchup
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon minced onion
- 1/4 teaspoon celery salt

Mix together mayonnaise, catchup, lemon juice, onion and celery salt. Chill. Makes about 1 cup.

How to Prepare Greens for the Salad Buffet

In making tossed green salad, use a variety of greens, but for the crispness so well liked in any green salad, make at least half of the greens a crisp lettuce such as iceberg. Count on 3/4 to 1 cup of greens for each person and then add extra for a few second helpings. For 25 servings, for example, you will need 4 medium heads or bunches of greens or 1 1/4 gallons torn greens. The day before the party, rinse greens under cold running water; drain on a rack, in a wire salad basket or on paper towels. Before rinsing firm heads of lettuce, remove the core by tapping the head, core end down, on a counter top. Lift or twist out the core. Or, if you prefer, cut out the core with a small sharp knife. Rinse by holding the head cored end up under cold running water. Drain thoroughly. Place the greens in plastic bags, tucking in a paper towel to absorb moisture. Close bags with twist-ties and chill in refrigerator.

Several hours before party time, remove crisped greens from refrigerator and tear them into bite-size pieces. Place pieces of greens in large plastic bags and return to refrigerator until serving time. If possible, chill the salad bowl, salad plates and servers.

MEMBERS OF THE COOKBOOK GUILD, Joanne Brodman, left, Dee Tranberg, and Sandi Pecoraro, spent many hours over several months gathering and editing recipes for "The Belles of St. Mary's." The cookbook is a collection of recipe favorites from members of St. Mary's Church in Buffalo Grove.

'The Belles of St. Mary's'

Recipes with a personal touch

More than 700 recipes from Buffalo Grove families have been compiled in a cookbook, "The Belles of St. Mary's."

The cookbook guild of St. Mary's Women's Club gathered the recipes and prepared the book for publication. Contributions from parish members include such offerings as main dishes, party fare, breads, vegetables and savory starches — pasta, eggs and cheese and rice.

A chapter, "Treat men only," highlights special recipes that men like to cook and eat. Mike Bonner's Frozen Strawberry Daiquiri is a delightful concoction of white rum and frozen strawberries. Orange Alaska, a combination of cream de cocos, coconut, orange juice and cream; Glogg, and Galliano are among other offerings.

Recipes for Frodo Apple Chocolate Chip Cake, Lemon Meringue Pie, and Polish Babka indicate that men are quite capable in the kitchen as well as behind the bar.

Mrs. Richard Ogilvie, Mrs. Richard Daley and Mrs. Richard Nixon, sent recipes upon request of the cookbook guild. Others included in the VIP section are Trician Nixon Cox, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, Mrs. Lyndon Johnson and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson III.

Daley Bread, Irish Sugar Cookies and Mayor Daley's Favorite Lemon Meringue Pie will win the hearts of all who wish to dine like the mayor.

With few exceptions most of the recipes are suitable to everyday menus, containing common ingredients and simple methods of preparation. Six recipes for beef stroganoff have been published where one would have sufficed. Beef stews, meatballs, casseroles and chicken recipes are predominant in the main dish chapter.

"The Belles of St. Mary's" costs $4 and can be purchased at Jo Ann's Country Flowers, 125 N. Buffalo Grove Road, Buffalo Grove, St. Mary's Church or by calling Dee Tranberg, 537-7266.

FROZEN STRAWBERRY DAIQUIRI
3 ounces white rum
1 tablespoon sugar
2 packages frozen strawberries, thawed
2 cups crushed ice
Blend in electric blender.

DALEY BREAD
3 cakes yeast
3 cups lukewarm water
3 cups scalded milk
½ cup sugar
3 teaspoons salt
6 Tablespoons shortening

14 cups sifted all-purpose flour
Crumble yeast and soften in lukewarm water. Let stand 5 minutes. Add sugar, salt and shortening to scalded milk and let cool to lukewarm. Add yeast. Add 7 cups of sifted flour, beating until smooth, then work in remainder of flour. Turn out on a lightly floured board and knead until smooth and satiny.

Round dough into ball, place in large greased bowl and brush with melted shortening. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 1 hr. Punch down, let rest 10 min.

Divide dough into 4 equal portions. Shape each portion in loaves or rolls. Set in greased pans. Brush tops with melted butter and cover with a cloth. Let rise until doubled in bulk, about 1 hr. Bake in a 375-degree oven, 40 to 45 min. Remove from pans at once; cool. Makes 4 large loaves or 3 loaves and 12 rolls.

Be an egg expert

Egg prices vary by size for the same grade, the Department of Agriculture reports. Generally speaking, if there is less than a seven cent price spread per dozen eggs between one size and the next smaller size in the same grade, you will get more for your money by buying the larger size.

Buy eggs from a refrigerated case.

Refrigerate eggs promptly at home, large end up, to help maintain quality.

Variations in temperature while the eggs are stored causes egg whites to become thin.

Use only high-quality clean eggs with sound shells when making egg nog, milk shakes, or lightly cooked dishes.

Cook eggs at low to moderate temperatures. High temperatures and overcooking toughen eggs.

Eggs contain significant amounts of vitamins A, iron, protein, and riboflavin. Vitamin B2 as well as smaller amounts of many other nutrients.

Go gourmet the Oriental way

Oriental dishes prepared at home help stretch the food budget dollar, add to the reputation of the cook as a gourmet chef and please family and guests.

An Oriental Beef and Sugar Peas dish is simple and requires much less chopping of ingredients than called for in many Far Eastern Dishes.

ORIENTAL BEEF AND SUGAR PEAS

- 1 beef flank steak
- 1 tablespoon cooking oil
- 1 (7½-ounce) package fresh bean sprouts or 1 (1-pound) can
- ¼ pound fresh sugar peas
- 1 bunch green onions
- 1 (10½-ounce) can consommé
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce

1 teaspoon sliced fresh ginger root (or ¼ teaspoon powdered ginger)
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons cold water
Slice steak diagonally across grain. Brown quickly in hot oil, then remove from skillet. Cook rinsed bean sprouts, peas and chopped onions in same skillet a few (8 to 10) minutes. Add undiluted consommé combined with soy sauce and ginger. Cover and cook about 2 minutes. Stir in cornstarch mixed with water. Cook, stirring, until clear and thickened. Combine with beef strips mixing lightly. Makes 6 servings.

NOTE: To cook in electric skillet at table, arrange vegetables in small bowls, consommé mixture in pitcher and cornstarch paste in small cup.

Sauce 'n season celery

While celery has lots of aroma and is one of the great seasoning vegetables it, in turn can be sauced and seasoned in almost unlimited ways. Cook it with carrots, tomatoes, potatoes to start a good stew or casserole. Serve it with white sauce flavored with onion, parsley or fennel seed.

Cheddar cheese soup or cream of chicken soup make smooth and easy sauces for cooked celery. Add minced mushrooms or sliced almonds or coarsely chopped peanuts. Of, if there's leftover ham, tuna or crisp bacon bits these would add great flavor, too. Toss the celery with croutons sauteed in garlic oil. Dress it with mayonnaise and a sprinkling of grated Italian cheese, either Parmesan or Romano. Thus just start a list which can be from here to there.

BRAISED CELERY MEDLEY

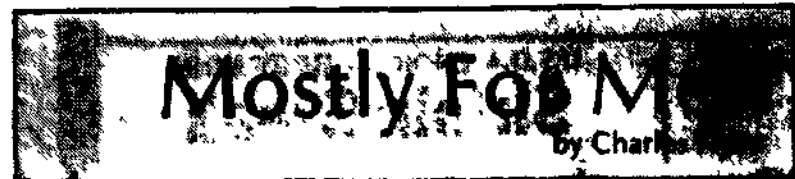

6 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
1 cup water
1 beef bouillon cube
4 cups thin celery strips,

2-inches long
1 cup thin carrot strips,
2-inches long
Milk
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/16 teaspoon ground black pepper
1 cup soft bread crumbs

In a large skillet melt 2 tablespoons of the butter. Add water and bouillon cube. Stir to dissolve; bring to boiling point. Add celery and carrot strips. Cover, reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes or until crisp-tender. With a slotted spoon remove vegetables to a 1 1/2-quart casserole, set aside. Measure broth adding milk to make 2 cups. In a small saucepan melt 2 more tablespoons of the butter. Stir in flour. Gradually add milk mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add salt and black pepper. Pour over vegetables. Melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Toss with bread crumbs. Sprinkle around outer edge of casserole. Bake, uncovered, in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees) 15 minutes or until crumbs are lightly browned. Yield: 6 portions.

Braised Celery Medley

Hash by any other name still may be hash, but it doesn't have to be a dull and tasteless dish. We were guests in Florida when unexpected callers arrived just before dinner.

My hostess reminded that the larger contained only some leftover roast beef and said, "Come up with something special."

This is what I did

Cut cooked beef into small cubes, enough for 2 cups (more won't hurt). Add to the beef 1 cup cooked diced potatoes, 1/3 cup diced white onions, 1/3 cup diced celery, and 1 small jar pimientos, drained and sliced.

Mix and put into a well greased casserole. Next make a sauce of 1 cup beef gravy (I made my own with 1 cup beef stock from cubes, blended with 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespoons flour), 1 1/2 cups tomato puree, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and 2 tablespoons dry white wine.

When sauce is blended pour over the beef and vegetables and sprinkle with grated Swiss cheese. Next cover the dish with slices of fresh tomato and onion rings. Sprinkle these with fine dry bread crumbs, dot with butter and bake at 350 degrees until dish is piping hot and crumbs are browned.

Healthy servings for 6 or 8 and an eye-pleasing casserole to bring to the table.

FOR A SALAD I peeled pink grapefruit and sectioned, removing all the membrane. I also peeled and sliced lengthwise a large avocado.

On salad plates place leaves of bibb lettuce or endive and on each arrange 3 to 4 slices of avocado and the grapefruit sections alternately.

Sprinkle with salad dressing and if desired, top the center with a small wedge of cream cheese. For this type dressing I use 1 part fresh lemon juice, 2 part wine vinegar, to 3 parts salad oil. Sweeten slightly with sugar or artificial sweetener and add your choice of spices, especially celery salt.

Consumer hints

Food disposers work better if cold water is run while the appliance is operating. Cold water washes scraps into the mechanism and serves to congeal and harden greasy substances for their mechanical breakup.

The white, twisted, rope-like strands of material in an egg albumen are simply concentrated bits of egg whites and need not be removed before cooking.

Fruits are popular as desserts in most countries, particularly those in the southern hemisphere.

Lamb chops with Oriental accent

More individuals are learning to enjoy lamb in many ways other than a lamb stew. A different approach to broiled chops is to marinate lamb rib chops in a blend of plum preserves, soy sauce, lemon juice and onion. This gives an Oriental twist to the meal and should prove popular with those experimenting with Far Eastern recipes.

ORIENTAL LAMB RIB CHOPS

¼ cup plum preserves
1 tablespoon soy sauce
¼ cup lemon juice
8 lamb rib chops, ¾ to

1-inch thick
8 thin onion slices

Combine preserves, soy sauce and lemon juice; mix well. Place lamb in a shallow dish and spread meat with preserves mixture. Chill 1 hour, turning occasionally. Place lamb on grill or in broiler and broil 3 to 4 inches from source of heat for 5 to 7 minutes, basting occasionally with preserves mixture. Turn chops, top with onion slices, brush with preserves mixture and continue broiling for 5 to 7 minutes or until done to taste. Makes 4 servings.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Canned pears prove a quick answer to dessert problems. For example, make a quick pear sundae by putting a pear half in a stemmed glass and add a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Add sauce. For a more complex and luscious dessert try a mocha chiffon pie topped with juicy Bartlett pears.

PEAR MOCHA FLUFF PIE

1 (16 ounce) can Bartlett pear halves
Coffee-flavored liqueur (optional)

Pears top mocha fluff pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¾ cup pear syrup
2/3 cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
2 teaspoons instant coffee powder
3 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup whipping cream
½ cup chopped pecans
Whole pecan halves
1 (9-inch) Chocolate Crumb Crust Drain pear halves, reserving syrup. If desired, marinate pear halves in liqueur while making pie. Soften gelatin in ¼ cup pear syrup. Combine remaining ¼ cup pear syrup with 1/3 cup sugar, egg yolks, coffee powder, cocoa and softened gelatin. Beat until well blended. Cook over medium heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and cool until syrupy. Beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually add remaining 1/3 cup sugar, beating at high speed until stiff peaks form. Whip cream until stiff. Fold beaten egg whites, whipped cream and chopped pecans into gelatin mixture. Pile into Chocolate Crumb Crust. Top with pear halves, cut side up. Fill pear centers with pecan halves. Chill until firm. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Chocolate Crumb Crust:

Combine 1½ cups graham cracker crumbs with 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted ¼ cup soft butter and ¼ cup granulated sugar. Press evenly into 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes. Cool.

A real lemon on your hands?

Let it add zesty flavor to menus

Lemons are among the liveliest fresh fruits around. Their versatility is appreciated when you think of all the sauces, soups, salad dressings, pies, cakes and tarts that depend on lemons for their distinctive flavor.

Lemons have been around for quite a long time, according to the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association. While the exact home of lemons isn't known, it seems likely they originated in the warm districts east of the Himalayas in northern Burma and southern China. Arab traders brought the lemon west to Persia and Palestine. The Crusaders brought them west into Greece and southern Europe before the 12th century.

Let fresh lemons brighten your dessert cookery with Lemon Chiffon Tarts that add a elegant touch to your menu. A special dessert need not be reserved for a fancy dinner or party — your family will delight in the extra care taken to please them. Never-Fail Fresh Lemon Meringue Pie is another lemon treat that will win you raves from the family. For a menu that is kind to calorie watchers, Fresh Fruit Compote is a splendid finale.

Lemons are high in vitamin C, the vitamin that is essential in providing resistance to infection among its other important functions in the body. One medium size lemon (2 inches in diameter) provides 83 per cent of the recommended daily allowance of vitamin C.

FRESH LEMON CHIFFON TARTS

1/4 cup sugar, divided

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup fresh lemon juice
1/4 cup cold water
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 eggs, separated
1 teaspoon grated fresh lemon rind
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
6 baked 5-inch tart shells

Mix 1/2 cup of the sugar and gelatin in top of double boiler. Add lemon juice, water, salt and beaten egg yolks; mix well. Cook over simmering water 10 to 12 minutes or until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens. Cool until custard mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until they stand in soft peaks. Gradually beat in remaining 1/4 cup sugar and beat until stiff peak forms. Fold into custard. Turn into tart shells. Chill until set. Top with whipped cream, garnish with grated lemon rind. Makes: 6 servings.

NEVER-FAIL FRESH LEMON MERINGUE PIE

1 cup sugar, divided
1/3 cup cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup cold water
1 1/4 cups hot water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 egg yolks, lightly beaten
1/3 cup fresh lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated fresh lemon rind
2 teaspoons vanilla
1 9-inch baked pastry shell

Combine 1/2 cup of the sugar, cornstarch, salt and cold water in the top of a double boiler. Mix well. Stir in hot water. Cook over boiling water 5 minutes or until thick, stirring constantly. Cover and continue cooking over boiling water 8 minutes or until very thick, stirring occasionally. Add butter. In large bowl mix together egg yolks and remaining 1/2 cup sugar; slowly add a little of the hot mixture. Then stir into the remaining hot mixture in double boiler. Cook uncovered over simmering water (not boiling) 10 minutes or until very thick, stirring frequently. Gradually stir in lemon juice and rind. Remove from water. Cool. Stir in vanilla and turn into a baked pastry shell. Top with Meringue. Bake in 300 degree oven 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool before serving. Makes: 6 servings.

MERINGUE

3 egg whites
1 teaspoon cold water
6 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

All about eggs

The thick, white, cord-like material located on the opposite sides of the egg yolk is called the chalaza. It is a normal part of the egg. The chalaza holds the yolk in place in the white.

Egg shell color is determined by breed of the hen and does not affect the grade, nutritive value, flavor, or cooking performance of the egg.

Egg proteins are so near perfection that scientists often use it as a standard to measure the value of protein in other foods.

Eggs are an important, easily and completely digested food for all ages — from infancy to old age.

Eggs are versatile — serve them often. Serve them "as is" or in combination with other foods.

When buying eggs, look for the USDA U.S. Department of Agriculture shield. It tells you grade quality and size. The shield usually is on the carton or on a tape sealing the carton.

Combine egg whites and water and beat until they stand in soft peaks. Gradually beat in sugar and vanilla. Beat until meringue stands in very stiff peaks.

LOW-CALORIE FRESH FRUIT COMPOTE

3 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup water
3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup diced fresh cantaloupe
1 cup sliced fresh peaches
1 cup fresh blueberries
1/2 cup seedless green grapes
Fresh mint leaves

Mix sugar and water in a small saucepan. Bring to boiling point. Boil 1/2 minute. Remove from heat and add lemon juice. Cool and stir in vanilla. Combine fruit in bowl; add sugar syrup. Chill. Serve in sherbet glasses. Garnish with fresh mint leaves. Makes: 6 servings; 60 calories per serving.

Fresh Lemon Chiffon Tarts

Rising meat prices are one of the major headaches to budget shoppers. More drastic approaches such as simply bypassing the meat counter have been suggested.

However, most homemakers will not willingly eliminate meat from their menus. Fish and cheese main dishes are obvious protein substitutes but most families will not tolerate this fare on a regular basis.

There are clever ways to creatively select and cook reasonable cuts of meat. For a clue to which cuts of meat will be tender, do a little homework. Study cuts and learn to identify them. Blade-cut roasts are less expensive than round-bone pot roast and just as flavorful.

When you're at the store, don't hesitate to summon the butcher via the counter bell. Ask him any questions you have about cuts, and request he cut meat for you if you have something special in mind.

Fortunately, chicken is a protein food that's low in fat and low in cost. Put chicken on your list and don't forget the wings and other boney pieces are excellent for stews and soups.

Fish offers a reasonably priced source of protein. President Nixon has suggested that Americans eat fish one day a week as a consumer action aimed at protecting the high price of meat.

GENERALLY, THE least expensive way to buy fish is frozen or canned. Water-packed tuna fills many casserole voids, salad bowls and sandwiches.

Spotting a food bargain depends a lot on your own needs. You'll find newspaper ads chock full of special offers, like six cans of kidney beans for 50 cents. But if your family is not big on kidney beans, it doesn't make a lot of sense to have shelves of them. In-season foods can be attractive come-ons to smart shoppers, but don't indulge in buying great quantities of such specially priced items unless you can actually make good use of them. The same goes for all bulk buying. It's better to pay a few cents more for a small package than to toss out large portions of super-super low-priced sizes. Decide what's a good food buy for you, then learn to shop for it and recognize it.

Is it savvy to save box tops, or those coupons that surface in your detergent? If you evaluate your time and the possible savings (on refund offers, don't forget to figure in the postage), it might make sense. If you're using paper toweling like there's no tomorrow and the manufacturer says he'll give you seven cents off your next purchase of a giant roll, sounds like you've just pocketed seven cents — if you remember to take the coupon to the store.

In the dairy food department, the greatest bargain of all time is dried, non-fat skim milk. There is more and more agreement among pediatricians that after the age of 2 1/2 most children should be drinking skim milk. Butterfat does nothing but make fat. The bodybuilding materials are in the skim portion of the milk.

Skip the convenience of dehydrated soups that cost around 30 to 40 cents for a four-cup package. Make way for a 40-cent package of bouillon cubes that will produce 25 cups.

Planning and discipline are the qualities you'll want to develop and the old grocery list is still the best way to fight the temptation to toss little extra goodies into your cart. Impulsiveness will be paid for at the check-out counter.

Self-expression through cooking

by LOIS SEILER

Creative cooking is one of the most rewarding aspects of homemaking for Mrs. Peter W. Schreiber of Mount Prospect. Not intimidated by Quiche Lorraine or Chicken Kiev recipes, Barbara Schreiber enjoys expressing herself in the kitchen.

Her favorite way to entertain is buffet-style, where guests help themselves to the main dishes. They are seated at the table for dining, with their salads already in place. She insists on recipes that can be made ahead, so that she is out of the kitchen when her guests arrive.

One of her favorite menus features Shrimp and Mushrooms Elegante, parsley rice, buttered broccoli and a blue cheese salad with Cherry Crepes Jubilee for dessert.

"If the number of requests I've had for the recipe is an indication of its appeal, then I should say the shrimp dish has been most successful," Barbara said. "It is quite easy to prepare, yet looks elegant in a chafing dish."

Shrimp and mushrooms are sauteed quickly in a skillet first, giving the shrimp a little different flavor than the conventional method of boiling. These ingredients are added to a white sauce seasoned with wine and Parmesan cheese.

"IT IS IMPORTANT to serve this dish over parsley rice, as the parsley is needed for color," Barbara emphasized. She likes to serve a plain green vegetable, preferably broccoli, which she cooks ahead and keeps warm and well-buttered in the oven.

"Although a blue cheese salad might seem a bit rich with this dish, everyone always likes it," Barbara said. She makes the salad with iceberg lettuce, fresh spinach, hard-cooked eggs and artichoke hearts, tossing all with a creamy blue cheese dressing before serving. Crumbled bacon bits are sprinkled over the top.

An impressive finale to this meal is Cherry Crepes Jubilee. Surprisingly enough, this delicacy can be made ahead and baked before serving. It consists of thin crepes rolled up with an almond cream filling and topped by a brandied cherry sauce.

"I put this dish in the oven when we sit down to dinner," Barbara explained. "and it's ready at dessert time. If dinner takes longer than anticipated, they can be kept warm in the oven without harm."

Although a festive party dessert, Barbara makes the crepes occasionally for her family, which includes her husband, Pete, and daughters, Kathie, 13, and Kristy, 11.

In addition to culinary interests, Barbara is active in Campfire work and enjoys taking courses at Harper College and playing bridge.

SHRIMP AND MUSHROOMS ELEGANTE

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 2 7-ounce packages frozen, shelled shrimp, partially thawed
- 1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 1 cup butter
- 1 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- Dash of cayenne pepper
- 2 cups light cream
- 3 tablespoons white wine or more
- 1 cup shredded parmesan cheese

Melt 3 tablespoons butter in skillet. Add partially-thawed shrimp and mushrooms. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, about five minutes or until mushrooms are tender and shrimps turn pink and are done. Remove from skillet, saving juice, and set aside.

Add 1 cup butter to skillet. When melted, blend in flour and seasonings. Stir in cream all at once. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils.

Add shrimp, mushrooms and juice to sauce, reserving a few shrimp for garnish. Stir in wine and Parmesan cheese. Salt to taste. Keep warm in a chafing dish over hot water. Serve over hot, fluffy parsley rice. Pass extra cheese. Serves 4 to 6.

PARSLEY RICE

- 1 cup regular rice
 - 2 cups cold water
 - 1/4 to 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 to 2 tablespoons snipped fresh parsley
- Put rice, cold water and salt into a 2 quart saucepan. Cover with tight-fitting lid. Bring to a vigorous boil, then turn heat as low as possible. Continue cooking 14 minutes. Do not stir or lift cover. Turn off heat. Let rice steam, covered, for an additional 10 minutes. Add snipped parsley. Makes 3 cups cooked rice.

BLUE CHEESE SALAD

- Greens for 4 servings (iceberg lettuce and fresh spinach)
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, diced
- 8 quartered, drained artichoke hearts that have been canned in water

- 1/4 cup crisp, crumbled bacon or imitation bacon bits

Place all ingredients except the bacon in a bowl. Cover with plastic wrap and let stand in refrigerator about one hour. Prepare the following dressing:

- 3/4 cup sour cream
- 1 1/2 to 2 cups mayonnaise
- 1 4-ounce package crumbled blue cheese
- 1 tablespoon instant onion
- Dash of garlic salt

Blend ingredients together with an electric beater. Store in covered container in the refrigerator. Use as much as needed to toss with salad greens.

CHERRY CREPES JUBILEE

Crepes:

- 1 egg
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 tablespoon butter, melted
 - 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- Beat egg just enough to blend. Add remaining ingredients and beat until smooth with electric mixer.

Lightly grease an 8-inch skillet. Heat skillet just until a drop of water sizzles. Remove from heat and pour in about 3 tablespoons batter. Quickly tilt pan from side to side until batter covers bottom. Return to heat. Brown crepe on one side only.

Turn out on paper toweling. Repeat with remaining batter to make 8 crepes or more. Stack crepes with 2 sheets of waxed paper between each crepe.

Almond Cream Filling:

- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs
- 2 egg yolks
- 1/2 cup finely-chopped toasted almonds
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract

Combine sugar and flour. Add milk. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir 2 minutes more.

Beat eggs and egg yolks slightly. Stir small amount of hot mixture into eggs. Return all to hot mixture. Cook and stir just to boiling. If overcooked, it will be too thick. Remove from heat; beat with mixer until smooth. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cover with waxed paper and cool.

Brandied cherry sauce:

- 1 21-ounce can cherry pie filling
- 2 to 4 tablespoons brandy

CHERRY CREPES JUBILEE adds the elegant finishing touch to one of Mrs. Peter Schreiber's buffet dinners. She prepares thin crepes which she rolls up with a rich almond cream filling. The crepes are topped with a brandied cherry sauce and baked.

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice

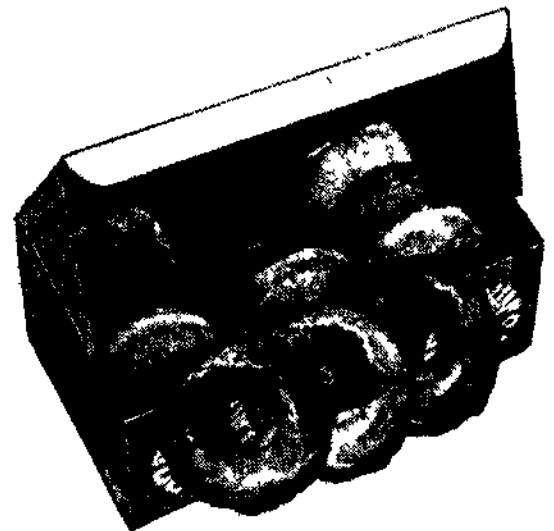

Heat all ingredients in a saucepan.

To assemble dessert, spread about 1/4 cup almond cream filling on unbrowned side of each crepe. Roll up and place in a 9 by 14-inch baking dish. Brush with about 2 tablespoons melted butter. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until hot. Remove from oven.

To serve, spoon heated brandied cherry sauce atop hot crepes in baking dish. Drizzle an additional 3 to 4 tablespoons brandy over the top, if desired. Serves 8 (Allow one crepe per person).

International Cooking System

Versatile fruit

When what to have for lunch is a problem, serve a fruited cottage cheese parfait. Alternate cottage cheese with luscious drained canned fruit cocktail in a stemmed glass, top with a small scoop of strawberry ice cream and fresh mint sprig. It's a "salad" that will appeal to the whole family.

We like to serve squares of warm gingerbread or spice cake with this most delicious fruit topping. Drain 2 cups canned fruit cocktail thoroughly and mix with 1/4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and a little salt. Whip 1 cup dairy sour cream and fold in the fruit cocktail mixture. Chill and serve over the cake squares.

New cooking system available to consumers

Everyday meals can become gourmet with the aid of Ekco's new International Cooking System. Designed to encourage creativity in the kitchen, the system enables experienced, as well as novice cooks to break away from regimented recipes to a more innovative style of cooking.

A comprehensive chart depicting basic cooking methods, thickeners, liquids, seasonings, meats and vegetables to use provides the basis for preparing hundreds of foreign foods.

All countries have the same cooking methods but various ingredients are what makes a dish typically French or Italian or Indonesian. The International Cooking System explains how to use basic cooking methods and common ingredients to create an endless number of international dishes. The exact number of possibilities is limited only by the imagination. This unique system eliminates the needs for volumes of ethnic cookbooks.

This approach to foreign cuisine has been condensed into a consumer kit to include a cookbook indexing world famous dishes by 18 different cooking methods. By selecting a method of cooking, be it stewing, braising, or meatloaf-style, the homemaker can utilize the index to determine which international dish she would like to prepare.

What would probably have been an ordinary American pot roast can be easily transformed into a main dish representative of any one of the 16 countries included in the guide.

For example, if a cook chooses Termera Con Crema (tear MARA/come/CRA ma) under the pot roast category of the cookbook; easy reference to an alphabetical listing of dishes following the index will reveal which ingredients to use.

This dish, of Mexican origin, specifies tender veal, cut into serving size pieces, should be seasoned with black pepper and simmered with onions and small potatoes which have been boiled in beef stock. When the veal is almost cooked, sweet cream is added and simmered until thoroughly heated.

Quantities, basic procedure and variations are listed on the cooking chart. Thus, the cook can easily adjust the recipes to suit ingredients on hand and family tastes. The cookbook also includes suggestions for systematic recording of the recipes you have created and perfected.

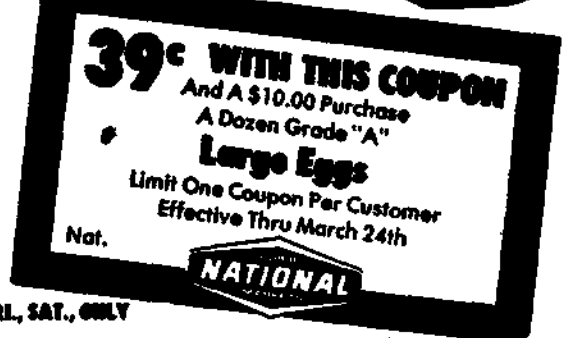

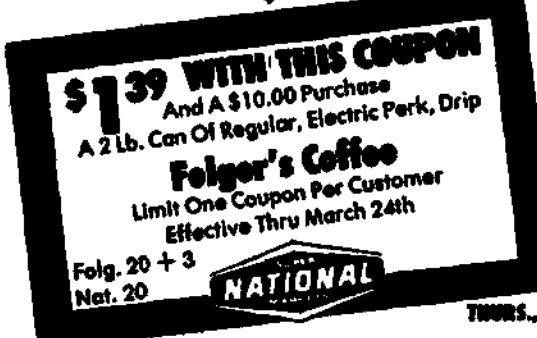

The International Cooking System offers a new approach to cooking. With the aid of the easy reference chart and cookbook, basic American stew will become Hungarian Beef Gulyash, Chinese Chicken with Walnuts, or dozens of other variations.

Consumers may obtain the complete International Cooking System kit by sending $1, along with name and address to Ekco Housewares Company, Educational Services Division, 6234 W. Belmont Ave., Franklin Park, Illinois 60131.

ERA: hottest debate since Prohibition

by MONICA WILCH

"Equality of rights under law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any State on account of sex."

So states the proposed 27th amendment to the Constitution of the United States, the "Equal Rights Amendment," aimed at eliminating discrimination against women.

Not since Prohibition days has a constitutional amendment been so hotly debated. The ERA was termed "a simple matter of justice" by the President's Task Force on Women's Rights and Responsibilities. But the opposition sees it as a "fraud" that will take away the "right to be a woman."

Already handicapped by its natural appeal to emotions and fear, the issue is further clouded by the simple fact that neither the proponents or opponents can predict precisely what will happen in the future as a result of the ERA, since it is so far-reaching in its ramifications. This fact, gives the opposition an automatic edge, since it is human nature to prefer the status quo over change, and all the more so if that change is cloaked with the unknown.

Nevertheless, when the emotionalism is stripped away, a body of empirical material emerges:

Will ERA eliminate the right of a woman to be supported by her husband? It is a false assumption, based on outdated laws, that husbands are legally obligated to support their wives. Chapter 68, Section 15 of the Illinois Revised Statutes — the law that applies today — states that the expenses of the family are the responsibility of "both the husband and wife."

Additionally, the Yale Law Journal stated in 1971 that it is a "standard tenet of American jurisprudence" that the courts will not interfere in "an ongoing marriage relationship." Judith Lonnquist, attorney associated with the National Organization for Women, explains that "only under separate maintenance," that is, divorce proceedings, will the courts require support from a husband.

And even then, current legal practice is trending away from automatically requiring alimony from the husband. (See series on Divorce in The Herald, March 5-7.) Alimony is now being determined by ability to pay and by need, and wives are in more and more cases being denied alimony or required to pay it.

Moreover, it can be argued that since the courts are ruling in divorce cases that women are capable of self-support, the ERA is needed to insure that these women will actually be able to find equal employment at equal pay.

Will housewives have to go out and work to provide their 50 per cent of the family's support? The monetary value of housework and child-rearing has been established and upheld in the ERA. But the opposition's specters of "men and women (soldiers) squatting over open latrines on the battlefield" not only come from a different country — Russia — with different laws and practices, but also from a different time in history. Even the Russian Army does not do things today the way it did 70 years ago.

Moreover, many historians and political scientists believe that any future war, in this age of sophisticated weaponry, would be totally incompatible with traditional tactics of combat by armies. The Vietnam War — even without the crimination continues to be practiced and must be fought case by case; there is currently a backlog of 27,000 cases in the 10-state region including Illinois, and at least 1,000 in Chicago alone. 2) ERA will shift the burden — and expense — of legal responsibility from the woman to the employer; the burden of proving discrimination will be lifted from the woman and the burden of proving no discrimination placed on employers. 3) ERA will close the loopholes in Title 7 — such as, that only employers of 15 or more persons are subject to the equal employment provision.

laws? This is one of the more substantive objections to ERA — but also one that is most clouded by the impossibility of predicting future legal and social developments.

Florence Criley, a labor representative for the United Electrical Workers, calls the ERA a "two-edged sword" in this respect.

"You want equal rights for women and you have wanted it so badly for so long," says the 40-year veteran of women's labor, but the ERA "could be quite dangerous."

What worries Florence Criley is the fate of working women who are not union members. "So many unorganized women are at their employers' mercy," she said. She cited overtime as an example.

"Many contracts and many unorganized plants don't have a clause making overtime voluntary," she said.

If ERA is passed, Miss Criley fears, many women will be faced with the choice of working overtime or losing their jobs. If they have children, they may not be able to work overtime, she added.

"THE WOMEN fighting for ERA are not working class women," Miss Criley believes, and thus they often are not aware of the situation of women who work in factories. For professional women, Miss Criley said, the ERA will definitely be beneficial in insuring equal opportunities and pay.

But Miss Criley conceded that "in the majority of our shops, overtime is voluntary because the unions have fought for it."

Moreover, ERA proponents point out that many protective labor laws have already been struck down by the Civil Rights Act of 1964 because they discriminate on the basis of sex.

According to an attorney for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission,

Equal Rights Amendment

What's fight all about?

courts, according to Rep. Giddy Dyer (D-Hinsdale). A wife's 50 per cent contribution can be to stay home and take care of the house and children.

Will the ERA make women subject to the draft? Since the draft has been discontinued, this argument is moot. However, even before the abolition of the draft, it could have been applied to women. There was never a law preventing the drafting of women, and, according to President Nixon's Citizens Advisory Council on the Status of Women, such plans existed on paper during World War II and would have been activated if the war had continued.

But, even if the draft is re-instated in the future, Rep. Dyer has pointed out, it has always made special provisions, such as for parents of small children, conscientious objectors, special abilities or requests for particular assignments.

The draft issue has evoked the most emotional of the arguments surrounding use of nuclear weapons — proved to be an entirely different situation from the two world wars and highly unsuited to the use of armies.

The opponents of ERA have argued that the amendment will "put women on warships." But this, too, has already happened. Women are currently serving in the Navy aboard ships as crew members, including at least one girl from the Northwest suburbs.

Will ERA create common wash rooms? The right to privacy in toilet facilities, dorms, barracks, prisons, etc., was upheld by the Supreme Court in Griswold v. Connecticut.

Isn't the ERA unnecessary since the Civil Rights Act of 1964 already grants equal employment and equal pay? The ERA is still considered necessary for several reasons, according to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which administers Title 7 of the Civil Rights Act: 1) Despite the Act, job dis-

Don't the 5th and 14th amendments already grant equal rights to all citizens? According to the President's Task Force, the Supreme Court has upheld or refused to review cases of discrimination based on sex. The ERA is needed to strengthen and extend these equal rights provisions. For example, in many places women can't sign mortgages and leases, can't start businesses or get loans or credit. In addition, single women are often discriminated against in tax structures. The ERA would eliminate all of these discriminatory practices.

Will the ERA abolish protective labor

by MONICA WILCH

"I've been getting loads of mail on the ERA and 90 per cent is anti"—Rep. Jack B. Williams (D-Franklin Park)

"We could actually be defeated by a well-organized minority."—Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights)

Who is behind the alleged "grassroots uprising" against the Equal Rights Amendment? Is it the housewives of America, who have been portrayed as resisting ERA monolithically and resenting their more aggressive "liberated" sisters?

"No, it's not true that housewives are against it," says Julie Sass, who heads the Northwest Coalition for ERA. "The core of ERA Central and of our northwest suburban group is housewives. Our greatest response has been from housewives."

And yet, one of the anti-ERA groups, called the Right To Be Woman Committee, claimed at the Governor's Conference on Women's Rights last December that they "represent 600,000 women in Illinois who are against ERA."

The group claimed to represent, among others, Catholic women. The Council of Catholic Women officially opposes ERA but has left the decision up to each individual woman, and a spokeswoman for the organization in Chicago said she "never heard of" the Right To Be A Woman Committee.

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL of Catholic Women has issued a statement "for equal rights but against the amendment," according to Jean Murphy, president of the vicariate here. But she declined to comment on the attitudes of area CCW members because "no poll of the membership has been taken."

She said no organized effort has been launched by CCW against the amendment but that the women are being urged to write their legislators individually. The CCW has attempted to inform women on both sides of the issue, she said.

The mailing that was sent out by CCW discussing the pros and cons of ERA was prepared entirely from material supplied by Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, a long-time opponent of ERA.

Despite the official stand of CCW, several local Catholic leaders interviewed by The Herald favor the ERA. Sister Virginia Sterbick of St. Viator High School observed, "Just because CCW says something, it doesn't mean it's necessarily true. I don't have to agree with them."

Sr. Virginia has long been outspoken in favor of women assuming an active role in society outside of the home. She doesn't believe the ERA will "break up the family," she said, and she feels women have civic responsibilities which it is their duty to fulfill.

Sister Ida Gannon, president of Mundelein College in Chicago, also favors the ERA. Sr. Ida served on the President's Task Force on Women's Rights and Responsibilities.

"I wish more of the positive sides would be presented," she said.

Marge Larson, president of the St. James Women's Guild in Arlington Heights, told The Herald she, too is in favor of ERA.

IF THERE IS ANY organized force actively against ERA, it is the John Birch Society. The far-right political organization opposes the basic concept of equal rights for women. As member Phil Dowd of Elk Grove Village put it, "My wife doesn't want to be lowered to my level."

The John Birch Society has been distributing anti-ERA material and encouraging its members to campaign and contribute financially against ERA but Dowd denied that the society is financing an organized effort to prevent ratification.

Dowd charged that an "illusion of popularity" has been created around the ERA and that it has been "ram-rodded" through the various state legislatures. He said many of them are now "having second thoughts" and will rescind their approval. (Since Dowd was interviewed, one state, Nebraska, has rescinded ERA.)

However, according to a professor of constitutional law at Northwestern University Law School, the amendment process is "governed by Congress, and it is up to Congress to decide what to do" once an amendment has been ratified by a state, if its legislators think they want to change their minds.

According to legislative researchers of the National Business and Professional Women's Clubs, there have been two precedents for states rescinding ratificalaws restricting hours and weight-lifting have been struck down in California, Oklahoma, Missouri and Louisiana under the Civil Rights Act. In addition, the courts have ruled in other states in a number of cases that such protective laws violate the Act.

Protective clauses applying only to women in union contracts are also considered a violation by the EEOC.

ERA backers propose that beneficial protective labor laws could be extended to cover men as well as women — which is already the only viable procedure that can be followed, without ERA. Any protective clauses in union contracts that cover both men and women would not be affected by ERA.

Of foremost concern to proponents of ERA is their contention that in many cases, protective labor laws have only served to keep women in lower-paying, lower-status jobs. One example they cite is janitorial services, where women are not paid as much as men because they are not expected to lift weights over 50 pounds. Yet in many other occupations, such as nursing, women lift much heavier weights, such as patients.

Will ERA eliminate laws protecting women from sex crimes? A number of states, currently revising their criminal codes, are changing their laws regarding sex crimes to protect men as well as women, according to attorney Renee Hanover of the Women's Law Center. Ohio and Hawaii are two states which already have done this. Thus, there seems to be little indication that the states will be inclined toward eliminating their sex laws.

The House Executive Committee will hold hearings this afternoon on the Equal Rights Amendment. They are scheduled in the House chambers starting at 2 p.m.

Senate Executive Committee hearings on ERA will be conducted Wednesday, March 28, in Room 212 of the State Capitol Building.

THERE'LL BE ENTERTAINMENT "at home" for Dana Graeson, 6, Michael Pittman, 5, and the other children while their mothers take a quick "trip" to an island paradise to bask amid palms, tropical flowers and exotic music. Spring Thing Ala Hawaii, an Hawaiian luncheon with art exhibit and bazaar, will be held Thursday, March 29, in First United Methodist Church of Arlington Heights. The WSCS has planned the luncheon in two seatings, 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Tickets for the lunch and nursery can be obtained from Mrs. William Boll, 255-1368.

People who live in fiberglass house . . .

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — One thing leads to another:

For Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wesson of Southbury, Conn., first it was a fiberglass sailboat.

Now they own the only fiberglass house in their neighborhood.

In fact, it's one of just 12 homes in Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Georgia, New Hampshire and New York using fiberglass reinforced plastic (FRP) arched wall-ceiling sections in a new Polyarch Building System developed by Rudkin-Wiley Corp., Stratford, Conn.

The Wessons say they wanted a house "that would be as comfortable to live in as it would be to look at. A house that would be personal and different yet fit in easily with its surroundings. A house that would be easy to care for."

porary home, nestled in a heavily wooded area, does just this. It combines graceful, curving wall-ceiling sections with ample expanses of glass, rich wood trim and, as a dramatic focal point, a free-standing, stone fireplace and chimney rising from a conversation pit through the glassed ceiling of the living room.

Says Mrs. Wesson: "We're quite proud of the house. People like to see it because it's so different. If we had to do it over again, we'd definitely pick fiberglass since we've found the material to be as good as we expected from our experience with the boat."

Says Hal Mathews, Rudkin-Wiley marketing manager: "It takes a certain amount of courage for a young family like the Wessons to build a house like this. After all it's new and innovative."

But, he added, "fiberglass is a proven material, dating from its first use as an industrial building insulator 30 years ago. Its use in home building is only just beginning."

MATHEWS SAYS his company expects to sell 125 Polyarch homes this year and is planning an adaptation of the system for town houses and garden apartments. He predicts within five years five per cent of the new home market will consist of fiberglass homes.

In the Wesson home, the FRP sections form the main structural element and are bolted to prefabricated mahogany window, door and solid panels to form the enclosed area.

The home is built over a full, finished concrete lower level, but Mathews says the system will work with any type of foundation, including piers, crawl space, basement and slab. It can be built in any climate.

The Polyarch segments, L-shaped, can be turned in any direction so that home design and layout possibilities are virtually unlimited, Mathews said.

Color is impregnated into interior and exterior surfaces to eliminate painting. The panels have high impact and scratch resistance. Gutters and drains are not required because of the curved surfaces.

FOR THE ADVANCED do-it-yourselfer, the fiberglass segments and window, door and solid panels can be purchased and erected without special equipment. Each 400-pound section is 13 feet long and 4½ feet wide, predrilled at the factory for universal mating.

"Since the home is basically prefabricated," Mathews said, "it may take as little as 45 days from start of excavation to occupancy. The shell of the house itself — the arched sections — can go up in a single day."

He said the standard packaged homes the firm has built range in price from $20,000 to $50,000 with custom designed homes reaching the $100,000 range.

"Builders costs for putting up one of our homes," he said, "range from $14 to $20 per square foot, compared with $12 for tract homes and as high as $30 for contemporary packaged homes."

RUDKIN-WILEY, one of the innovators of fiberglass forms used in highrise building construction such as 1' Enfant Plaza in Washington, the Christian Science Center in Boston, the F.D.R. Post Office Building in New York, is manufacturing the Polyarch System on the East Coast at present, with expansion planned to serve the rest of the country.

If things go the way the people at Rudkin-Wiley think they will, fiberglass homes might just become as commonplace as fiberglass boats. But then, it was not too long ago that owners of fiberglass boats were the first in their marinas.

How legislators stand on ERA

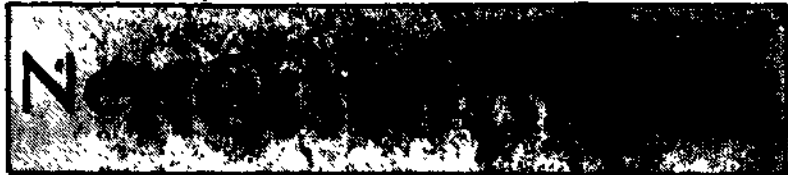

Here is how the legislators representing the districts of the northwest suburbs would vote on the Equal Rights Amendment at this time. Those who could not be reached by The Herald are listed with the vote (in parentheses) they cast on ERA in the last session of the legislature, if they are incumbents.

SENATE: Bradley M. Glass (R-Northfield) — Yes; John A. Graham (R-Barrington) — (No); David J. Regner (R-Mt. Prospect) — (No); John J. Nimrod (R-Skokie) — undecided; Howard R. Mohr (R-Forest Park) — (No).

HOUSE: Brian Duff (R-Willmette) — Yes; John Edward Porter (R-Evanston) — Yes; Harold A. Katz (D-Glenview) — Yes; John E. Friedland (R-Elgin) — (No); Richard A. Mugallan (D-Palatine) — Yes;

Leo D. LaFleur (R-Bloomington) — no response; Donald L. Totten (R-Hoffman Estates) — no response; Virginia B. Macdonald (R-Arlington Heights) — Yes; Eugenia S. Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) — Yes; Robert S. Juckett (R-Park Ridge) — (No);

WHEELING HOMEMAKERS

"Your Palm and You" was the program Wednesday for Wheeling Homemaker Organization. Mrs. W. D. McReynolds, local resident and student of palmistry, explained the principles of palm reading to allow "even the amateur to predict future events."

Prior to the program the group held a salad luncheon. This committee, headed by Mrs. J. J. Stiller, included Mrs. Richard Ringelstein, Mrs. Henry Meindl, Mrs. John Shelk and Mrs. James Miller.

THE SPARES

Lt. Col. Edgar A. House, U.S.M.C., Assistant Chief of Staff, Fourth Marine Aircraft Wing, Marine Air Reserve Training Command at Glenview, and former member of the Los Angeles Police Department, will be the Spares Sunday Evening Club speaker Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 2328 Central Road, Glenview. His subject will be "The Life of a Marine Pilot."

BOOK REVIEW CLUB

Prospect Heights Book Review Club will meet in Old Orchard Country Club at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday for a continental breakfast followed by a review of "The Diary of Ann Lindberg — Hour of Gold, Hour of Lead" and "A Day No Pigs Would Die."

Reviewer will be Martha Hopkins. Cancellations and guest reservations are due Monday with Mrs. Max Lyle, 286-1784.

KAPPA DELTA

A "Time for Philanthropy" will be the theme of Monday's meeting of the Northwest Suburban Kappa Delta Alumnae Association. Members will make toys and table decorations for Northwest Suburban Aid to the Retarded, the Lutheran Home for the Aged and the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, Va.

This meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Donald Sinn, 182 N. Dean Drive, Palatine. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. John Glueckert and Mrs. James Murphy, both of Arlington Heights.

New members interested in attending the meeting may contact Mrs. Thomas Meier at 285-8652.

EPSILON SIGMA ALPHA

Gamma Tau Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha will celebrate its fourth birthday with a bingo party at 8 p.m. Monday at the Schaumburg home of Mary Carroll. Each member will bring two inexpensive gifts to be given away at the end of the birthday celebration.

CAMBRIDGE WOMEN

Members of Cambridge Countryside Women's Club will be luncheon next Wednesday at Enrico and Bros., Wheeling. Anita Schwein, Carol Coe and Edith Noelle will be hostesses for the 12:30 luncheon.

The program by Cindy Mueller will be a demonstration of Japanese flower arranging.

Further information on the luncheon may be obtained from the club president, Mrs. Ross Bowen, 537-5938.

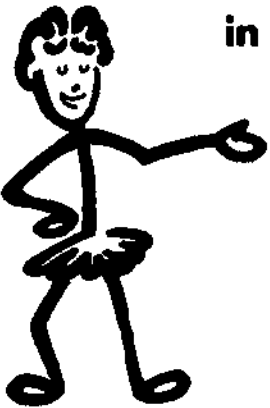

Cards, entertainment for Hines veterans

Des Plaines Woman's Club is planning an afternoon of cards and entertainment Tuesday for the veterans at Hines Hospital, a project which it undertakes annually.

Sixteen members, including Mrs. Arthur Outlaw, club president, and Mrs.

Peter Heinisch, who is in charge of arrangements, will spend the afternoon at the hospital. They will present more than 100 decks of playing cards to veterans and several cartons of books for the hospital library.

LUTHERAN GENERAL

Brandon Eric Desch is a little brother for Christina Lee, age 4. Both are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Steven M. Desch of 10394 Michael Todd Ter., Des Plaines. Brandon arrived Feb. 27 weighing 5 pounds 14 ounces. Grandparents are Mrs. Rose Harrington of Mundelein; Mr. and Mrs. Venice Desch of Dayton, O.; and Lawrence Beck of Elk Grove Village. Great-grandmother Mrs. Ruth Beck resides in Wheeling.

Jeffrey Thomas Fischer weighed 9 pounds 3 1/2 ounces at birth Feb. 27. He is a son for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Fischer, 1749 Illinois St., Des Plaines, and a brother to Jodi Lynn, age 4. The children's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis Getzinger and the Hubert Fischers, all of Des Plaines.

Michael Edward Gilie is the first baby for Mr. and Mrs. Gerald J. Gilie, 8801 Des Road, Des Plaines. The tiny newcomer weighed 4 pounds 1/2 ounce at birth March 2 but has now gained enough weight for his "welcome home" party. The Edward Gilies of Buffalo Grove and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Berkley of Glenview are the grandparents.

MEMORIAL-DUPAGE

Amy Virginia Angarola's birth March 5 makes it a quartette of daughters for Mr. and Mrs. Barry R. Angarola, 513 Summit Drive Lancer Park, Schaumburg. Sisters of the 7 pound 12 ounce baby are Cynthia, 6, Mariellen, 5, and Susan, 2. The girls' grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Rocco Angarola, Newport Ritchie, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wiemerslage, Franklin Park.

Michael Allen Smith has joined a 5-year-old brother Billy in the Larry E. Smith home at 117 W. Charleston Lane, Hoffman Estates. Born March 11, Michael weighed 9 pounds 9 ounces. The boys are the grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. John Heaps of Bensenville and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, Dallas, Texas.

Laetitia Renee Jensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil S. Jensen, 865 Piper Lane, Wheeling, was born March 6 weighing 8 pounds 12 ounces. She is a sister for Emil Jr., 5, and a grand-daughter for Mr. and Mrs. James E. Westendorf, Lombard, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rodgers, Linn Creek, Mo.

Heather Anne Ecklund, first child for Mr. and Mrs. John Ecklund, 416 N. Wilke Road, Palatine, was born March 6 weighing 6 pounds 1 ounce. Grandparents of Heather are Mr. and Mrs. C. Wojtalik, Itasca, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Ecklund, Chicago.

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

James Gordon Roberts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Roberts, 127 Stonegate Road, Buffalo Grove, was born March 15 weighing 8 pounds 5 1/2 ounces. The couple also has a daughter, Christy Lynn, 2. Grandparents of the children are Mrs. Marion Smith and Mr. and Mrs. James O. Roberts, all of Palo Alto, Calif.

Christopher Brian Knutson was born March 12 to Mr. and Mrs. Brian E. Knutson, 606 N. Wren, Palatine. He is a sister for Karla Denise, 2. Grandparents of the 6 pound 9 1/2 ounce baby and his sister are H. R. Knutson, Medina, Ill., and Felix S. Jarczyk, Palatine.

Patrick Mark Elvir was a 9 pound 5 ounce arrival March 16 for Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Elvir, 1314 S. Ridge, Arlington Heights. Other children in the family are Michael, 8, Karen, 5, and David, 4. Mr. and Mrs. Merin J. Egle and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Elvir, all of New Orleans, La., are the grandparents.

Michael George Demos is the first child for Mr. and Mrs. George Demos, Des Plaines. He was born March 15 weighing 7 pounds 12 ounces. Chicago residents Mrs. Rosemary Lyons and Mrs. Angeline Demos are Michael's grandparents.

Jeannine Marie Kappes has joined Kathy, 3, and Linda, 1, at 2210 Fulle St., Rolling Meadows. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Kappes, Jeannine was born March 13 weighing 7 pounds 8 ounces. The Consumer by Michael J. ...

Buying a used car can be a very risky business, but it doesn't necessarily have to be that way. First, there are basic criteria that any consumer can use to critically evaluate a used car before buying — if the consumer will take the time to inform himself instead of just walking into a used car dealership cold and expecting honesty and integrity on the part of the salesman.

Secondly, there are a number of laws, both state and federal, that exist to protect the consumer against what is often outright illegal practice on the part of a dealer — if the consumer informs himself of the law and doesn't just assume that injustice is a part of American capitalism that simply must be swallowed.

Take, for example, the story of an 18-year-old Des Plaines girl, who bought a required certification that the odometer reading has not been altered.

While he is shopping for cars, the consumer should also shop for dealers. A call to the Better Business Bureau in the case above would have disclosed the information that this Arlington Heights dealer has been named in eight complaints in the last two years and that in four of those instances, the dealer did not respond in any way to the BBB to settle the disputes. In two cases, the dealer apparently responded but the disputes still were not settled, and in one case, the problem was "explained."

This dealer also failed to respond to another complaint filed with the Attorney General's Consumer Fraud Division.

FINALLY, HERE are some things to check when evaluating used cars, according to Consumer Reports:

Observe body surfaces; ripples, bumps, graininess, mismatched color indicate repaired sheet metal damage.

Examine lower edges of body, behind bumpers, rocker panels, around doors, inside trunk, for rust.

Operate windows, door locks, seat adjustments; power mechanisms should be avoided in used cars.

Examine interior for hard use — worn pedal pads, steering wheel; also, check for worn tires.

Step down on brake pedal, hold for a minute; if it continues to sink, indicates repair of $10-$60.

Start engine, listen for loud noises, check gauges and warning lights and see that they go off.

Shake front wheel at top to and from you; free play or clunking sounds indicate worn wheel bearings — $20-$100.

Bounce body of car; it should move up and stop at equilibrium; freer motion indicates worn shock absorbers.

Drive the car; automatic transmission should take hold promptly and smoothly; upon acceleration, car should pick up speed smoothly.

BRAKE FROM 45 mph; brake pedal should remain high and solid, not become spongy or grab or swerve; then accelerate and look for puffs of blue exhaust smoke indicating engine overhaul needed.

Drive over rough road and notice any rattles, squeaks.

Read warranty carefully, look for major loopholes; newer car may still be covered by manufacturer's 5-year/50,000-mile warranty and thus is worth more than car not so covered.

Cutting risks when buying a used car

1971 Chevrolet Vega from Lincoln Mercury dealer on Northwest Highway in Arlington Heights.

She brought the car home last Sept. 13, and on Oct. 13 returned it for front end alignment and turn signal repair necessitated by fuses that kept blowing. The Ford Gold Crest warranty covered only half of the $44.16 bill.

ON OCT. 18, the car began belching smoke from under the hood and again was returned to the dealer for repair. On Oct. 22, the girl picked up her car, drove home and discovered the horn didn't work.

Nov. 14 — she pulled the car out of the driveway, at which time smoke billowed from under the dashboard and the faulty horn began blowing. The appraised cost of repair was $165.86 — of which the dealer would pay nothing, claiming the warranty did not cover it.

The car was taken by its owner to another garage, whose mechanics discovered that the fire had resulted from negligence on the part of the original dealer during previous repairs. On that basis, the girl's insurance paid this repair.

But in the meantime, she had also contacted the previous owner and discovered that the dealer had also set the Vega's odometer back some 6,000 miles — a practice prohibited by both state and federal law.

The girl has since brought charges against the dealer under the Illinois Consumer Fraud Act, the litigation is pending.

NOW, THERE ARE several lessons to be learned here. First, with regard to the car itself, virtually all 1971 and 1972 Vegas have been recalled in three separate campaigns for corrections and defects. Anyone buying a used car should first find out if the car he is considering has ever been recalled by writing for a copy of Motor Vehicle Safety Defect Recall Campaigns, Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C. 20402. If it has been recalled, he should then determine whether the previous owner had the defect corrected by asking the dealer to check the car's serial number with the manufacturer's warranty processing center.

Next, he should look for the federally-

League to distribute 5000 Voters' Guides

Five thousand copies of Voters' Guide booklets will be distributed by the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights - Mount Prospect Area prior to municipal and township elections April 3.

These booklets contain answers to questionnaires on such subjects as revenue sharing, open meetings, flood control and other pertinent topics which were sent to village board, park board, and library board candidates in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Village, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove. Even in uncontested elections, questionnaires were included in an effort to give the public complete information.

The 10-15 page Voters' Guides will be available in libraries, banks and local businesses in the various communities. Anyone interested in bulk amounts may call the League's Voters service chairman, Mrs. John DeFeo, 541-1294. A separate School Board Voters' Guide will be available just before the elections.

The league, which considers itself a community service organization, does not have fund raising projects throughout the year but concentrates on an annual finance drive. At this time, league members call on local business and professional people to obtain the contributions that enable the league to continue its work. This year the finance drive is being held the week of March 26 and all called upon will be given a copy of the new Voters' Guide.

Carpet talk at salad lunch

Earl Marshall of the Carpet Shop, Elk Grove Village, will be guest speaker at the Elk Grove Village Nurses Club open salad bar luncheon March 31.

Mr. Marshall is a member of the Chicago Land Floor Covering Association which seeks to promote quality and reliability in carpet sales. He has also been a guest speaker at the home economic classes lecturing on carpet quality and color coordination.

The 1 p.m. luncheon will be held at the Prince of Peace Methodist Church, Devon at Arlington Heights Roads. There will be a $2 donation. For more information readers may call Mrs. Walter Sterrett, 583-5782.

Mary Zolecki

Lynn Paveza

Pamela Schwank

Mary Zolecki's engagement to Donald (Chip) Heinz, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Heinz of Peoria, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Zolecki, 606 N. Fairview, Mount Prospect.

Mary is a '69 graduate of Prospect High School and will earn a degree in June from Illinois State University. Normal Chip graduated last year from Illinois State and is employed by the Waukegan Police Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paveza of Prospect Heights have announced the engagement of their daughter Lynn Virginia to Robert M. Tschannen, son of the Morris Tschannens of Wood River, Ill.

The couple plan to be married in August 1974.

A '69 graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Lynn is attending Northern Illinois University where her fiancé is also a student. He is a graduate of Roxana, (Ill.) High School.

A Palatine couple, Pamela Ann Schwank and Thomas N. McGuinn, are engaged and planning to be married in April 1974. Pamela's parents, the Jack R. Schwanks of 920 N. Quentin Road, are making the announcement.

Thomas is the son of Mrs. Marlene McGuinn, 340 Maple St., Mount Prospect, and C. W. McGuinn of Nichols Road, Palatine.

Both Pamela and her fiancé are graduates of Fremd High School. She works for the Palatine Post Office and he for Marlis Construction, Lincolnshire.

Sharon Buczek

Karen Kramer

Melody Lockwood

Aug. 11 is the wedding date set by Sharon Buczek of Mount Prospect and Vernon Anderson of Palatine. Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Buczek of 106 W. Orchard Place are making the announcement of their daughter's engagement and marriage plans.

Sharon is a graduate of Forest View High School and will earn her degree from Millikan University in May. Her fiancé, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Anderson Jr., 1128 Pintail Court, Palatine, is a graduate of Fremd High.

The engagement of Karen Michele Kramer to John D. Taylor of Hoffman Estates is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Kramer of Medinah, Ill. Their wedding date is Oct. 6.

John is the son of Mrs. Maxine Taylor, 118 Mohawk Lane, Hoffman Estates, and John Taylor of Woodridge, Ill. He graduated from Conant High School in '67, attended Harper College and served two years in the U.S. Army before going to work for the village of Hoffman Estates.

Karen, a '70 graduate of Lake Park High, studied at the College of DuPage and is now working for U.S. Life Credit Corp., Schaumburg.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Charles Lockwood Jr., 201 W. Orchard, Arlington Heights, are announcing their daughter Melody's engagement and approaching marriage to R. Dennis Misora, son of the Chester Misoras of Gary, Ind.

The wedding will take place May 26.

Dee graduated from Arlington High School, attended Harper College and is a secretary for K-Mart Enterprises, Randhurst. Her fiancé graduated from a Gary high school and is a department manager for the K-Mart store in Arlington Heights.

Newcomers plan coffee and dance

Next Tuesday is the date for the Welcome Wagon of Palatine coffee to be held at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Norman Rathfon. Interested newcomers may call Mrs. Gerald Griffith, president, at 359-7839 or Mrs. Peter Buckstaff, hospitality chairman, 358-9292 for reservations.

The group is planning a spring dinner dance for April 14 at Lancer's Steak House. The evening will open with cocktails at 6:30, drinks will be $1 at the cash bar. At 7:30 the dinner will be served after which guests will dance in the ballroom to the music of Norm Ladd. Cost of the evening is $16 per couple and all friends of newcomers are invited.

Reservations for the dance can be made by calling Mrs. Paul Jennings, social chairman, at 359-8346 before April 10.

Dear Dorothy: I've heard of putting Epsom salts around rosebushes later in the season, but what prompts you to recommend these salts for the bushes in the spring? Where did you get this information? I've never seen it in any of my rose books.

—Clara Rauh
Charles Dawson, one of the best rosearians I've ever met, was the one who prompted it. He said it would induce new canes and strengthen old ones — that when applied later in the year might bring on new sprouts too weak to stand a hard winter. I practiced the Epsom salt feeding every spring on my own roses — so did all my neighbors and friends and still do.

Dear Dorothy: I'm writing this in anger, hoping you can see fit to add your voice in protest too. I've just had to wait three hours for my daughter at the airport — all because they gave me "on time" information about a flight that was still on the ground 300 miles away.

—Josephine Pollard
Glad to join you. Why is it that their vaunted computers can locate a vacant seat in Brittle Bend, Ariz., in all of 15 seconds — and yet can't convey even halfway accurate departure and landing information for passengers and those coming to meet families? The first airline to tell the truth about arrivals will make both friends and dollars.

Dear Dorothy: When I make a tomato sauce or a dish containing tomatoes, I find it improves the taste to add a little sugar. For the new cook, one should start with a half-teaspoon, then taste. If the taste suits, leave it alone. If not, you can always add a bit more.

Frankenstein's Monster

by Mary F.

Today's column has been four months in the making. It's not that I wrote a word a day, although I could have put out a book in the interim.

Actually, last November I set out to squirrel away the largest collection of seed catalogs ever known to modern man. Umpteen letters and three rolls of stamps later, I found I had created another Frankenstein's monster.

The seed catalogs started rolling in so fast that the "letters from mom" and the junk mail got lost in the shuffle. I haven't paid my bills in weeks; I can't find them.

But I have a mountain of catalogs, unprecedented and unparalleled in the annals of the U.S. postal service.

I have assembled many new products and items of interest for my loyal readers. Over the next two weeks, I will share them.

NATURAL DEVELOPMENT CO. (Bainbridge, Pa. 17502) sells organic plant and lawn food called NITRELL in 200 pound bags for use in fertilizer spreaders. They've also got TRI-EXCEL-DS, an organic bug killer, non-toxic to humans and warm-blooded pets. (The base is ryania, pyrethrin, both condoned by the ecology movement, and the organic people.)

Space age tomatoes for people with no outdoor garden are offered through the Walter Drake catalog (Drake Building, Colorado Springs, Colo. 80900). These tomatoes grow in a bucket of water — no soil needed, climb to 10 feet tall and are said to bear 20 to 30 pounds of tomatoes from one plant. Too good to be true, but the apartment-dwellers might give it a go for $1.69. Drake's also sells a handy tool called a crab jack, which looks like a cake spatula with fork tines on it.

Bursels sprouts? It has a weird growth habit, if you've never planted it. Get it from Harris Seeds, Rochester, N.Y. 14603.

FIRST LADYBUGS, then praying mantis, then trichogramma wasp, now hear this: "Free pregnant seahorse who will give birth up to 25 colts when you order and two mated seahorse pairs for $2.98. (Aqualand, P.O. Box 130, Dept. W52-S, Miami, Fla. 33145.)"

Gurney Seeds (Yankton, D.S. 57078) has gas plants, balloon flower seeds and obedient plants — for the talk of the town, snowberry bush, grafting wax, blue potatoes and hazelnut trees.

From Nichols Herb and Rare Seed Nursery catalog (1190 N. Pacific Hwy., Albany, Ore. 97321) I gleaned rue (repels fleas and flies), angelica (witch doctor cure for bronchitis), lavender (repels moths) and cardoon (used as a laxative), many varieties of mint, a strain of corn the Aztec Indians grew 2,000 years ago, winemaking supplies of all kinds, yogurt incubator, shallots and comfrey.

More on this next week. Meantime, why not take in the Chicago World Flower and Garden Show at McCormick Place this week? It's a nice way to greet spring!

Bigger paychecks for teachers in two area districts

by JILL BETTNER
Teachers in two of the four local school districts will be taking home bigger paychecks next year as the result of raises recently approved by the school boards in Dists. 125 and 96.

Negotiations on the 1973-74 teacher contract are continuing in Dists. 214 and 21. Because sessions are closed to the public, it is not known if the bargaining teams are close to agreements.

Teacher salary increases averaging 4.9 per cent were approved this week by the Dist. 125 School Board. The new schedule was approved last Friday by the Stevenson teachers association.

ACCORDING TO the 1973-74 teacher contract, base pay for a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience will be raised from $8,184 to $8,300.

Other increases range from 5.9 per cent for teachers still on their way up the salary schedule to 1.4 per cent for those with 14 years experience. That is the top of the present pay schedule.

The Dist. 125 School Board also agreed to add two steps to the new schedule to provide for pay increases for teachers with 17 and 20 years of experience. The pay of some of these teachers has been frozen at the top of the schedule since 1968, according to Dist. 125 Supt. Harold Banser.

Banser has estimated that the raises will add $38,000 to next year's budget. The average raise will amount to about $630 per teacher for the 61 instructors presently in the district. The average salary for a Stevenson high school teacher this year is $13,257 for a 200-day school year.

Dist. 96 teachers are in line for a 6 per cent raise in their salaries next year. The pay hike was approved at the latest meeting of that school board.

Beginning teachers in that district will start at $8,000 with a bachelor's degree and no experience.

THE HIGHEST salary specified in the Dist. 96 schedule is $12,760. It requires a master's degree, 15 additional semester hours and 15 years' teaching experience.

Negotiating teams representing the Dist. 214 School Board and the Dist. 214 Education Association (teachers) have been bargaining for the past 57 days. No press releases have been issued and there are no indications as to when a settlement will be reached.

Negotiations between the School Dist. 21 Board and the Wheeling Faculty Council (WFC) remain deadlocked after four sessions.

Dist. 21 Assistant Supt. John Barger said Tuesday that no progress toward an agreement was made in a two-hour meeting Monday.

Barger said the same issues that resulted in a stalemate at the third session March 5 still remain to be resolved.

THE ITEMS IN question are:
• The 1973-74 school calendar.
• Extra duty salary for teachers.
• Basic salary for teachers.
• Insurance coverage for teachers.
• Contract duration.

The next meeting of the two negotiating teams is scheduled for April 2.

Margo Richter, chairman of the WFC negotiating team, refused to comment on Monday's session.

"I'll go along with whatever Mr. Barger said," she said. "I have nothing to add."

Last year, the negotiations were open to the public. However, this year both sides decided to issue only brief statements on the progress of the talks.

Principals to be named tonight

The schedule of principals for Dist. 21 schools next year will be announced tonight by the school board at its regular meeting.

The session is set for 8:15 p.m. in the board room of the Dist. 21 administration building, 909 W. Dundee Rd.

The board is to consider the list of principal assignments recommended by Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill.

According to tonight's meeting agenda, Ray Lee, principal of Sandburg School in Wheeling, plans to announce his retirement. Carl Ripley III, presently an instructor at the school, is scheduled to replace Lee next year.

In a memo to the board, Gill said of Lee: "We are very grateful for the contributions Ray has made during his time in Dist. 21. He has undoubtedly experienced many rewarding moments in his 38 years in public school education. We hope for him many more rewarding moments and much contentment in his retirement."

Lawsuit charges tennis club with sex bias

Managers of the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club Inc. in Palatine were apparently caught off guard by a discrimination suit filed against the club in Cook County Circuit Court.

Stephen Engberg, of Deerfield, filed the suit last week, alleging that the $80 annual membership for men, while women are charged only $25, constitutes sex discrimination.

"We just learned of the suit this morning," an employee of the tennis club said yesterday. Many tennis clubs operate on the higher fee for men because prime evening hours are reserved for them, she said, and she added, "If the women wouldn't have a break, the courts would be empty during the day." The club is located at 1360 E. Northwest Hwy.

Attention all moms and pops

Who's got the cutest baby of them all?

Proud Buffalo Grove parents will be given the opportunity next month to show off their little ones in the second annual "cute baby" contest sponsored by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees.

An application form with a recent picture of the baby should be returned to Mrs. John Panella, 342 Cottonwood Rd., no later than March 30. The contest is open to babies age one month to two years.

The pictures will be on display at the Bank of Buffalo Grove from April 10 to May 3. During that period residents can vote for the cutest baby by depositing a penny in a container near the baby's picture.

At the end of the contest the babies with the most pennies will be declared the winners.

There will be a first and second prize for both boys and girls. A $25 savings account at the bank will be opened for the first place winners and a $10 savings account for the second place winners. Proceeds from the contest will be donated to the Maryville Academy, Des Plaines.

$300 stolen from washer coinboxes

About $300 was discovered stolen Tuesday from the coinboxes of washing machines in 11 buildings in the Mill Creek apartment complex in Buffalo Grove, according to police.

Phil Ebbols, 68, of 935 Crofton Ln., told police he discovered the money missing when he came to the buildings to make collections. Ebbols is employed as an administrative assistant with the Isml Management Corp., 8707 Skokie Blvd., Skokie, operators of the machines.

Police said no force had been applied to open the coinboxes.

Ebbols told police the thefts probably occurred Monday after 3 p.m. when the laundry rooms close. Apparently no one in the apartment complex saw anyone enter or leave the buildings, said police.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

A federal judge, saying the case "transcends anything yet encountered in the annals of American judicial history," quashed subpoenas sought by the Nixon campaign organization against 11 newsmen involved in coverage of the Watergate bugging case.

Senate Democrats charged that acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray bypassed Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst when he personally handed secret FBI Watergate files to a White House aide.

Led by a record one-month rise of 2.4 per cent in food prices, the cost of living took the biggest leap in 22 years. (Turn to page 2.)

The State Department said two Libyan jet fighters fired on an unarmed U.S. Air Force cargo plane south of Malta in the Mediterranean Sea yesterday. It called the attack an "unpardonable incident."

The state

After attacking his "liberal policies" for more than two hours, Senate Republicans blocked committee approval of David Fogel, Gov. Daniel Walker's choice to head the state Department of Corrections. The 13 Republican members of the Senate executive committee overpowered the nine Democrats and sent to the full Senate a recommendation that Fogel's appointment be rejected. The Senate is expected to take up the matter today. A majority vote would override the committee action and approve Fogel's appointment, but that would take at least one Republican vote added to the Senate's 28 Democrats.

Attorneys have filed a motion asking a new trial for former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who was convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, income tax evasion and perjury. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., has not set a date for oral arguments on the motion, but gave the government until April 2 to file an answer to the defense arguments.

The Environmental Protection Agency has announced over $15 million in grants to 12 Illinois communities to help pay for improved wastewater facilities. The Metropolitan Sanitary District will get $11.5 million.

The world

The United States, using its veto for the third time in the 27-year history of the United Nations, killed a resolution on future Panama Canal control in the Security Council. The veto in the council came after 13 nations led by Panama voted in favor of the resolution and Britain abstained.

Village board candidates rap administration

by LYNN ASINOF

Two village board candidates have charged Wheeling officials with failure to act on flood control measures and a lack of cooperation with regional agencies on flood problems.

Don D. Jackson, 1313 Berkshire Dr., and Constance L. Heitkotter, 158 St. Armand Ln., both members of the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) ticket, made the charges at Monday night's village board meeting.

Jackson and Mrs. Heitkotter had asked last week to speak at the meeting and were allowed to address the board as residents, not candidates for office. Both are seeking village trustee posts.

The board, which includes two trustees and Village Pres. Ted Scanlon running for reelection on the To Overall Progress (TOP) Party ticket, has criticized opposition candidates for using board meetings as a political forum.

JACKSON READ copies of two letters to village officials from the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) One, dated September, 1972, discussed three possible projects for the Heritage Park retention basin and offered partial funding for one of the projects. The other letter, dated November, 1972, asked for information on a proposed site for a retention basin in Wheeling.

"As of 4 o'clock today, you had not answered the letters," Jackson told the board. He said it was regrettable the board was not combating flood problems. "But that they were not even acknowledged is inexcusable," he said.

After a discussion of the letters and village flood control programs, George Passolt, village manager, said he has not replied by letter to the sanitary district but has been in contact with MSD officials.

Passolt explained that the letter about the Heritage Park retention basin dealt with three village suggestions to increase the basin's flood control capacity. He said the MSD was offering only partial funding for the one project that the village did not want.

According to Passolt, the MSD was offering to pay part of the cost of a pumping station to pump water from the basin into the creek. He said the same effect would be achieved by dredging the creek, a project which is now in the planning stages.

PASSOLT later said he did not answer the other letter because he was involved with more immediate flooding problems. He said the proposed retention basin site was a long way in the future.

"I've been concentrating on things where we can do something right away," he said. "I know this is a long way away."

Mrs. Heitkotter's complaints were based on a previous statement by Trustee Edward Berger that Wheeling was five to six years ahead of the other nearby communities in flood control. She said she had seen no proof of this statement, particularly when Wheeling was no longer a member of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). She said NIPC was one local agency that was providing flood control guidance through such means as drawing up model flood control ordinances. She asked why the village has not adopted these codes and is not participating in NIPC planning.

Berger said the five-to-six-year figure was based on the fact that Wheeling began its flood control program about seven years ago.

"Where we were then, some of these villages are now," he said. "We're here. They're just talking about it."

OTHER TRUSTEES explained that the village was not giving NIPC financial support because the agency was not really doing anything. In the past, Berger said, a village representative attended the meetings. "All they were doing was giving a lot of lip service and not really doing anything," he said.

Mrs. Heitkotter continued her charge that the village had not adopted NIPC's model ordinance. She said the present village flood plain ordinances do not take into consideration the water that comes to rest naturally on flood plain land.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer told Mrs. Heitkotter that Wheeling had adopted the original model ordinances proposed by NIPC.

"We were one of the first villages in the State of Illinois to adopt flood plain ordinances," he said. He added the ordinances have since been modified and have been referred to the village engineer for further study.

Hamer, who said he was a graduate civil engineer, then explained some of the difficulties the village has had in enacting flood control programs. He said various agencies recommend different standards in flood control capacities, and the village had to find out which standard to use.

"There is constant conflict as to who is going to have jurisdiction over this thing," he said.

When Mrs. Heitkotter asked why the village had not enacted a moratorium on building in the flood plain, Hamer said that such a moratorium was one of two alternatives.

"THEY HAVE the alternative of either having a moratorium or enacting flood plain regulations," he said.

Hamer then explained to Mrs. Heitkotter how engineers compute required storage capacities for retention basins to account for both the runoff and the amount of water that would come to rest on that land.

Before the discussion ended, Jackson read a letter from the MSD that blamed local flooding on high-density building along the creek. The trustees responded by saying the MSD had issued permits for all the building which they now say is the cause of the flooding.

Jackson said he did not consider MSD standards adequate. "Ours is the lowest there is, and theirs is the same," he said. "They are minimal standards." He then urged that the village should have a qualified engineer who could review such projects.

The trustees pointed out that they did have a qualified engineer who routinely reviews each project.

PROTESTING WORKING CONDITIONS in the Hoffman Estates Protection District, firemen marched yesterday to create public awareness of their complaints before a meeting with district trustees to demand formal recognition of a union local. The protest was manned by off-duty firefighters and normal service was not disrupted by the demonstration.

of the proposed policy manual for school board operation. The manual is reviewed and updated annually, according to Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger.

Gill is set to report on the status of bills currently before the Illinois General Assembly pertaining to education. He will also discuss his recent trips to two professional meetings.

Following the regular business portion of the meeting, the board plans to conduct an executive session to discuss the progress of negotiations on the 1973-74 teacher contract.

Negotiating teams representing the district and the Wheeling Faculty Council (WFC) have conducted four sessions. Since meetings are closed to the public, it is not known if agreement between the two teams is near. The next session is scheduled for April 2.

An Arlington Heights man was charged late Tuesday with kidnaping a 16-year-old Des Plaines food store clerk after he robbed the store and took her hostage at gunpoint, according to police.

The girl, Deborah Cook, 1805 Pine St., was released unharmed about a half hour later in Oak Park, where she called police.

Her alleged abductor, Roy Stover, 24, was captured later by Cook County Sheriff's police outside his home, 702 Haven St., and charged with kidnaping and armed robbery.

DES PLAINES police said Stover walked into the Convenient Food Mart, 1920 Mannheim Rd., shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday night and pretended to buy groceries. He displayed a pistol and threatened Miss Cook and night manager Charles Davis, 1852 Mannheim Rd., demanding money, police said.

Stover was given $55 cash, and told the two employees to lie on the floor behind the counter, police said.

Two unidentified customers then entered the store and Stover ordered Miss Cook into his car and drove off.

Using the license number of Stover's car obtained by Davis, plus description of an auto used in a Feb. 28 holdup of another Des Plaines food store, police traced his identity.

DES PLAINES detectives then staked out the Algonquin-Elmhurst Road Shell Service Station, where Stover was to report for work at midnight. He has been employed at the station since December.

But a night attendant at the station told police Stover called to say he would be late for work because he wanted to change clothes at home.

Stover was then arrested at home by sheriff's police, who said they found a gun and money in his car. A search of his house later turned up the clothes Stover wore in the robbery, police said.

STOVER ALSO WAS charged in connection with the Feb. 28 hold-up in Des Plaines and March 9 robbery in Mount Prospect. On Feb. 28, police said, he struck clerk Dale Baumann with an ice tea jar and took $100 cash from the 7-Eleven Store, 578 Thacker St., Des Plaines.

In the Mount Prospect robbery, Stover pistol-whipped Mary Kozel, 140 Morrison Ave., Mount Prospect, an employee of Western Fashion Store, 1749 W. Golf Rd., police said.

He fled with $90 cash and Mrs. Kozel was hospitalized with a fractured skull at Northwest Community Hospital, where she is now in good condition.

Stover, who was once convicted in Maryland of sexual assault, was charged with kidnaping and two counts of armed robbery by Des Plaines police. Mount Prospect police have charged him with armed robbery and armed violence.

He is currently being held in lieu of a total of $125,000 bond. Stover will appear today in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court and is scheduled for an April 23 appearance in the Mount Prospect circuit court branch.

Arlington's ex-POW in good shape

Army Staff Sgt. John A. Young, a five-year Viet Cong prisoner of war, is listed in good condition at Fitzsimmons General Hospital and may return home to Arlington Heights this weekend.

Officials at Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Aurora, Colo., said yesterday a release date has not been set but that it is possible Young could be released over the weekend. Details on his arrival in Illinois were not available.

Young has been undergoing a series of routine tests since he arrived at Fitzsimmons from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines last Sunday.

Hospital officials said his condition was listed as good. He is being treated for parasites, slight malnutrition, some dental problems and an old fracture of the left leg that has healed over.

Today, Young is undergoing radiology

tests, nerve conduction tests, an examination by an orthopedic physician, psychiatric tests and administrative discussions.

Young, whose wife Erica and sons John, 7, and Steven, 4, live in Arlington Heights, reportedly has been linked to antiwar statements and actions in prison camps of North Vietnam.

home improvement center will officially open at 7 p.m. with ribbon cutting ceremonies.

Alcott PTA to feature gymnastics, ice cream

A gymnastics exhibition and ice cream social will highlight the March 26 Alcott School PTA meeting.

The regular business portion of the meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

Students in the primary grades are set to perform at 7:15 p.m. Pupils in the intermediate grades will take the stage at 8 p.m.

Miss Wood, physical education instructor at Alcott School is in charge of the entire gymnastics program that is entitled "What the Kids Do in Class."

During the show, student art and science projects will be on display in the classrooms. Parents are encouraged to visit their children's rooms to view the projects while their children are not performing.

At the intermission of the gymnastics show and following the performances, ice cream sandwiches, ice cream cups and brownies will be on sale. Free coffee will be served.

3 school incumbents still are unopposed

The three incumbents who have filed nominating petitions to participate in the Dist. 125 school board election remained unopposed yesterday. Tomorrow is the deadline for filing.

There are two three-year terms and one one-year term available on the school board.

Edward Smith, 7 Springside Ct., Buffalo Grove, and John Balme, 19 Portshire Dr., Lincolnshire, are running for the three year terms.

Rex Reade, 1207 Riverwoods Rd., Lake Forest, is the unchallenged candidate for the one-year term.

The election is scheduled for April 14.

Stamp Notes...by Bernadine M. Rechner

'Stop Drug Abuse' issue ready April 13

The United Nations Postal Administration will release a commemorative stamp April 13 on the theme Stop Drug Abuse.

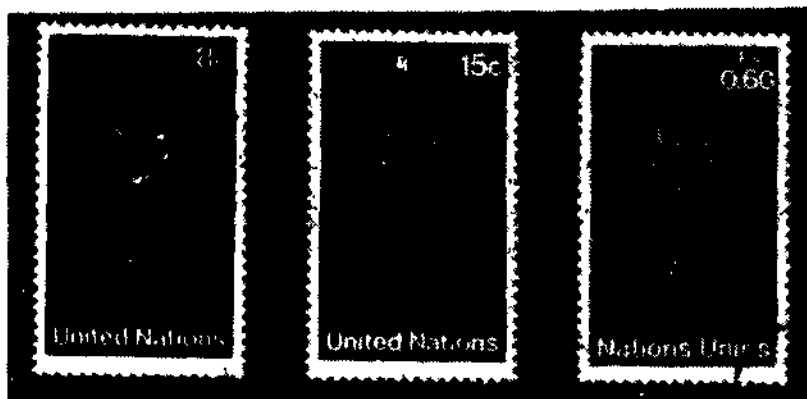

Designed by G. Hamori of Australia, the stamp will be issued in three denominations, 8 cents, 15 cents and the Swiss F.s. 0.60 (U.S. equivalent, 17 cents).

Two years ago the United Nations Fund for Drug Abuse Control was created to attack a complex international problem which knew no national borders. Today, 100 projects are directed toward solving the problem in its three main aspects — supply, demand and illicit trade of drugs.

Print order for the 8-cent stamp will be 2.5 million; for the 15-cent stamp 2.1 million and 2.1 million for the Swiss denomination. Heracleo Fournier S.A. of Spain will be in charge of the photogravure production.

FOUR MARGINAL inscriptions will appear on each sheet of 50 stamps, two at the top and two at the bottom. They will consist of the United Nations seal with the text "Stop Drug Abuse" on top of the seal and "1973" beneath it. The equivalent text in French will appear on the F.s. 0.60 sheet.

Requests for first-day cancellation should be addressed to "FDC — Stop Drug Abuse Stamp, United Nations Postal Administration, P.O. Box 5900, Grand Central Station, New York, New York 10017" enclosing the proper remittance, which is the cost of the stamps to be affixed, plus a 3-cent service charge for each cover requested.

Requests for first day cancellations of the Swiss denomination must be sent to United Nations Postal Administration, Palais des Nations, CH-1211, Geneva 10, Switzerland. Remittance must be in Swiss funds.

THE UNPA'S catalog of all United Nations stamps issued from 1951 through 1972 is available for 50 cents from P.O. Box 5900, Grand Central Station, New York, N.Y., 10017 or from your stamp dealer.

The catalog also contains a special, full-color poster of all stamps listed.

If it is anything like an early version in my file, there will be vital statistics on each postal issue; denomination, date of issue, subject, color, designer, printer or engraver, process stamp size, etc. It's quite a useful 50 cents' worth and the pictures of each issue make it even better.

THE CANADA Post Office has a deposit account service which will insure you of receiving your philatelic items automatically. An initial deposit of $20 (Canadian) will open an account and after that you may add whatever amount you please. For full information and an application blank write the Philatelic Service, Canada Post Office, Ottawa, Ont. K1A 0B 5.

The 8-cent definitive stamp, issued by the United Nations in 1968, was sold out at the close of business Jan. 16, 1973.

Handsaws are included on every list of basic tools, but sawhorses seldom are. The saw is rather useless or at best awkward without the sawhorse. The latter really is just about as important as a workbench, maybe more important.

Most people end up trying to saw lumber precariously balanced on the workbench or across a couple of boxes.

A sawhorse is not a once-in-a-while item, to be used only when cutting lumber. Sawhorses are useful in many ways — to hold projects that are being assembled, glued or painted. For such jobs the workbench is generally too cluttered and the basement floor or stairs are not the best spots.

A COUPLE OF sawhorses plus a few planks turn into a spare table, useful for backyard picnics or recreation room entertaining. Tracks for model trains can be fastened to hardboard and the whole setup supported on sawhorses when in use.

2 college nights
 slated for students

High School Dist. 214 has arranged to have representatives of some 140 colleges and universities present for the annual college programs on March 26 and 27, at 8 p.m.

The program is planned to give juniors and their parents an opportunity to talk with college representatives and hear something about several schools. Students attending parochial schools are welcome.

On March 26 the program will be held at Elk Grove High School; on March 27 at Wheeling High School. Students and their parents may attend either or both nights. The program will be the same, and most of the schools represented are scheduled for both nights.

You can make a Ping-Pong table with just a plywood table top and sawhorses for support. Use a panel 54 by 60 inches and sawhorses 30 inches high.

Some sturdy 2x6's or 2x8's placed on sawhorses turn into a scaffold for painting or papering a ceiling. It's a lot better than shifting a ladder across the room.

A plywood panel across some sawhorses makes a fine pasting table if you are wallpapering.

Ideally, you should have more than a single pair of sawhorses if you plan to have them for a variety of uses.

If you make your own sawhorses, make certain every pair is exactly the same height. A good height for most work is two feet. For tables, heights of 30 inches and 36 inches are better.

MOST HARDWARE stores and lumber yards carry special sawhorse brackets. With these metal fittings, all you need are a few lengths of 2x6s. Some lumber yards carry complete kits of pre-cut lumber that only need assembling.

You can make an all-wood sawhorse using four pieces of one-inch lumber for the legs, 25 inches long or longer if you want more height; one 2x4 three feet long for the top, two pieces of 1x6 lumber 8 1/2 inches wide for braces.

The braces should be shaped so that they are 4 5/8 inches wide at the top, the full 8 1/2 inches at the bottom.

Nail the braces across the narrow edges of the legs so that the narrow edge of the brace is 1-7/16 inches from the top ends of the legs. Measure four inches from each of the tops and notch out the narrow edges so that the top ends of the legs will fit in place flush with the edges.

Cut the top ends of the legs so that they will be flush with the top. Fasten legs, tops and braces with nails or screws.

Arlington man charged with kidnap, robbery

by JOHN MAES

An Arlington Heights man was charged late Tuesday with kidnaping a 16-year-old Des Plaines food store clerk after he robbed the store and took her hostage at gunpoint, according to police.

The girl, Deborah Cook, 1805 Pine St., was released unharmed about a half hour later in Oak Park, where she called police.

Her alleged abductor, Roy Stover, 24, was captured later by Cook County Sheriff's police outside his home, 702 Haven St., and charged with kidnaping and armed robbery.

DES PLAINEs police said Stover walked into the Convenient Food Mart, 1920 Mannheim Rd., shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday night and pretended to buy groceries. He displayed a pistol and threatened Miss Cook and night manager Charles Davis, 1852 Mannheim Rd., demanding money, police said.

Stover was given $55 cash, and told the two employees to lie on the floor behind the counter, police said.

Two unidentified customers then entered the store and Stover ordered Miss Cook into his car and drove off.

Using the license number of Stover's car obtained by Davis, plus description of an auto used in a Feb. 28 holdup of another Des Plaines food store, police traced his identity.

DES PLAINEs detectives then staked out the Algonquin-Elmhurst Road Shell Service Station, where Stover was to report for work at midnight. He has been employed at the station since December.

But a night attendant at the station told police Stover called to say he would be late for work because he wanted to change clothes at home.

Stover was then arrested at home by sheriff's police, who said they found a gun and money in his car. A search of his house later turned up the clothes Stover wore in the robbery, police said.

STOVER ALSO was charged in connection with the Feb. 28 hold-up in Des Plaines and March 9 robbery in Mount Prospect. On Feb. 28, police said, he struck clerk Dale Baumann with an ice tea jar and took $100 cash from the 7-Eleven Store, 578 Thacker St., Des Plaines.

In the Mount Prospect robbery, Stover pistol-whipped Mary Kozel, 140 Morrison Ave., Mount Prospect, an employee of Western Fashion Store, 1749 W. Golf Rd., police said.

He fled with $90 cash and Mrs. Kozel was hospitalized with a fractured skull at Northwest Community Hospital, where she is now in good condition.

Stover, who was once convicted in Maryland of sexual assault, was charged with kidnaping and two counts of armed robbery by Des Plaines police. Mount Prospect police have charged him with armed robbery and armed violence.

He is currently being held in lieu of a total of $125,000 bond. Stover will appear today in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court and is scheduled for an April 23 appearance in the Mount Prospect circuit court branch.

Teachers rally to support negotiating team

More than 200 teachers from Des Plaines Elementary School Dist. 62 were expected to appear at a rally last night at the school administration center to support the teachers association negotiating team in its meeting with the board of education.

Teachers are concerned over negotiations on salary and fringe benefits, said Kent Lashway, a teacher at Chippewa Junior High School and chairman of the publicity committee of the Des Plaines Education Association, the teachers association at Dist. 62. The association wants to show the board that teachers aren't apathetic, he said.

Late yesterday afternoon, 200 teachers said they planned to appear at 7:15 p.m. at the school administration center, 777 Algonquin Rd., Des Plaines, according to Lashway. At 7:30 p.m. the teachers association negotiating team was scheduled to meet with the board of education negotiating committee to discuss salaries and benefits for next year.

CHARLES ACQUILLA, president of the teachers association, said there is a lack of progress in negotiations with the board of education. The rally is "our way of showing our solidarity," he said.

The teachers association last week gave the board of education. The rally is "our way of showing our solidarity," he said.

GASOLINE SPILLED from a truck inside the Des Plaines storage plant on Algonquin Road into the sewer system last night causing the roadway between Linneman Road and Rte. 83 to be closed to traffic. Mount Prospect firemen and state police baricaded Algonquin Road and detoured traffic around the area because of the possibility of an explosion. Fire Lt. Dennis Thiel, said as much as 1,000 gallons of gasoline may have spilled into the sewer. A crew of firemen poured water into the pipeline to dilute the gasoline. Cook County environmental units were at the scene testing the solution and explosive range. Firemen received the call at 5:15 p.m.

3 independent hopefuls file for Oakton seats

by KATHERINE BOYCE

A former Oakton Community College trustee and two other independent candidates have announced their intention to run for the college board in the April 14 election.

Doris Sopkin of Skokie, a member of the original Oakton board who was defeated for reelection in 1971, said she will file nominating petitions for the unexpired two-year term of Trustee Meyer Kamin, who is resigning.

Also announcing their candidacies were Vivian Medak of Lincolnwood, a member of the Oakton citizen's campus site committee, and John Prochaska of Park Ridge, a School Dist. 64 caucus member this year.

MRS. SOPKIN, 45, of 8441 Kedvale, Skokie, said she is running for the two-year term because of her "continued interest in the college."

A delegate this year to the Oakton Community College Convention from Skokie Elementary School Dist. 73½, Mrs. Sopkin said the caucus serves a definite purpose in the community by interviewing and endorsing the best candidates for the Oakton board. "I had no intention of running" for the Oakton board when the caucus met, she said.

Kamin resigned from the Oakton board after endorsements were made. Although she is not officially endorsed by the caucus, Mrs. Sopkin said caucus members urged her to run for the vacancy. She said selection of a permanent campus site should be a joint effort of the college, the community and the Illinois Junior College board.

Doris Sopkin

SHE SAID the college should look at all available land in the district, consider which properties would remove the least amount of tax money from tax rolls and cause the least community dissent. There is no site that will please everyone, she said. "Although everyone wants a permanent college they don't want it in their neighborhood."

Vocational programs at Oakton should be expanded and improved, Mrs. Sopkin said, adding she realized approval of vocational programs require a great deal of work from college officials. The need for the job training course must be evaluated in relation to the industrial base of the community, she said, and the college must consider the cost of special equipment for these courses.

When costs are high and the amount of student demand is small but the need for training is great, it may be more economical for Oakton to send its students

Des Plaines woman 'fair' after accident

Sandy Holguin, 28, of 173 River Rd., Des Plaines, was listed in fair condition yesterday at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village after an accident Tuesday near the corner of Elmhurst Road and Lunt Avenue.

Police said a truck, driven by Richard Guenther, 46, of 212 Sarah Ct., Wheeling, was stopped to make a left turn when a car driven by Mrs. Holguin struck it. Mrs. Holguin was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and driving with a suspended or revoked license.

Mrs. Holguin's daughters, aged 2 and 4, were in the car at the time of the accident. Both were treated and released. The truck driver escaped injury.

A federal judge, saying the case "transcends anything yet encountered in the annals of American judicial history," quashed subpoenas sought by the Nixon campaign organization against 11 newsmen involved in coverage of the Watergate bugging case.

Senate Democrats charged that acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray bypassed Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst when he personally handed secret FBI Watergate files to a White House aide.

Led by a record one-month rise of 2.4 per cent in food prices, the cost of living took the biggest leap in 22 years. (Turn to page 2.)

Mediterranean Sea yesterday. It called the attack an "unpardonable incident."

The state

After attacking his "liberal policies" for more than two hours, Senate Republicans blocked committee approval of David Fogel, Gov. Daniel Walker's choice to head the state Department of Corrections. The 13 Republican members of the Senate executive committee overpowered the nine Democrats and sent to the full Senate a recommendation that Fogel's appointment be rejected. The Senate is expected to take up the matter today. A majority vote would override the committee action and approve Fogel's appointment, but that would take at least one Republican vote added to the Senate's 29 Democrats.

Attorneys have filed a motion asking a new trial for former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who was convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, income tax evasion and perjury. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., has not set a date for oral arguments on the motion, but gave the government until April 2 to file an answer to the defense arguments.

Wolf blasts Behrel, cites need for regional flood, control

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
Formation of a regional flood control commission "is the only way" area flooding can end, mayoral candidate David Wolf said yesterday.

Floods and flood plains "don't recognize state, municipal, township and federal boundary lines," he said. "Only until we create a regional flood control commission based on physical location of flood plains and watersheds will we be able to control encroachment by developers."

At his weekly press conference, Wolf criticized incumbent Mayor Herbert Behrel for lack of flood control leadership and rapped the city council non-referendum plans to construct a proposed six-story city hall before a new police station.

"I'm only reporting feedback — some of the issues coming back to me," Wolf said. "People are saying 'when is the city going to act to control flooding?'"

Des Plaines received more than $411,000 in federal revenue sharing funds in December and January. The city council voted last month to spend the total on flood control projects, including sewer back-up valves, erosion, dredging and retention pond improvement.

"WE KNEW THIS MONEY was coming. Why didn't we have the leadership ... to prepare plans in advance? The spring rainy season is rapidly approaching," he said.

A March 10 Northeastern Illinois Plan Commission flood seminar "convinced me that it is incumbent on governments to acquire more flood plain land" for recreational use.

The proposed flood commission, formed by the state, would have power to prohibit flood plain construction, despite municipal building permission, he said.

Deeper waterway channeling can provide some flood relief. "But I'm opposed to channelization that will disturb nature's meandering way," he said, criticizing straight channels dug by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers with "bulldozers that destroy what nature has provided."

First object of the state should be formation of flood plain zones, he said.

"If I were mayor I would begin talking to neighboring communities. We have no right to dump our problems on our neighbor. All this boiled out of this symposium," which Behrel did not attend, Wolf said. City Planner Michael Richardson represented Des Plaines at the conference.

"WE KNOW THE city's going to flood as sure as God made green apples," Wolf said. "But you can't do a damn thing unless you plan for it."

The city council Monday authorized bidding two revenue sharing projects — a proposed $10,500 Rand Road sanitary sewer and $15,000 for a Woodland Avenue storm sewer.

"The people also are asking how this city can afford a $2 to $3 million city hall." Is it logical to approach maximum city non-referendum indebtedness for the civic center project, he asked.

Wolf said he would "strongly urge" the council to reconsider proposals to construct the police station first and to hold a funding referendum. "My job, as mayor, would be to lead, to say to the council — let's move, let's address ourselves to this problem."

"The police department — which has suffered for years from lack of adequate space — has been pushed from pillar to post by city hall. They're now occupying what the fire department moved out of," Wolf, a fire department captain on leave of absence, said.

"The city administration procrastinated for 10 years while costs went up and up. Now we're ready, when building costs are at an all-time peak," he said.

Campaign notes

Behrel names campaign ward heads in kick-off

MAYOR HERBERT BEHREL has announced his campaign ward captains — 1st Ward, City Treasurer Irving Rateike, also seeking reelection; 2nd Ward Ald. Robert Sherwood; 3rd Ward, Ken Bertine, 136 Jeffery Lane; 4th Ward, Ald. Robert Hinde and Ald. Daniel Kisslinger; 5th Ward, Ted Sherwood, 2080 Webster Lane, immediate past president of Des Plaines Chamber of Commerce; 6th Ward, Ald. Ewald Swanson, 7th Ward, Donald Rohrbach, 210 Wisconsin Dr., and 8th Ward, Al Anders Sr., 101 Ambleside, and Al Anders Jr., 487 Wesymere.

Behrel began his campaign with a kick-off meeting last week at DeVille Motor Inn. About 150 persons attended.

Sherwood told Behrel supporters that state Sen. Howard Mohr, R-5th, will announce support of Behrel. Behrel also has received backing from former alderman Ralph Martin.

ERNEST SCHMIDT, 2119 Fox Ln., has announced a six-point campaign platform. Schmidt is opposed in the 6th Ward by former 5th Ward alderman Corvin Wagner, 1743 Farwell, and Carmen Sarko, 3061 Scott St.

Schmidt's platform calls for a ceiling on property taxes; meetings of the council in wards throughout the city; reduction of the "ever increasing city budget" by taking "a hard look at the various departments of city government;" and a "vow to root-out the ever increasing drug problem" of children.

Schmidt said he will canvass the ward within two years to respond to voter interests and will open a home office with "regular weekly hours."

ORALEE P. NOFTZ, 2nd Ward aldermanic candidate, has named her campaign committee, including manager Howard Richardson, 1763 Webster Ln., and Mrs. Eleanor Novak, 2034 Pratt Ave.; Mrs. Arlene Barhan, 1486 Campbell, Mrs. Chester Ray, 1765 Chestnut, and Richard Spaniard, 1743 Orchard St. Nofitz campaign headquarters will be at 1729 Orchard St., phone 296-3228.

A MEETING WILL be held next Thursday at the home of city treasurer Irving Rateike, 1337 Brown St., for people interested in reelecting Rateike, Mayor Herbert Behrel and Ald. Thomas Koplos (1st). The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

DAVID WOLF, candidate for mayor, will begin a door ringing campaign in the 5th Ward Friday. Three coffees are planned in the ward — 10 a.m. at 1255 Prospect, home of Ellis Berg; 2 p.m. at 1326 Fargo, home of Antanasio Bail; and 8 p.m. at 1864 Dexter Lane, home of Roy Anderson.

Wolf will walk between Oakton and Howard on Webster and Plainfield at 9 a.m. and will tour Illinois and Prospect at 1 p.m.

CANDIDATES FOR city office will appear at 8 p.m. tonight at Oehler's community room, Perry and Lee streets. The candidates night is sponsored by the Democratic Women's Club.

to a neighboring college and pay their tuition, she said.

Mrs. Sopkin has been active in local parent-teacher groups in Skokie.

ALSO RUNNING for Kamun's unexpired term is Mrs. Medak, 5820 Kostner, Lincolnwood. "I've been interested in the college since it started," said Mrs. Medak, who was a member of the Niles Township High School Board of Education when the college was formed in 1969. She appeared before the college convention running for a regular three-year term but was not endorsed.

Mrs. Medak said she supports the caucus because it "attempts to eliminate a lot of divisive strife in an election." Geographical representation, placing a trustee on the board from each geographical area in the college district, should be considered in electing a candidate to the board, said Mrs. Medak, but "I certainly don't think it should be a prime factor." Most of the present trustees are from Niles Township.

The college's temporary campus, 7900 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove, is a possible permanent campus now being considered by the citizens' site committee, said Mrs. Medak, a member of that committee. If additional land adjacent to the temporary campus can be purchased, the present site "could be built to make an attractive campus."

The location of the campus shouldn't be a prime factor in site selection, she said. "The college will be an effective educational institution no matter where it is built."

Oakton's educational programs should be evaluated with respect to the newness of the college. Although educational programs may "need a little tightening up" especially vocational courses, "Oakton Community College is only three years old," Mrs. Medak said.

RUNNING FOR one of the three three-year terms at Oakton is Prochaska, 29, of 504 Redfield Ct., Park Ridge. He said he tends "to identify more with students." He said the college needs a younger trustee and he plans to give students and the community more voice in college issues.

Prochaska was the representative from the American Legion to the Park Ridge Elementary School Dist. 64 caucus this year. He said he heard about the Oakton election from Dist. 64 caucus delegates and planned to appear before the Oakton caucus but was out of town when the nominating committee met to interview candidates. He is an accountant at the Keebler Co., in Elmhurst.

According to Prochaska, the biggest issue at Oakton is the college's search for a permanent campus. He said the college "shouldn't pick a site hastily." Surrounding townships not in a college district may soon be forced to form a college or join Oakton's district, he said. The college should wait for the outcome before picking a permanent campus.

Prochaska said Oakton should "bring the services of the school into the community." When a permanent campus is selected and a referendum is held the college will need more than a "public relations blitz."

The adult education program involving Maine and Niles township schools as well as Oakton "has had the largest impact on the community," he said.

THE NORTH CENTRAL Association was too critical in evaluating college programs at Oakton, said Prochaska. They compared the college with well-established four year colleges, he said, "but our school is only three years old." Prochaska said there is "definitely room for improvement in college programs but

Arlington's ex-POW listed in good shape

Army Staff Sgt. John A. Young, a five-year Viet Cong prisoner of war, is listed in good condition at Fitzsimmons General Hospital and may return home to Arlington Heights this weekend.

Officials at Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Aurora, Colo., said yesterday a release date has not been set but that it is possible Young could be released over the weekend. Details on his arrival in Illinois were not available.

Young has been undergoing a series of routine tests since he arrived at Fitzsimmons from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines last Sunday.

Hospital officials said his condition was listed as good. He is being treated for parasites, slight malnutrition, some dental problems and an old fracture of the left leg that has healed over.

Today, Young is undergoing radiology tests, nerve conduction tests, an examination by an orthopedic physician, psychiatric tests and administrative discussions.

Young, whose wife Erica and sons John, 7, and Steven, 4, live in Arlington Heights, reportedly has been linked to antiwar statements and actions in prison camps of North Vietnam.

Oakton trustee raps college for $1,500 convention trip

Oakton Community College trustee Stephen Loska of Des Plaines criticized the college for spending $1,500 to send six college representatives to a convention in Anaheim, Calif., earlier this month.

Loska's remarks came during the regular college board meeting Tuesday night. The college asked the public for donations of toys and equipment to their new day-care center last fall, said Loska, and in the spring the college spent $1,500 of the taxpayer's money to allow trustees, faculty, administrators and a student to attend a convention. "It seems incongruous," he said.

Trustees Raymond Hartstein and Robert Gutschick, administrators William Koehline, college president, Richard Jordan, dean of faculties; Walter Bobkiewicz, faculty representative; and Barbara Bell, student representative attended the four day convention of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges. It was the association's annual meeting and special sessions were held for trustees, administrators, students and faculty. The sessions were designed as workshop training sessions in teaching techniques, school operations and school policies.

TRUSTEE LeRoy Wauck, chairman of the college board, responded to Loska's criticism, saying the ideas exchanged during the convention are important to the college and couldn't be measured in dollars and cents.

Trustee Paul Gilson said, "We can't learn by talking to each other only." Gilson said Loska's comparison between day care equipment and the convention is unfair. "We can't compare conventions to hobby horses," he said.

Loska told the Herald yesterday, "I find it contradictory to on one hand ask the constituency to help the school and on the other hand spend that amount of money on a four-day convention."

In other action Tuesday night the college board approved a lengthening of the salary schedule for faculty members. The minimum salary for an instructor remains the same at $8,300 but the maximum salary for a full professor was increased 10 per cent to $22,000.

The change in the salary schedule allows faculty members to advance higher on the salary schedule, according to David Hilquist, business manager at Oakton. The salary schedule has not been revised in three years, Hilquist said. Oakton faculty members are paid under a merit system.

many things aren't going to come until we get a permanent campus."

Prochaska was also critical of another candidate running for a three-year term at Oakton, Republican Thomas Flynn, who ran unsuccessfully as a candidate for state senator in the 4th district last fall. Prochaska said organized politics should be kept out of community education.

High school teachers vote against IEA affiliation

High School Dist. 214 teachers voted against affiliating with the Illinois Education Association and National Education Association this week by a 2-to-1 margin.

Of 664 teachers voting, 448 voted against affiliating with the state and national groups and had 216 vote in favor of it, according to Vince Carloti, president of the Dist. 214 Education Association.

Carloti had said he would resign his post if the teachers approved joining IEA-NEA affiliation. The local association broke away from IEA-NEA in 1971 and has since been independent.

The vote was called by a member of last year's salary negotiations team. Critics of the local association had said IEA-NEA affiliation would strengthen the group's position in negotiations with the school board.

Last year contract talks between the association and board lasted for 10 months and a settlement was finally reached after spokesmen for both sides traded charges of bad faith bargaining.

Prior to the vote, association leaders said they opposed reaffiliation with the IEA-NEA because they felt the state group would limit their independence and not provide much help to the local.

Following the vote Carloti said he was happy with the outcome but, "I feel it's unfortunate that there has to be a division."

COG backs special-service tax areas

by ANNE SLAVICEK

The Cook County Council of Governments (COG) yesterday endorsed pending enabling legislation to allow home-rule municipalities to create special-service areas for taxing purposes.

COG Executive Committee members voted to support bills allowing local municipalities to tax portions of their communities for specific improvements without taxing the entire community.

The legislation is designed to permit municipalities to use a provision of the 1970 state constitution permitting the creation of special-service areas.

By using the provision, communities could provide improvements for a fraction of the cost under special assessment procedures, COG members said.

The legislation is necessary because the Illinois Supreme Court handed down a ruling preventing the Village of Oak Park from using the provision without specific enabling legislation enacted by the general assembly.

PARALLEL legislation for non-home rule communities is also expected to be introduced in the Illinois General Assembly.

Two of the bills endorsed by COG have been approved by the Senate and are on their way to the House. Two others are coming out of a House committee to be considered by the full House.

Oak Park Village Mgr. Lee Ellis, speaking for Village Pres. John Gearen, explained the bills "need all the support they can get," because of "partisan infighting" in the legislature.

Ellis said some suburban legislators have opposed the bill on the ground they would give Cook County the power to build low-income housing in the suburbs. He said those arguments are merely "scare talk" and are "specious."

Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher said his village has faced problems providing improvements within the three separate drainage districts in Schaumburg — Salt Creek, DuPage River and Poplar Creek.

ATCHER SAID special assessments mean a 20 to 25 per cent hike in costs for any improvements. Residents living in two drainage basins will often oppose work in the third drainage basin and referenda fail, he said.

Atcher urged support of the enabling legislation. "There is not the need for costly special assessment steps with special service areas, and you can pay a contractor in cash," he said.

Also yesterday COG Executive Director Roland Schlegel said the Suburban Mass Transit Coordinating Committee is undertaking a special study of financing for a unified mass transit district.

He said a subcommittee will compile information on various means of financing, and area communities will be asked to comment on the funding proposals prior to a meeting, scheduled for May 5, of the coordinating committee.

Atcher said he believes the accent will be on additional motor fuel taxes to be used only to finance mass transit. The tax would be levied only in the six-county Chicago metropolitan area, he said.

Presbyterian Church sets Lenten study

The First Presbyterian Church, Howard and Maple streets, is promoting its Key '73 program through a series of Lenten study sessions, using a key Biblical word "Covenant." The booklet, "Covenants — Old, New and Forever" by J. Carter Swaim, is the guidebook for study and discussion.

The Monday, April 2, meeting will be at 1921 Stockton with Mr. and Mrs. William Ware as hosts and another is planned for Wednesday April 4, at 2376 Hickory with Mr. and Mrs. Art Arnsfeldt as hosts.

David McGuire will lead the discussion both evenings on the subject of "The Covenant of Loyalty" and "The Covenant of Relationships."

The final study sessions will be on Monday, April 9, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Berquist, 1825 White St., with Robert Larson as leader, and on April 11 at the First Presbyterian Church for a "Covenant Rally," with discussion on "Covenant of Gratitude" and "Covenants that Lead to Life."

Previous study groups met at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. David Tabor, and Rev. and Mrs. Johanson, Tabor and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Strand led the discussion on "Covenant Making God" and "Covenant Breaking People." The "Covenant of Order" and "Covenant of Knowledge" was led by the senior high youth at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Don Franks and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Whipple.

Oakton gets OK to buy land for parking lot

Oakton Community College has received formal approval of the Illinois Junior College Board to negotiate the purchase of 2.3 acres of land adjacent to the interim campus in Morton Grove for student parking.

Trustee Paul Gilson, chairman of the site and facility committee, and a team of consultants and administrators presented the request in an executive session to the IJC Board during a meeting March 16 at Joliet Junior College.

Gilson advised the IJC that the need for parking is urgent and that the purchase price should be recovered when use of the interim site is discontinued. He stated that if negotiations can be completed at an early date, the parking area can be improved for early fall classes.

Ray Nelson, chairman of the community site advisory committee, also attended the meeting and voiced his support for the proposed acquisition of property for parking.

River trails school board OKs plan for staff cuts

The River Trails Dist. 26 board of education has approved a 1973-74 staffing plan that calls for a reduction in staff of four classroom teachers at the kindergarten through sixth grade level.

The plan calls for one less teacher each at Euclid, Feshanville, Indian Grove and Park View Schools. The number of teachers at Bond School will remain the same.

In recommending the plan to the board, Supt. Thomas Warden said there is "no one that will be extremely overjoyed or happy with it because it's based on a minimal educational level. Each of the principals has indicated he would like an increase in staff, but our budget committee has indicated serious financial difficulty next year and the staffing plan is based with this in mind."

THE STAFFING plan is also based on the fact that enrollment is declining in the district, Warden said. The administration has projected that the school district will have 100 less students next year.

At the junior high school, Warden has recommended that the number of staff should remain the same. "We've indicated that we'll place 34 teachers there next year, the same as last year, simply because we don't feel the things we're trying to accomplish at the junior high can be done with less people," he said.

Despite the cut in the number of teachers, the staffing plan projects that there will be an average of 25.1 students per classroom teacher compared to 27.1 students per teacher today. The same programs will be covered next year even though there will be four less teachers, Warden said.

According to Warden, there should be no need to let teachers go next year to achieve the staffing requirements. The plan is that the reduction in teachers will be achieved through normal attrition. "We already know we have 12 people who have indicated they're leaving next year," Warden said.

Jayne trial may open next week

The trial of three men accused of the 1970 murder of Inverness horseman George Jayne is expected to begin next week.

The trial had been postponed until today, but Assistant State's Atty. Nicholas Motherway said today's session will be only for a status report to the judge.

Gerald Aich and F. Lee Bailey, the two attorneys defending Silas Jayne and Joseph LaPlaca on the murder charges, are involved in other trials. Once those trials end, the Jayne trial will begin.

Aich told the Herald Monday he does not expect either of the two trials to be finished this week. He estimated that the Jayne trial would begin next Tuesday at the earliest.

Silas Jayne, LaPlaca and the accused triggerman, Julius Barnes, have been awaiting trial on the murder charges in Cook County Jail since May, 1971.

500 expected at presidential debate tonight

Some 500 persons are expected to attend the first Elk Grove Village presidential debate at 8 p.m. Friday at Ridge School, 650 Ridge Ave.

Village Pres. Charles Zetek, who originally challenged his two opponents to a debate, said yesterday he expected a good crowd at the confrontation. He suggested the procedures to be followed, which were accepted by candidates Robert "Bud" Lindahl and Richard McGreener.

John Lecraw, president of Moss-Type Inc., in the village, will act as moderator. Zetek said in selecting Lecraw as moderator, "I personally feel Mr. Lecraw is an excellent choice since he has no prejudices for any candidate and has always demonstrated a keen interest in the welfare of Elk Grove Village." Lecraw is a past president of the Elk Grove Village Association of Industry and Commerce.

Each candidate will be allowed 12 minutes of opening remarks, to be followed by three five-minute rebuttals. At the conclusion of the debate, residents will be invited to submit questions to the candidates.

LECRAW HAS suggested that candidates speak in the order in which they will appear on the ballot, which is Lindahl, McGreener and Zetek. He also asked each candidate to bring two supporters to pass out cards and pencils during the question-and-answer session.

Zetek challenged McGreener and Lindahl to the debate last month in response to criticism by McGreener that the present village administration was getting farther away from being responsible to the residents. At that time Lindahl and McGreener accepted the challenge.

"I feel that a debate is one of the best instruments for allowing the voter to see and hear all the candidates and issues discussed," Zetek said yesterday. "The voters will have three captive candidates at their disposal and a chance to ask questions of all the candidates and compare the answers."

Zetek added, "The debate also will allow the candidates themselves an opportunity to challenge and speak out to the issues and argue the points with their opponents. The candidates will be exposed to the community in a situation in which they can't avoid questioning and comparison."

Township plans to bring suit against bank

Elk Grove Township plans to file a lawsuit "within a week" against the Metropolitan National Bank over the flooding problems in the Roppolo subdivision, according to Bernie Lee, township auditor.

Lee said the township's attorney is making final arrangements to file the suit.

Flooding in the subdivision, located north of Landmeier Road between Busse and Higgins roads, has been a serious problem for years. Landfill work and the laying of a pipe in an open field adjoining the subdivision apparently reversed the flow of a drainage ditch in the area. Instead of flowing into Higgins Creek, the ditch carries water away from the creek, residents say.

THE COMPANIES that did the landfill and the pipe installation claim they are not responsible for the flooding. Before any work can be done to correct the problem, the owner of the field must be contacted.

Title to the property is held in a secret trust by the bank. Repeated efforts by the township to contact either the owner or the attorney through the bank have failed. Bank officials claim that names of the owner and the attorney are held in confidence and cannot be revealed.

The bank will be sued as the holder of the trust.

The suit is based on the contention that a township road in the subdivision is damaged by the flooding. Lee said no estimate has been made of the amount of damages that will be claimed in the suit.

According to Lee, the suit is now being filed as a single-party action. He said homeowners in the area and the Cook County government may be asked to join the suit.

Firemen get Chicago calls

Elk Grove Village Fire Department has been mistakenly receiving emergency calls from Chicago residents, a situation that may result in tragedy, said village fire chief Allen Hulett.

Apparently the people had only dialed the operator and had not called the fire department directly. The operator transferred the call to the Elk Grove Village fire department, rather than the Chicago fire department.

Hulett said no Elk Grove calls have gone to Chicago yet, but he said there

Elk Grove Village residents, including a fifth-grade class at Grant Wood School, have responded to the dilemma of the village plan commission in finding an appropriate name for the lake at Leicester Road and Wellington Avenue.

Fire Chief Allen Hulett said recently that a name was important because if someone were in trouble by the lake and needed help, time would be wasted if police and firemen had to guess the location of the accident.

In an attempt to help the plan commission, the fifth graders suggested naming the lake Sweet Swan Lake, Friendship Lake, Duck Lake, Fisherman Lake, Picnic Lake, Elk Lake and Grove Lake. One student said the lake simply should be called No Name Lake, and another said Danger Lake. In admiration for Chief Hulett, one suggestion called it Fire Chief Lake.

Village Pres. Charles Zetek said some people in the townhouses around the lake have said they feel the Lake Homeowners Association should be consulted about a name for the lake.

The lake is near Alexian Brothers Medical Center, and Brother Ferdinand Leyva, hospital president, has said it would be appropriate to name the lake "Lake Alexian" because of its proximity to the hospital and because the hospital serves the entire village.

Bob Caulkins, real estate manager for Centex Corp., which built the lake, said the company named the lake Cosman Lake several years ago when it was first built. However, he said he was not sure the name was officially recorded.

Village officials have said they have no record for a name of the lake.

Des Plaines woman 'fair' after accident

Sandy Holguin, 28, of 173 River Rd., Des Plaines, was listed in fair condition yesterday at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village after an accident Tuesday near the corner of Elmhurst Road and Lunt Avenue.

Police said a truck, driven by Richard Guenther, 46, of 212 Sarah Ct., Wheeling, was stopped to make a left turn when a car driven by Mrs. Holguin struck it. Mrs. Holguin was charged with failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and driving with a suspended or revoked license.

Mrs. Holguin's daughters, aged 2 and 4, were in the car at the time of the accident. Both were treated and released. The truck driver escaped injury.

Arlington man charged with kidnaping

by JOHN MAES

An Arlington Heights man was charged late Tuesday with kidnaping a 16-year-old Des Plaines food store clerk after he robbed the store and took her hostage at gunpoint, according to police.

The girl, Deborah Cook, 1805 Pine St., was released unharmed about a half hour later in Oak Park, where she called police.

Her alleged abductor, Roy Stover, 24, was captured later by Cook County Sheriff's police outside his home, 702 Haven St., and charged with kidnaping and armed robbery.

DES PLAINES police said Stover walked into the Convenient Food Mart, 1820 Mannheim Rd., shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday night and pretended to buy groceries. He displayed a pistol and threatened Miss Cook and night manager Charles Davis, 1852 Mannheim Rd., demanding money, police said.

Stover was given $85 cash, and told the two employees to lie on the floor behind the counter, police said.

Two unidentified customers then entered the store and Stover ordered Miss Cook into his car and drove off.

Using the license number of Stover's car obtained by Davis, plus description of an auto used in a Feb. 28 holdup of another Des Plaines food store, police traced his identity.

DES PLAINES detectives then staked out the Algonquin-Elmhurst Road Shell Service Station, where Stover was to report for work at midnight. He has been employed at the station since December.

But a night attendant at the station told police Stover called to say he would be late for work because he wanted to change clothes at home.

Stover was then arrested at home by sheriff's police, who said they found a gun and money in his car. A search of his house later turned up the clothes Stover wore in the robbery, police said.

STOVER ALSO was charged in connection with the Feb. 28 hold-up in Des Plaines and March 9 robbery in Mount Prospect. On Feb. 23, police said, he struck clerk Dale Baumann with an ice tea jar and took $100 cash from the 7-Eleven Store, 578 Thacker St., Des Plaines.

In the Mount Prospect robbery, Stover pistol-whipped Mary Kozel, 140 Morrison Ave., Mount Prospect, an employee of Western Fashion Store, 1749 W. Golf Rd., police said.

He fled with $90 cash and Mrs. Kozel was hospitalized with a fractured skull at Northwest Community Hospital, where she is now in good condition.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

A federal judge, saying the case "transcends anything yet encountered in the annals of American judicial history," quashed subpoenas sought by the Nixon campaign organization against 11 newsmen involved in coverage of the Watergate bugging case.

Senate Democrats charged that acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray bypassed Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst when he personally handed secret FBI Watergate files to a White House aide.

Led by a record one-month rise of 2.4 per cent in food prices, the cost of living took the biggest leap in 22 years. (Turn to page 2.)

The State Department said two Libyan jet fighters fired on an unarmed U.S. Air Force cargo plane south of Malta in the Mediterranean Sea yesterday. It called the attack an "unpardonable incident."

The state

After attacking his "liberal policies" for more than two hours, Senate Republicans blocked committee approval of David Fogel, Gov. Daniel Walker's choice to head the state Department of Corrections. The 13 Republican members of the Senate executive committee overpowered the nine Democrats and sent to the full-Senate a recommendation that Fogel's appointment be rejected. The Senate is expected to take up the matter today. A majority vote would override the committee action and approve Fogel's appointment, but that would take at least one Republican vote added to the Senate's 20 Democrats.

Attorneys have filed a motion asking a new trial for former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who was convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, income tax evasion and perjury. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., has not set a date for oral arguments on the motion, but gave the government until April 2 to file an answer to the defense arguments.

The Environmental Protection Agency has announced over $15 million in grants to 12 Illinois communities to help pay for improved wastewater facilities. The Metropolitan Sanitary District will get $11.5 million.

The world

The United States, using its veto for the third time in the 37-year history of the United Nations, killed a resolution on future Panama Canal control in the Security Council. The veto in the council came after 13 nations led by Panama voted in favor of the resolution and Britain abstained.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial blue-chips lost 11.06 points to 938.37 after having been ahead about six points during the morning trading. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index dropped 1.46 to 110.49 and the price of the average NYSE common share issue dropped 54 cents. Declining issues strongly led gainers at the close, 1,059 to 402, among 1,780 issues on the tape.

Boards get unit district study within 6 months

Results of a unit district feasibility study should be in the hands of all Schaumburg Township boards of education within six months.

The reactivated School Dist. 54 Unification Subcommittee last night heard a Schaumburg Citizens' Unit District Study Committee outline its plans to hire a professional consultant to begin work April 1.

Jim Blankenship, a member of the citizens' group, asked the Dist. 54 committee for cooperation in compiling data.

The citizens' group expects to name a professional consultant to begin a feasibility study for all of Schaumburg Township tonight.

At a previous meeting, the citizens' group tentatively selected Richard Belnap, professor of education at Northern Illinois University, to do the study. Blankenship said yesterday the study will probably be done by NIU.

RUDD PLEDGED full cooperation to any consultant conducting a study and said the district's files and information will be made available. A Dist. 15 representative also offered assistance.

The cooperative attitude Rudd demonstrated was tempered with the statement that the district and board of education would wait for the study to come in before deciding its action.

He said that could be to conduct its own study or to submit information for hearings. "Until we see the results of a study, this board and committee will not take a position on unit district," he said.

Blankenship said the citizens' group seeks only to initiate the start of a professional study. The results will be given to District 54 and other districts that would be affected by unification.

We will expect the districts to take ample time for evaluation and take action if the study cites educational advantages by forming a unit district, said Blankenship.

BLANKENSHIP STRESSED the citizens' group was directing the consultant to conduct a survey of all of Schaumburg Township and stressed educational advantages in unification must be shown before the issue is voted upon.

However, if Dist. 54, in this case the largest district in the township, does not call for a unit district vote if unification is recommended, 200 residents petitioning the service region can institute unit district action, he said.

Firemen here getting calls for Chicago was a possibility that it could happen.

An Illinois Bell Telephone Co. official said she was unaware of the problem and would investigate.

Hulett said that whenever a Chicago fire call has been received, the fire department has notified Chicago, but this is an additional delay before assistance can be given.

The best way to prevent confusion is to call the fire department directly, rather than call the operator, said Hulett.

The Elk Grove Village Fire Department phone number is 479-2121. The police department is 437-2111.

The fire department has small stickers available with the emergency numbers listed. The stickers are designed to be placed on a telephone.

Hulett said residents are welcome to stop by the fire department headquarters, 101 Biesterfeld Rd., to get stickers.

Grades, tests school hassles: student panel

Students like receiving grades, but they don't like taking tests, according to a panel of elementary students.

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 students discussed school pressures at a recent Ivy Hill School PTA meeting in Arlington Heights.

"Students from another district were asked to appear on the panel because it might be difficult for students in our district (Dist. 25) to express themselves freely," said Stan John, principal of Ivy Hill. "I think the problems students face are pretty universal in this area."

All three students, Steve Tvrdy, Kary Engelbrecht and Scott Golbeck, agreed that grades provide the impetus to study.

"Without grades I wouldn't know what I was doing," said Scott, a seventh grader at Grove Junior High. "Straight As are something to work towards."

"You have to have good grades to get into college," said Steve, a fifth grader at Ira Rupley School.

Getting good grades means a lot of pressure, though, Steve said that sleep is often hard to come by the night before a big test, especially the yearly Iowa comprehensive tests.

"I DON'T LIKE the time limit on tests," said Scott. "You don't get a chance to check your answers carefully."

GASOLINE SPILLED from a truck inside the Des Plaines storage plant on Algonquin Road into the sewer system last night causing the roadway between Linneman Road and Rte. 83 to be closed to traffic. Mount Prospect firemen and state police barricaded Algonquin Road and detoured traffic around the area because of the possibility of an explosion. Fire Lt. Dennis Thiel, said as much as 1,000 gallons of gasoline may have spilled into the sewer. A crew of firemen poured water into the pipeline to dilute the gasoline. Cook County environmental units were at the scene testing the solution and explosive range. Firemen received the call at 5:15 p.m. (Photo by Bob Finch)

'Relaxing' chair gives medical exam

by TONI GINETTI

Relaxing in a chaise longue chair might not seem like a way to promote good health, but that's just about all new health testing system requires in order for a person to undergo a complete, comprehensive medical exam.

The chair is connected to a $250,000 computer unit which records and analyzes the results of physiological tests, from a two-second test for glaucoma to a standard electrocardiogram — all while a patient lies comfortably in the lounge.

The unit is part of a new method of health testing called multiphasic health testing, and promoting its use to combat killer diseases is only one aspect of the work being done at International Health Systems, Inc. in Rolling Meadows.

THE THREE-YEAR-old company, which moved from Des Plaines to Rolling Meadows a year ago, manufactures the equipment used for multiphasic health testing. While promoting the use of the new equipment is good business for the company, providing low cost, comprehensive, and speedy medical exams is a growing urgent concern for all, according to company vice president Dave Lindsey.

"The purpose of the testing is to detect diseases and illnesses before they can cause chronic conditions," Lindsey said.

"The nature of deadly diseases has changed in the last 20 years. It used to be that infectious diseases caused deaths but with the introduction of penicillin and other antibiotics, that changed. Now it is the chronic diseases like heart and cancer," he said.

Most doctors recommend that individuals undergo regular medical checkups as a means of early disease detection to increase the chances of containment or cure. Conventional exams are costly and can take days to perform. Often hospital confinement is even necessary. But Lindsey said the multiphasic testing method has changed the entire scope of medical examining.

"The system provides a doctor with better data than ever before on a patient's health," he said. "And rather than taking up to a day or more, it takes only 30 minutes to an hour."

THE SYSTEM operates by compiling data in three areas, Lindsey explained. They are medical history of a patient, which is recorded as the patient listens to recorded questions and answers them by pressing an appropriate response button; physiological testing, including the electrocardiogram, lung capacity testing, and hearing testing, and laboratory testing, which includes more than 30 biochemical tests of blood samples.

"All the instrumentation is in one console that takes up only from 200 to 400 square feet," he said. "All the data is computerized."

The company sells or leases the equipment to hospitals and clinics, Lindsey said. Cost to a patient for the comprehensive exam is usually about $50, whereas the same tests might cost up to $150 or more in a conventional examination procedure, he said.

"We stress the patient's comfort and convenience," Lindsey said. "He doesn't have to disrobe or walk from room to room in a hospital gown for each different test. He just lies in a chaise longue."

THE EQUIPMENT is monitored by one to three technicians trained by the company, he said. Instantaneous printouts of exam results are provided by the computer and confidential reports of medical findings are sent to the patient's doctor.

"The title (multiphasic health testing) is becoming somewhat outdated," he said. "Actually, it's an accumulation of medical data to assist the physician."

"We'd like to get away from that title because it sounds so medical, but we haven't really come up with anything else," Sylvia Hennessy, the company's public relations director, added.

LINDSEY said the testing system, which has received the approval of the American Medical Association, is being made available throughout the world. Because of its orientation toward verbal communication with the patient, Mrs. Hennessy said the system is easily adaptable for operation in any country simply by using pre-recorded language tapes.

"We are setting up distributors all over the world with the cooperation of the Department of Commerce," Lindsey added. The company is now building a unit for use in a special clinic in Sao Paulo, Brazil. The unit is expected to be completed and shipped by this spring.

"Group health insurance companies are beginning to pay for this kind of testing, too," he said. "Before the companies would only pay if the patient was hospitalized but because of the rising costs of hospitalization, even insurance companies are beginning to recognize the need for the system," he said.

"Now that it's easier to go through a medical exam, let's hope more people become preventative-health minded," Mrs. Hennessy said. "It's reasonable, easy, and almost fun."

Intravenous fluid bottles recalled

About 60 bottles of intravenous fluid that may be contaminated have been recalled from Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, a hospital spokesman said yesterday.

"To our knowledge none of the contaminated fluid has been given to patients," said Burton Chutiner, vice president of hospital administration.

Cutter Laboratories, which makes the solution known as Cutter IV, is recalling 60,000 one-liter bottles of the fluid. The recall started Friday after three women at a Milwaukee medical center suffered blood infections after being given the solution. One of the women died.

Chutiner said Northwest Community, like other Chicago area hospitals, was notified of the recall Tuesday. Officials at three other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs — Holy Family, Alexian Brothers and Lutheran General — said they did not stock Cutter IV.

Currently, two patients at Northwest are receiving the solution, but have not been given any from contaminated lots, Chutiner said. The recall concerns only one-liter bottles manufactured in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Chutiner said the recall "will not cause any problem here." He said Northwest has half-liter bottles of the solution and other lots not made in Tennessee in stock.

The Food and Drug Administration

(FDA) has been studying the matter to see if they can find a conclusive link between the intravenous fluid and the three infection cases. Cutter spokesmen say there is no proof any contamination of the fluid occurred before the hospital received it.

A fourth possible infection has been reported at the Community Hospital in Springfield, Ohio, where a woman developed a high fever after gynecological surgery last Friday. Cutter IV fluid was used in the operation, but a hospital spokesman said the hospital has not connected the fever incident to the fluid. The FDA has also been studying that case, officials said.

and panel moderator, said he was surprised that students felt pressured about the Iowa tests.

"We try to downgrade the importance of the tests — the students are never actually graded on them," said Wilke.

If the students could change one thing about school they said they would make it more interesting and make "long boring" classes shorter or lengthen classes which are fun like gym.

The students also said that more pressure for grades was put on them by teachers than by their parents. The good teachers, they said, weren't necessarily the easy ones.

The best teacher I've had made subjects fun — I wanted to work. She was strict but nice and always had time to help with problems I didn't understand," said Scott.

Scott said the transition to junior high school was easy and he liked junior high a lot better than elementary school.

"You're running all over the school and don't have time to get tired of one subject or one teacher," said Scott.

Kary said she was looking forward to junior high school.

"You can't stay in one school all your life," she said.

Village population 28,357; 8.6 pct. increase since 1970

The population of Palatine has been boosted to 28,357, according to unofficial census figures.

The total was announced yesterday as a preliminary count, pending official compilation of figures by the U.S. Census Bureau. The new total is not expected to be lower than 28,357.

The figure represents an 8.6 per cent increase in the village's population since the last official census in 1970, when the population was set at 26,104, and a 146 per cent increase since 1960, when the population was 11,504.

The increase is significant, to the village in that it will be eligible for more state income tax and motor fuel tax rebates.

Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun said the village receives about $10 per capita in motor fuel funds from the state, and $7 per capita in income tax rebates.

Together, the two sources of revenue bring in $440,000 annually to the village.

Based on an estimated $17 per capita, the village could receive as much as $37,961 a year for the additional 2,233 persons.

Some $10,000 will go toward the cost of the census, according to Braun.

Last December, when Braun suggested the village board authorize a special census, he has estimated the village's population at 28,000.

The census was begun March 6, and was completed on Tuesday.

Well site on park property stirs North View

The possibility of construction a village well on park district property near the North View subdivision in Palatine has aroused tempers of residents there.

The North View Homeowners Association, which opposes the construction of Well No. 9 in Ashwood Park, yesterday took the issue into the campaign for village board seats by mailing questionnaires on the subject to each candidate.

No official action on the location of the ninth well has been taken by village officials. It is to be discussed at next Monday's village board meeting.

ASHWOOD PARK, a four-acre parcel owned by the Palatine Park District lies just north of North View.

Park district commissioners have informally agreed to let the village use a small portion of the property for a well house.

The action came after Palatine Public Works Director James Bennett spoke with park district officials, with the approval of Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun.

Michael Francis, president of the North View Homeowners Association, said yesterday the village should have spoken with the North View residents before pursuing a possible well site in Ashwood Park, and called the village's approach "arrogant."

Braun said the village has simply been exploring the feasibility of building a well house in the park. "The discussions have been strictly informal, on an administrative level," he said. "I think we can clear the air rather quickly Monday night."

FRANCIS SAID the homeowners object to construction of a well in the northwest portion of the park because it would "completely ruin" the softball field. However, Bruce Belner, assistant director of parks and recreation for the park district, said it is his understanding nothing in the park would be affected by the well.

Francis also said "it's not very good to look at. We know the pump is going to be going night and day, so we assume it's going to be noisy too."

Braun said noise from other village wells is minimal.

Francis said a major objection to a well in Ashwood Park is: "If they're going to start using our park, what's to stop them from using any other park in the village?

"Park district property is such a precious commodity, instead of taking it away, we should be adding to it."

He said he was "deeply disappointed that the park district would so readily give up park district land. They're just kicking us right in the face by taking away our park."

MEANWHILE, the two village president candidates were split on the question of whether to locate the ninth well in Ashwood Park.

Village Independent Party candidate Clayton W. Brown said "everyone in the community knows we need a new well. Now we have this group against it because it's in 'their' park."

He said the Ashwood Park site represents "a great example of cooperation" between the village and park district, noting that it is property already owned by the taxpayers.

Republican candidate Wendell E. Jones said the village "ought to try to find a site other than a park if we could."

He said if the well is to serve commercial or multi-family property, it should be housed on that property.

SCULPTURES, PRINTS and slides of black art were studied by fifth graders who toured the Palatine Public Library yesterday. The week-long display is set up for Youth Art Month and is available for tours during the day for Palatine fifth graders. Here, Debbie Cox (right), Diane Waeghe and Peter Mehman check out examples of African art.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

A federal judge, saying the case "transcends anything yet encountered in the annals of American judicial history," quashed subpoenas sought by the Nixon campaign organization against 11 newsmen involved in coverage of the Watergate bugging case.

Senate Democrats charged that acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray bypassed Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst when he personally handed secret FBI Watergate files to a White House aide.

Led by a record one-month rise of 2.4 per cent in food prices, the cost of living took the biggest leap in 22 years. (Turn to page 2.)

The State Department said two Libyan jet fighters fired on an unarmed U.S. Air Force cargo plane south of Malta in the Mediterranean Sea yesterday. It called the attack an "unpardonable incident."

The state

After attacking his "liberal policies" for more than two hours, Senate Republicans blocked committee approval of David Fogel, Gov. Daniel Walker's choice to head the state Department of Corrections. The 13 Republican members of the Senate executive committee overpowered the nine Democrats and sent to the full Senate a recommendation that Fogel's appointment be rejected. The Senate is expected to take up the matter today. A majority vote would override the committee action and approve Fogel's appointment, but that would take at least one Republican vote added to the Senate's 29 Democrats.

Attorneys have filed a motion asking a new trial for former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who was convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, income tax evasion and perjury. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., has not set a date for oral arguments on the motion, but gave the government until April 2 to file an answer to the defense arguments.

The Environmental Protection Agency has announced over $15 million in grants to 12 Illinois communities to help pay for improved wastewater facilities. The Metropolitan Sanitary District will get $11.5 million.

The world

The United States, using its veto for the third time in the 27-year history of the United Nations, killed a resolution on future Panama Canal control in the Security Council. The veto in the council came after 13 nations led by Panama voted in favor of the resolution and Britain abstained.

Arlington man charged with kidnaping, armed robbery

by JOHN MAES

An Arlington Heights man was charged late Tuesday with kidnaping a 16-year-old Des Plaines food store clerk after he robbed the store and took her hostage at gunpoint, according to police.

The girl, Deborah Cook, 1805 Pine St., was released unharmed about a half hour later in Oak Park, where she called police.

Her alleged abductor, Roy Stover, 24, was captured later by Cook County Sheriff's police outside his home, 702 Haven St., and charged with kidnaping and armed robbery.

DES PLAINES police said Stover walked into the Convenient Food Mart, 1920 Mannheim Rd., shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday night and pretended to buy groceries. He displayed a pistol and threatened Miss Cook and night manager Charles Davis, 1852 Mannheim Rd., demanding money, police said.

Stover was given $55 cash, and told the two employees to lie on the floor behind the counter, police said.

Two unidentified customers then entered the store and Stover ordered Miss Cook into his car and drove off.

Using the license number of Stover's car obtained by Davis, plus description of an auto used in a Feb. 28 holdup of another Des Plaines food store, police traced his identity.

DES PLAINES detectives then staked out the Algonquin-Elmhurst Road Shell Service Station, where Stover was to report for work at midnight. He has been employed at the station since December.

But a night attendant at the station told police Stover called to say he would be late for work because he wanted to change clothes at home.

Stover was then arrested at home by sheriff's police, who said they found a gun and money in his car. A search of his house later turned up the clothes Stover wore in the robbery, police said.

STOVER ALSO was charged in connection with the Feb. 28 hold-up in Des Plaines and March 9 robbery in Mount Prospect. On Feb. 28, police said, he struck clerk Dale Baumann with an ice tea jar and took $100 cash from the 7-Eleven Store, 578 Thacker St., Des Plaines.

In the Mount Prospect robbery, Stover pistol-whipped Mary Kozel, 140 Morrison Ave., Mount Prospect, an employee of Western Fashion Store, 1749 W. Golf Rd., police said.

He fled with $90 cash and Mrs. Kozel was hospitalized with a fractured skull at Northwest Community Hospital, where she is now in good condition.

Stover, who was once convicted in Maryland of sexual assault, was charged with kidnaping and two counts of armed robbery by Des Plaines police. Mount Prospect police have charged him with armed robbery and armed violence.

He is currently being held in lieu of a total of $125,000 bond. Stover will appear today in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court and is scheduled for an April 23 appearance in the Mount Prospect circuit court branch.

Three arrested in police raid at apartments

An arrest by Schaumburg police late Tuesday night at the International Village apartments based on a warrant for deceptive practices ended in the arrest of three persons on a variety of charges.

Herbert Lee Hattendorf, 34, of 1326 Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg, was charged with deceptive practice, possession of marijuana and failing to have a valid firearms owner's identification card, police said. A quantity of marijuana and an unregistered handgun were allegedly confiscated in the raid.

Hattendorf had used the name of Ray Sorenson in renting the apartment and opening a checking account at the Bank of Rolling Meadows, police said.

Hattendorf was wanted for passing bogus checks in both Schaumburg and Niles, police said.

Also arrested were Victoria Marinella, 24, of 453 John St., Bensenville, and Julia S. Woods, 33, of Schoffner, Ark.

Both of the women were charged with possession of marijuana.

Schaumburg Detectives William King, Harvey Woods, Tom Ostermann and Cliff Johnson made the arrests.

Hattendorf and the two women were released after posting bonds of $5,000 and $1,000 respectively. All three are scheduled to appear April 4 in court in Schaumburg.

Schaumburg police went to Hattendorf's apartment originally with a warrant for arrest based on the charge of deceptive practice.

Environmental board raps village for non-consultation

The chairman of the Palatine Environmental Control Board has complained that the village board took a stand opposing an ECB position without consulting the environmental group.

Wayne C. Browning, chairman of the ECB, said in a letter to Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun that the environmental board is "hard pressed to understand how the village board could have taken such a strong positive stand without consulting us."

The village board last month had opposed a resolution which called for a statewide 5-cent deposit on beer and soft drink cans. The trustees also came out against a study on the feasibility of the so-called bottle law.

The Environmental Control Board earlier had endorsed a study of an Illinois bottle law.

Browning stated that "if the village board is in possession of information we do not have regarding the feasibility of a bottle law for Illinois, we feel we should have had the opportunity to consider this information . . . before a final decision was reached."

HE SAID the ECB based its decision on a bottle law in Oregon, which has led to a reduction in littering.

Under a bottle law, consumers would pay a deposit on both cans and bottles when purchasing the beverages, then would be reimbursed when the empty containers were returned.

Village trustees, in opposing both an Illinois bottle law and a study on the feasibility of a bottle law, had criticized the ECB for taking action which they contended could be interpreted as village support of the deposit law.

Browning stated in his letter that "we felt that signing letters with the name of the Palatine Environmental Control Board would not be construed as an official position of the village."

He also said the ECB hopes "to maintain the right to freely communicate with agencies and individuals, both public and private, where mutual interests and exchange of ideas are beneficial to each party and the citizens of Palatine and the State of Illinois."

Lawsuit charges tennis club with sex bias

Managers of the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club Inc. in Palatine were apparently caught off guard by a discrimination suit filed against the club in Cook County Circuit Court.

Stephen Engberg, of Deerfield, filed the suit last week, alleging that the $60 annual membership for men, while women are charged only $25, constitutes sex discrimination.

"We just learned of the suit this morning," an employee of the tennis club said yesterday. Many tennis clubs operate on the higher fee for men because prime evening hours are reserved for them, she said, and she added, "If the women wouldn't have a break, the courts would be empty during the day." The club is located at 1350 E. Northwest Hwy.

If the suit is successful, the club could be ordered to refund some of the fees to men and would have to change the membership fees to an equitable amount for both sexes.

A court date has not been set for a hearing.

197 pints of blood given in latest effort

A total of 197 pints of blood was obtained in the second drawing of the village-wide blood drive last week.

Richard A. Dawson, Palatine environmental health director, said another 43 persons were ruled ineligible to give blood for a variety of medical reasons.

Sixty-seven other persons who had signed to donate blood didn't arrive.

The total of 197 pints brings to 429 pints the over-all amount of blood donated by Palatine residents. Three more drawings are scheduled, to raise a total of 1,200 pints.

The figure represents 4 per cent of the population of Palatine and, if reached, would allow all residents an unlimited supply of blood for one year.

The next drawing is set for June 8. Prospective donors, between 18 and 65 years of age and in good health, can call the village health department, 358-7555, for an appointment.

Dunkin Donuts shop plans told at hearing

Plans were outlined this week for a Dunkin Donuts shop on Northwest Highway near Easy Street in Palatine.

Five residents of the Comfort Street area immediately behind the site of the proposed shop attended the public hearing held by the plan commission Tuesday night.

The plan commission is to further discuss the rezoning petition at its next meeting, April 3.

Also considered this week was a petition to rezone one acre on Northwest Highway between Brockway Street and Plum Grove Road for small stores.

The discussion of a proposed condominium project on Palatine Road and Harrison Street, near Inverness, was postponed.

Correction

A typographical error in yesterday's Herald stated Palatine Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun "opposed," rather than "proposed," an increase in the cost of back-door garbage pickup. Braun suggested the rates be raised from $4.45 a month to $4.70.

Republicans pledge advisory board

The Republican candidates for the Palatine Village Board have pledged, if elected, to set up an advisory board of leaders from other Palatine taxing bodies and major organizations.

GOP village president candidate Wendell E. Jones outlined the proposed "Palatine Advisory Board" at a candidates forum Wednesday night in the Rose Park fieldhouse.

He said such a board would "improve and expand" village board communication and interaction with other governing bodies in Palatine.

Clayton W. Brown, the Village Independent Party candidate for village president, denounced the idea as "unnecessary."

"There exists now a total cooperation and communication between all these various organizations," he said. He said the workload of the organization heads is "already heavy enough not to burden them with unnecessary meetings."

THE REPUBLICAN platform suggested formation of two citizens' advisory groups to the village board, one consisting of representatives of homeowners' groups, and the other of business and industry representatives.

Jones said the newly-proposed third advisory group would be comprised of past village presidents, the library board president, elementary and high school district superintendents, park district director, chamber of commerce president, village manager, township supervisor, YMCA director and Palatine youth center director. Also on the advisory board would be two members of each of the other two advisory groups.

The VIPs' Brown earlier criticized the GOP pledge to set up a homeowners' advisory group, contending the village already has residents from throughout the village serving on advisory boards, such as the plan commission.

Intravenous fluid bottles recalled

About 60 bottles of intravenous fluid that may be contaminated have been recalled from Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, a hospital spokesman said yesterday.

"To our knowledge none of the contaminated fluid has been given to patients," said Burton Chatterin, vice president of hospital administration.

Cutter Laboratories, which makes the solution known as Cutter IV, is recalling 66,000 one-liter bottles of the fluid. The recall started Friday after three women at a Milwaukee medical center suffered blood infections after being given the solution. One of the women died.

Chatterin said Northwest Community, like other Chicago area hospitals, was notified of the recall Tuesday. Officials at three other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs — Holy Family, Alexian Brothers and Lutheran General — said they did not stock Cutter IV.

Currently, two patients at Northwest are receiving the solution, but have not been given any from contaminated lots, Chatterin said. The recall concerns only one-liter bottles manufactured in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Chatterin said the recall "will not cause any problem here." He said Northwest has half-liter bottles of the solution and other lots not made in Tennessee in stock.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has been studying the matter to see if they can find a conclusive link between the intravenous fluid and the three infection cases. Cutter spokesmen say there is no proof any contamination of the fluid occurred before the hospital received it.

A fourth possible infection has been reported at the Community Hospital in Springfield, Ohio, where a woman developed a high fever after gynecological surgery last Friday. Cutter IV fluid was used in the operation, but a hospital spokesman said the hospital has not connected the fever incident to the fluid. The FDA has also been studying that case, officials said.

Children's dental clinic plans told

by JOHN MAES

Plans were announced this week by the Des Plaines League of Women Voters and the Cook County Public Health Department to establish a free children's dental clinic designed to serve low- and moderate-income Northwest suburban families.

The Westminster Presbyterian Church, 800 S. Beau Dr., Des Plaines, has been picked as a location for the clinic, tentatively scheduled to open in September. Two rooms of the church have been donated for the facility.

Mrs. Donald Rose, health chairman of the Des Plaines League of Women Voters, said there has been a long-standing need for such a dental facility in the Northwest suburbs.

GROUNDWORK for the clinic was laid in January, 1972, when Cook County Public Health officials told a panel of women's league members the county would aid interested citizens in establishing a free dental facility.

So far, the county has agreed to provide the dentist as well as pay the cost of everyday dental supplies. A dental chair unit has been provided by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

In addition, a commitment has been made by the Des Plaines Junior Woman's Club and the Salvation Army to contribute at least $2,000. Proceeds from the next Des Plaines Jaycees' fund raising event will also be donated to the clinic.

Mrs. Rose said about $7,500 is still needed to purchase cabinets, X-ray development equipment, a dental drill and desks.

"We're also going to need clerical volunteers and drivers to bring people to and from the clinic," she said.

THE CLINIC will be open to children under 18. Appointments can be made through the county health department, 249-5832, operators of the center. Health department officials will screen each child's school file before an appointment is made, to determine his parent's financial status.

Mrs. Rose said county health department family income guidelines for dental care will be used in determining a family's eligibility to use the clinic.

A family of three must earn no more than $8,242 yearly, according to county guidelines, to be eligible. A family of four must earn no more than $9,641 per year while the minimum for a family of five is $11,000 and $12,467 is the per year minimum income for a family of six or more.

Reading plan parent aides to be honored

Parent volunteers who have worked in the Title I reading program in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will be honored at a tea at 1:15 p.m. March 28 at Stuart Paddock School.

Nearly 20 parents who have children in the Title I reading program have been working as volunteers in the program since November. The 12 Title I tutors who have completed their 20 hours of training will receive certificates from the National Right to Read Program. The eight-member parent advisory council for the district's program also will be recognized.

Parent involvement is a requirement for Title I federal funding. The Title I reading program is offered at Gray M. Sanborn, Joel Wood and Stuart Paddock schools in Palatine. Children within these attendance areas attending Immanuel Lutheran or St. Theresa schools are also enrolled in the program.

There are about 70 second through fourth grade students from the five schools in the program. These students have been identified as having reading problems.

$1,274,717 request $40,000 less than this year

Public works department plans budgetary decrease

The Rolling Meadows Public Works Department plans to reduce its budget next year, even though the entire city budget is expected to be substantially more.

Preliminary figures presented during a special city council meeting Tuesday show the department plans to spend $1,274,717 in fiscal 1973, which is $40,000 less than present $1,314,000 expenditures.

The reduction in the public works budget, the largest category in the city budget, came as somewhat of a surprise during the meeting Tuesday. Public works officials had speculated their budget would be increased over the 1972-73 allocation, largely because of the cost of flood control equipment.

INSTEAD, SPENDING for the department in the current year has exceeded its $1,080,988 budget because flood control equipment purchased with federal revenue sharing funds was included on the present budget, according to Ald. Daniel Weber (4th), chairman of the streets, alleys and utilities committee.

Since present spending is expected to be about $1,314,000, Weber said the 1973 fiscal budget will mark a $40,000 decrease in the department's spending.

"In some areas costs are up, and in others they're down," Weber said yesterday. "For example, one reason for the decrease is our major street and sidewalk repaving program is completed. We've repaved all the major streets in the city. The only street program for next year will be repaving of the courts."

"We won't be purchasing any major equipment next year since the new equipment will be coming out of this year's budget," he added. "About the only major project we'll have going next year is the Well 6 project (a building and water tower). Other than that, most of the work will be concentrating on the federal revenue sharing project of flood control."

If Arlington Heights completes its portion of repair work next year on Wilke Road, the city may begin repair of its half of the road next year, Weber added. Funds for the work would come from motor fuel tax funds, rather than a budgeted category, he said.

THE TENTATIVE breakdown of 1973-74 spending in the department shows $217,565 for residential sanitation, down from the present $264,336; $52,013 for commercial and industrial sanitation, which was not included in the present budget; $94,938 for the sewer department, which is up from the present $54,211; $255,869 for streets, which is up from the present $250,143; and $493,362 for the water department, which is down from the present $522,239.

Over-all spending for the city is expected to reach about $3,315,584, which is $697,773 more than the city's present $2,617,811 budget. The increase is due largely to the addition of $452,680 for the fire department, which became part of the city January 1.

City Mgr. James Watson said Tuesday he considers the money package a balanced budget, even though the city's available revenues next year are expected to be only $3,285,600.

The $30,000 deficit is only 1 per cent of the total tentative budget figure, Watson said, which he deemed an acceptable limit.

Watson said, however, that the figures still are subject to change. He said a public hearing on the budget will probably be held April 10, with final approval by the city council tentatively set for April 27.

Statutes require that the budget be passed by April 30.

RECORDED QUESTIONS that deal with a patient's medical history are part of a new health examination process called multiphasic health testing. The patient responds to questions by pressing the appropriate button. Answers are recorded and analyzed by a computer that also instantaneously measures and prints the findings of a variety of physical tests. The complete testing takes only an hour.

'Relaxing' chair offers complete medical exam

by TONI GINETTI

Relaxing in a chaise longue chair might not seem like a way to promote good health, but that's just about all new health testing system requires in order for a person to undergo a complete, comprehensive medical exam.

The chair is connected to a $250,000 computer unit which records and analyzes the results of physiological tests; from a two-second test for glaucoma to a standard electrocardiogram — all while a patient lies comfortably in the lounge.

The unit is part of a new method of health testing called multiphasic health testing, and promoting its use to combat killer diseases is only one aspect of the work being done at International Health Systems, Inc. in Rolling Meadows.

THE THREE-YEAR-old company, which moved from Des Plaines to Rolling Meadows a year ago, manufactures the equipment used for multiphasic health testing. While promoting the use of the new equipment is good business for the company, providing low cost, (Continued on page 2)

This Morning In Brief

The nation

A federal judge, saying the case "transcends anything yet encountered in the annals of American judicial history," quashed subpoenas sought by the Nixon campaign organization against 11 newsmen involved in coverage of the Watergate bugging case.

Senate Democrats charged that acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray bypassed Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst when he personally handed secret FBI Watergate files to a White House aide.

Led by a record one-month rise of 2.4 per cent in food prices, the cost of living took the biggest leap in 22 years. (Turn to page 2.)

The State Department said two Libyan jet fighters fired on an unarmed U.S. Air Force cargo plane south of Malta in the Mediterranean Sea yesterday. It called the attack an "unpardonable incident."

The state

After attacking his "liberal policies" for more than two hours, Senate Republicans blocked committee approval of David Fogel, Gov. Daniel Walker's choice to head the state Department of Corrections. The 13 Republican members of the Senate executive committee overpowered the nine Democrats and sent to the full Senate a recommendation that Fogel's appointment be rejected. The Senate is expected to take up the matter today. A majority vote would override the committee action and approve Fogel's appointment, but that would take at least one Republican vote added to the Senate's 29 Democrats.

Attorneys have filed a motion asking a new trial for former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who was convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, income tax evasion and perjury. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., has not set a date for oral arguments on the motion, but gave the government until April 2 to file an answer to the defense arguments.

The Environmental Protection Agency has announced over $15 million in grants to 12 Illinois communities to help pay for improved wastewater facilities. The Metropolitan Sanitary District will get $11.5 million.

The world

The United States, using its veto for the third time in the 27-year history of the United Nations, killed a resolution on future Panama Canal control in the Security Council. The veto in the council came after 13 nations led by Panama voted in favor of the resolution and Britain abstained.

Ten men thought to be Palestinian guerrillas attacked a Lebanese army checkpoint near the Israeli border in South Lebanon. Palestinian sources said the attackers were smugglers trying to stir up trouble.

Three arrested in police raid at apartments

An arrest by Schaumburg police late Tuesday night at the International Village apartments based on a warrant for deceptive practices ended in the arrest of three persons on a variety of charges.

Herbert Lee Hattendorf, 34, of 1326 Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg, was charged with deceptive practice, possession of marijuana and failing to have a valid firearms owner's identification card, police said. A quantity of marijuana and an unregistered handgun were allegedly confiscated in the raid.

Hattendorf had used the name of Ray Sorenson in renting the apartment and opening a checking account at the Bank of Rolling Meadows, police said.

Hattendorf was wanted for passing bogus checks in both Schaumburg and Niles, police said.

Also arrested were Victoria Marinella, 24, of 453 John St., Bensenville, and Julia S. Woods, 33, of Schaffner, Ark.

Both of the women were charged with possession of marijuana.

Schaumburg Detectives William King, Harvey Woods, Tom Ostermann and Cliff Johnson made the arrests.

Hattendorf and the two women were released after posting bonds of $5,000 and $1,000 respectively. All three are scheduled to appear April 4 in court in Schaumburg.

Schaumburg police went to Hattendorf's apartment originally with a warrant for arrest based on the charge of deceptive practice.

by JOHN MAES

An Arlington Heights man was charged late Tuesday with kidnaping a 18-year-old Des Plaines food store clerk after he robbed the store and took her hostage at gunpoint, according to police.

The girl, Deborah Cook, 1805 Pine St., was released unharmed about a half hour later in Oak Park, where she called police.

Her alleged abductor, Roy Stover, 24, was captured later by Cook County Sheriff's police outside his home, 782 Haven St., and charged with kidnaping and armed robbery.

DES PLAINES police said Stover walked into the Convenient Food Mart, 1920 Mannheim Rd., shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday night and pretended to buy groceries. He displayed a pistol and threatened Miss Cook and night manager Charles Davis, 1852 Mannheim Rd., demanding money, police said.

Stover was given $55 cash, and told the two employees to lie on the floor behind the counter, police said.

Two unidentified customers then entered the store and Stover ordered Miss Cook into his car and drove off.

Using the license number of Stover's car obtained by Davis, plus description of an auto used in a Feb. 28 holdup of another Des Plaines food store, police traced his identity.

DES PLAINES detectives then staked out the Algonquin-Elmhurst Road Shell Service Station, where Stover was to report for work at midnight. He has been employed at the station since December.

But a night attendant at the station told police Stover called to say he would be late for work because he wanted to change clothes at home.

Stover was then arrested at home by sheriff's police, who said they found a gun and money in his car. A search of his house later turned up the clothes Stover wore in the robbery, police said.

STOVER ALSO WAS charged in connection with the Feb. 28 hold-up in Des Plaines and March 9 robbery in Mount Prospect. On Feb. 28, police said, he struck clerk Dale Baumann with an ice tea jar and took $100 cash from the 7-Eleven Store, 578 Thacker St., Des Plaines.

In the Mount Prospect robbery, Stover pistol-whipped Mary Kosel, 140 Morrison Ave., Mount Prospect, an employee of Western Fashion Store, 1749 W. Golf Rd., police said.

He fled with $80 cash and Mrs. Kosel was hospitalized with a fractured skull at Northwest Community Hospital, where she is now in good condition.

Stover, who was once convicted in Maryland of sexual assault, was charged with kidnaping and two counts of armed robbery by Des Plaines police. Mount Prospect police have charged him with armed robbery and armed violence.

He is currently being held in lieu of a total of $125,000 bond. Stover will appear today in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court and is scheduled for an April 23 appearance in the Mount Prospect circuit court branch.

Lawsuit charges tennis club with sex bias

Managers of the Arlington Indoor Tennis Club Inc. in Palatine were apparently caught off guard by a discrimination suit filed against the club in Cook County Circuit Court.

Stephen Engberg, of Deerfield, filed the suit last week, alleging that the $60 annual membership for men, while women are charged only $25, constitutes sex discrimination.

"We just learned of the suit this morning," an employee of the tennis club said yesterday. Many tennis clubs operate on the higher fee for men because prime evening hours are reserved for them, she said, and she added, "If the women wouldn't have a break, the courts would be empty during the day." The club is located at 1350 E. Northwest Hwy.

If the suit is successful, the club could be ordered to refund some of the fees to men and would have to change the membership fees to an equitable amount for both sexes.

A court date has not been set for a hearing.

'Relaxing' chair offers complete physical

comprehensive, and speedy medical exams is a growing concern for all, according to company vice president Dave Lindsey.

"The purpose of the testing is to detect diseases and illnesses before they can cause chronic conditions," Lindsey said. "The nature of deadly diseases has changed in the last 20 years. It used to be that infectious diseases caused deaths but with the introduction of penicillin and other antibiotics, that changed. Now it is the chronic diseases like heart and cancer," he said.

Most doctors recommend that individuals undergo regular medical checkups as a means of early disease detection to increase the chances of containment or cure. Conventional exams are costly and can take days to perform. Often hospital confinement is even necessary. But Lindsey said the multiphasic testing method has changed the entire scope of medical examining.

"The system provides a doctor with better data than ever before on a patient's health," he said. "And rather than taking up to a day or more, it takes only 30 minutes to an hour."

THE SYSTEM operates by compiling data in three areas, Lindsey explained. They are medical history of a patient, which is recorded as the patient listens to recorded questions and answers them by pressing an appropriate response button, physiological testing, including the electrocardiogram, lung capacity testing, and hearing testing, and laboratory testing, which includes more than 30 biochemical tests of blood samples.

"All the instrumentation is in one console that takes up only from 200 to 400 square feet," he said. "All the data is computerized."

The company sells or leases the equipment to hospitals and clinics, Lindsey said. Cost to a patient for the comprehensive exam is usually about $50, whereas the same tests might cost up to $150 or more in a conventional examination procedure, he said.

"We stress the patient's comfort and convenience," Lindsey said. "He doesn't have to disrobe or walk from room to room in a hospital gown for each different test. He just lies in a chaise lounge."

THE EQUIPMENT is monitored by one to three technicians trained by the company, he said. Instantaneous printouts of exam results are provided by the computer and confidential reports of medical findings are sent to the patient's doctor.

"The title (multiphasic health testing) is becoming somewhat outdated," he said. "Actually, it's an accumulation of medical data to assist the physician."

"We'd like to get away from that title because it sounds so medical, but we haven't really come up with anything else," Sylvia Hennessy, the company's public relations director, added.

LINDSEY said the testing system, which has received the approval of the American Medical Association, is being made available throughout the world. Because of its orientation toward verbal communication with the patient, Mrs. Hennessy said the system is easily adaptable for operation in any country simply by using pre-recorded language tapes.

"We are setting up distributors all over the world with the cooperation of the Department of Commerce," Lindsey added. The company is now building a unit for use in a special clinic in Sao Paulo, Brazil. The unit is expected to be completed and shipped by this spring.

"Group health insurance companies are beginning to pay for this kind of testing, too," he said. "Before the companies would only pay if the patient was hospitalized but because of the rising costs of hospitalization, even insurance companies are beginning to recognize the need for the system," he said.

"Now that it's easier to go through a medical exam, let's hope more people become preventative-health minded," Mrs. Hennessy said. "It's reasonable, easy, and almost fun."

Algonquin Road signs 'will be enforced'

Rolling Meadows Traffic Supervisor Andrew Herbert is advising motorists on Algonquin Road that new signs posted along the street prohibiting certain maneuvers "will be strictly enforced."

The signs include a No Left Turn warning on westbound Algonquin at Barker Avenue and a No U Turn warning on eastbound Algonquin at Tollview Drive.

Herbert said another sign, on the curve of Rohlwing Road near Industrial Avenue, advising motorists of a 20 mile per hour speed limit, will also be enforced.

He said the new moves are being made in an effort to cut down on the increase of injury-causing accidents at each of the locations.

Highway Dept. official to speak at luncheon

A Cook County Highway Department official, Leo Merika, will speak to a noon luncheon meeting of the Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce industrial division today.

The program will take place at the Holiday Inn, 3405 Algonquin Road.

Absentee ballots available at hall

Voters who will not be able to vote in person for the April 17 municipal elections in Rolling Meadows may pick up absentee ballots at city hall, 3600 Kirchhoff Rd.

Ballots will also be available by mail until April 12. Persons may obtain ballots in person through April 14.

Completed ballots may be returned to city hall through April 14. Offices will remain open on a special schedule from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, April 7, and Saturday, April 14, to accept ballots.

Arson suspected in high school fire

Police and fire department officials in Rolling Meadows now suspect arson as the cause of a minor fire at Rolling Meadows High School early Tuesday.

The fire was confined to the school's band room and caused an estimated $1,000 damage to instruments and several band blazer jackets.

Police said yesterday they are investigating the possibility that one or more students started the fire in a wastebasket on a dare.

No injuries were reported from the incident. A fire department investigation into the matter is continuing.

Children's dental clinic plans told

by JOHN MAES

Plans were announced this week by the Des Plaines League of Women Voters and the Cook County Public Health Department to establish a free children's dental clinic designed to serve low- and moderate-income Northwest suburban families.

The Westminster Presbyterian Church, 800 S. Beau Dr., Des Plaines, has been picked as a location for the clinic, tentatively scheduled to open in September. Two rooms of the church have been donated for the facility.

Mrs. Donald Rose, health chairman of the Des Plaines League of Women Voters, said there has been a long-standing need for such a dental facility in the Northwest suburbs.

GROUNDWORK for the clinic was laid in January, 1972, when Cook County Public Health officials told a panel of women's league members the county would aid interested citizens in establishing a free dental facility.

So far, the county has agreed to provide the dentist as well as pay the cost of everyday dental supplies. A dental chair unit has been provided by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

In addition, a commitment has been made by the Des Plaines Junior Woman's Club and the Salvation Army to contribute at least $2,000. Proceeds from the next Des Plaines Jaycees' fund raising event will also be donated to the clinic.

Mrs. Rose said about $7,500 is still needed to purchase cabinets, X-ray development equipment, a dental drill and desks.

"We're also going to need clerical volunteers and drivers to bring people to and from the clinic," she said.

THE CLINIC will be open to children under 16. Appointments can be made through the county health department, 243-5832, operators of the center. Health department officials will screen each child's school file before an appointment is made, to determine his parent's financial status.

Mrs. Rose said county health department family income guidelines for dental care will be used in determining a family's eligibility to use the clinic.

A family of three must earn no more than $8,242 yearly, according to county guidelines, to be eligible. A family of four must earn no more than $9,641 per year while the minimum for a family of five is $11,000 and $12,487 is the per year minimum income for a family of six or more.

Reading plan parent aides to be honored

Parent volunteers who have worked in the Title I reading program in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will be honored at a tea at 1:15 p.m. March 28 at Stuart Paddock School.

Nearly 20 parents who have children in the Title I reading program have been working as volunteers in the program since November. The 12 Title I tutors who have completed their 20 hours of training will receive certificates from the National Right to Read Program. The eight-member parent advisory council for the district's program also will be recognized.

Parent involvement is a requirement for Title I federal funding. The Title I reading program is offered at Gray M. Sanborn, Joel Wood and Stuart Paddock schools in Palatine. Children within these attendance areas attending Immanuel Lutheran or St. Theresa schools are also enrolled in the program.

There are about 70 second through fourth grade students from the five schools in the program. These students have been identified as having reading problems.

Unit district study to boards within 6 months

Results of a unit district feasibility study should be in the hands of all Schaumburg Township boards of education within six months.

The reactivated School Dist. 54 Unification Subcommittee last night heard a Schaumburg Citizens' Unit District Study Committee outline its plans to hire a professional consultant to begin work April 1.

Jim Blankenship, a member of the citizens' group, asked the Dist. 54 committee for cooperation in compiling data.

The citizens' group expects to name a professional consultant to begin a feasibility study for all of Schaumburg Township tonight.

At a previous meeting, the citizens' group tentatively selected Richard Belpap, professor of education at Northern Illinois University, to do the study. Blankenship said yesterday the study will probably be done by NIU.

RUDD PLEDGED full cooperation to any consultant conducting a study and said the district's files and information will be made available. A Dist. 15 representative also offered assistance.

The cooperative attitude Rudd demonstrated was tempered with the statement that the district and board of education would wait for the study to come in before deciding its action.

He said that could be to conduct its own study or to submit information for hearings. "Until we see the results of a study, this board and committee will not take a position on unit district," he said.

Blankenship said the citizens' group seeks only to initiate the start of a professional study. The results will be given to District 54 and other districts that would be affected by unification.

We will expect the districts to take ample time for evaluation and take action if the study cites educational advantages by forming a unit district, said Blankenship.

BLANKENSHIP STRESSED the citizens' group was directing the consultant to conduct a survey of all of Schaumburg Township and stressed educational advantages in unification must be shown before the issue is voted upon.

However, if Dist. 54, in this case the largest district in the township, does not call for a unit district vote if unification is recommended, 200 residents petitioning the service region can institute unit district action, he said.

Jayceettes to hear program on adoption

Schaumburg Jayceettes will hold an open meeting at 8 p.m. tonight with a guest speaker from the Open Door Society of Illinois. The speaker will comment on adoption. The session will be in the basement recreation room of Town Square apartments, 220 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg. Non-members are invited.

Mosquitos public works panel's topic

The problems of controlling this summer's mosquito crop will be discussed next Tuesday by the Hoffman Estates Public Works Committee.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the village municipal building. Representatives of the village's environmental committee also will be present at the session.

Village Trustee Virginia Hayter said Monday that several residents have questioned the village's plans for combating the problem and that the topic will be discussed by her committee.

The board also approved Monday a and bottle store in the new Hoffman package sales liquor license for the Case Plaza Shopping Center. The board voted 4 to 3 to approve the license. The store is part of a Jewel Food Stores subsidiary.

Trustee Dyrle Rathman said he was opposed to granting the Jewel Tea Co. another license in the village.

OTHER BOARD members questioned the need for two liquor operations in the same shopping center, which is located along Roselle Road, between Golf and Higgins roads. The Oco Drug store, another Jewel subsidiary, already has been granted a package liquor license.

Representatives of the Case and Bottle store said they plan to center their sales around wine and imported cheese without emphasizing a "bourban and scotch" operation. They plan to open about June 1.

In other action, the board also approved funds for an environmental etiquette newsletter, which will be published by the environmental committee and distributed to elementary and junior high school students in Hoffman Estates. The newsletter will cost $15 per month, according to Trustee Diane Jensen.

The board also gave final approval to a village sign ordinance. Fines for violation of the ordinance were set at a minimum of $10 and a maximum of $600.

Halt recent protest

A preliminary agreement reached last night to revise work schedules has apparently put a temporary halt to protest mounted by union firefighters against the trustees of the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District.

The agreement, which calls for firefighters and Chief Carl Selke to work out a 24-hour on duty, 48-hour off duty schedule for all firefighters was reached in a closed-door meeting between district officials and union representatives prior to yesterday's board of trustees meeting.

The work schedule plan was announced by Richard Cordova, president of Local 2061 of the International Association of Firefighters, AFL-CIO. He said the board did not agree to formal recognition of the union which had been another of the issues which caused a day-long protest by firefighters yesterday.

In addition to the work schedule agreement, two other complaints raised by the union were at least partially solved by board action. The three-man board agreed to hire three new firefighters as soon as possible. They also appointed Lt. Jerome Danowski as chief training officer for the department.

THE UNION, which represents 15 of the 18 full-time firefighters, had argued that more men were needed to adequately protect the district. They also stated the district lacks an organized training program.

About 40 persons, including representatives from suburban fire departments and the City of Chicago attended the board meeting. Thomas Dale, a national union vice president acted as an adviser to the union during the negotiation session. After the session, Dale said, "the local seems to be on the way toward solving some of its problems."

The current work schedule, which had some firefighters working 16-hour duty shifts with 32 hours off, had been a major point of contention between the union and the district officials. The agreement reached last night is designed to work toward a "24-48" schedule for all firefighters.

Cordova also said that previously announced plans to push for a district-wide referendum to elect trustees has been tabled because of the work schedule agreement.

"We made this agreement in good faith and we hope the board will follow through on it," he said.

UNION OFFICIALS announced last weekend they would seek the election because the board had been unresponsive to their requests. Currently the fire district trustees are appointed by the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

Park board OKs head of program

The Hoffman Estates Park District Board of Commissioners Tuesday approved the hiring of Mike Quill as program supervisor.

Quill will begin working with the park district immediately. District Director Al Binder said he will be in charge of recreational program planning and management of the Lions Park swimming pool this summer.

A graduate of George Williams College in Downers Grove, Quill, 23, has worked for seven years with park districts in Glenview and Deerfield.

He currently resides in Glenview, but said he plans to move to the Hoffman Estates area in the near future.

The board also approved the purchase of a heater to be installed at the Lions Pool. Funds for the pool heater, which will cost about $4,000, were approved last June in a general park development referendum. The heater is expected to permit more use of the pool in mornings and on cooler summer days.

The board also approved a concession agreement with Bob Steepe Enterprises to operate the refreshment stand at the pool this summer. The district will receive 8 per cent of the gross receipts from the operation. Steepe is a counselor at the Helen Keller Junior High School.

Three arrested in police raid at apartments

An arrest by Schaumburg police late Tuesday night at the International Village apartments based on a warrant for deceptive practices ended in the arrest of three persons on a variety of charges.

Herbert Lee Hattendorf, 34, of 1326 Algonquin Rd., Schaumburg, was charged with deceptive practice, possession of marijuana and failing to have a valid firearms owner's identification card, police said. A quantity of marijuana and an unregistered handgun were allegedly confiscated in the raid.

Hattendorf had used the name of Ray Sorenson in renting the apartment and opening a checking account at the Bank of Rolling Meadows, police said.

Hattendorf was wanted for passing bogus checks in both Schaumburg and Niles, police said.

Also arrested were Victoria Marinella, 24, of 453 John St., Bensenville, and Julia S. Woods, 33, of Schoffner, Ark.

Both of the women were charged with possession of marijuana.

Schaumburg Detectives William King, Harvey Woods, Tom Ostermann and Cliff Johnson made the arrests.

Hattendorf and the two women were released after posting bonds of $5,000 and $1,000 respectively. All three are scheduled to appear April 4 in court in Schaumburg.

Schaumburg police went to Hattendorf's apartment originally with a warrant for arrest based on the charge of deceptive practice.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

A federal judge, saying the case "transcends anything yet encountered in the annals of American judicial history," quashed subpoenas sought by the Nixon campaign organization against 11 newsmen involved in coverage of the Watergate bugging case.

Senate Democrats charged that acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray bypassed Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst when he personally handed secret FBI Watergate files to a White House aide.

Led by a record one-month rise of 2.4 per cent in food prices, the cost of living took the biggest leap in 22 years. (Turn to page 2.)

The State Department said two Libyan jet fighters fired on an unarmed U.S. Air Force cargo plane south of Malta in the Mediterranean Sea yesterday. It called the attack an "unpardonable incident."

The state

After attacking his "liberal policies" for more than two hours, Senate Republicans blocked committee approval of David Fogel, Gov. Daniel Walker's choice to head the state Department of Corrections. The 13 Republican members of the Senate executive committee overpowered the nine Democrats and sent to the full-Senate a recommendation that Fogel's appointment be rejected. The Senate is expected to take up the matter today. A majority vote would override the committee action and approve Fogel's appointment, but that would take at least one Republican vote added to the Senate's 29 Democrats.

Attorneys have filed a motion asking a new trial for former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who was convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, income tax evasion and perjury. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., has not set a date for oral arguments on the motion, but gave the government until April 2 to file an answer to the defense arguments.

The Environmental Protection Agency has announced over $15 million in grants to 12 Illinois communities to help pay for improved wastewater facilities. The Metropolitan Sanitary District will get $11.5 million.

The world

The United States, using its veto for the third time in the 27-year history of the United Nations, killed a resolution on future Panama Canal control in the Security Council. The veto in the council came after 13 nations led by Panama voted in favor of the resolution and Britain abstained.

Ten men thought to be Palestinian guerrillas attacked a Lebanese army checkpoint near the Israeli border in South Lebanon. Palestinian sources said the attackers were smugglers trying to stir up trouble.

Radio operators, guards sought

The Schaumburg Police Department is seeking persons interested in becoming police radio operators or crossing guards.

Crossing guards are needed for Dooley School at the intersection of Norwood and Lowell Lanes and for Jane Addams Junior High School at the intersection of Springinguth Road and Dartmouth Lane.

Police Chief Martin Conroy said the guards are paid $3 per hour and work three hours each school day.

Conroy also is accepting applications for police radio operators. He said this is a full time position, with salary based on experience and ability.

The department will interview service veterans and handicapped persons for the positions, he said.

More information about either job can be obtained by calling the department at 894-3149. Applications may be obtained at 231 S. Civic Dr., Schaumburg.

Environmental education ahead

In future school years, Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 will place additional emphasis on environmental education.

The post of environmental education specialist, a 12-month position carrying a salary range of from $12-15,000, was created by the board of education last week.

Duties of the administrative team member will include in-service training, responsibility for development and maintenance of a Dist. 54 nature area, leadership in environmental education curriculum and coordination of community involvement.

Job specifications call for experience in outdoor education or related courses and teacher certification. Elementary teaching experience and work in development of nature centers also are preferred.

In other action last week, board members voted against hiring a language arts specialist.

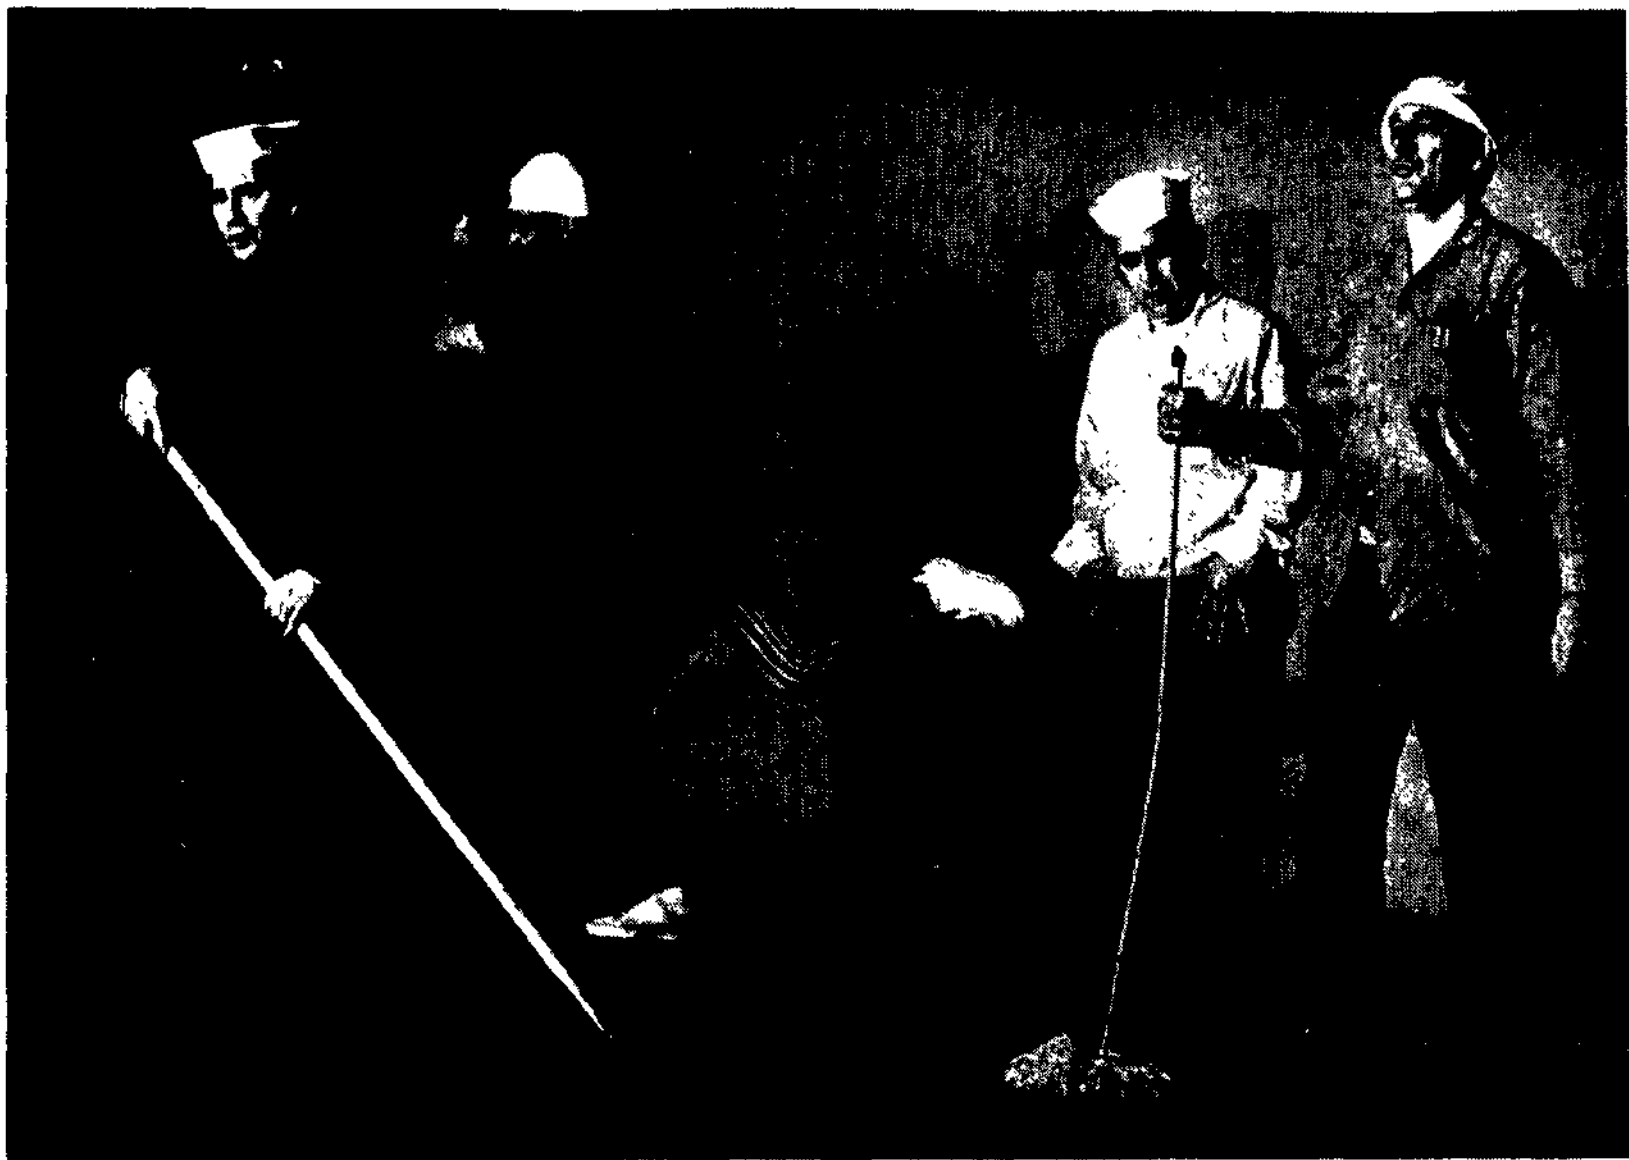

Entertainment chairman named

William Palmer is the new entertainment chairman of the Hoffman Estates Independence Day Committee. President George Seaver announced, Palmer, 333 Baxter Ln., will be in charge of games and entertainment for children and adults and insure fireworks are set off safely. He will also work in coordination with the service committee.

At the next committee meeting, Vice President Charles Ritz will present budget allocations. The meeting will be 8 p.m. Friday in the municipal building, 1200 N. Gannon Dr., Hoffman Estates.

Candy sales start March 23

Blue Birds and Camp Fire Girls will hold their annual fundraising candy sale March 23 to April 9. The girls, attired in red, white, and blue costumes, will sell Chocolate Mint Truffles and Heath Toffee Miniatures for $1 a box. The annual sale is the groups' biggest source of funds.

SWABBING THE DECKS, Carl Weimer, Jack Strick, Jordan Miller and Ben Dopke, from left, rehearse for "Gullible's Travels," Schaumburg High School Very Interested Parents' Club (VIPs) presentation. Billed as "Siegies Follies No. Two," the comedy show will be performed at 8 p.m. tonight, Friday and Saturday with a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and $1 for students. The performances will be in the high school cafeteria.

GOP vs. Civic Party

Surprise! Hayter turns up at debate

Virginia Hayter, Republican candidate for mayor of Hoffman Estates, surprised Civic Party candidates opposing the GOP slate by attending a CP-sponsored debate Tuesday in Fairview School, 146 Arizona Blvd.

GOP officials said their candidates would not attend the debate because of a prior commitment to a coffee meeting with voters and because they questioned the impartiality of a debate.

Mrs. Hayter did not explain why she attended, but thanked CP for the opportunity to discuss issues.

Among issues debated by GOP, CP and independent candidates were procedures for street repair, plans for flood control in Parcel A, the need for a professional planner and the adequacy of sewage treatment facilities serving the village.

Sheldon Galanter, independent trustee candidate, attacked current village officials for street repair methods in older sections of the village, where new paving was installed on top of "substandard base." Instead of "throwing money away" in that fashion, he said, the old paving base should have been torn up with higher standard streets installed in its place.

FREDERICK DOWNEY, incumbent mayoral candidate running with CP, disputed Galanter's claim residents were dissatisfied with the procedure. They have expressed appreciation for the work, Downey said, and he noted high costs of totally new paving. Government must set priorities, and spend on the most pressing needs, he said.

Mrs. Hayter said her party intends to spend federal revenue sharing funds on street and sidewalk repairs and storm water drainage installations. She also noted village administrations must set priorities. She challenged CP candidates to tell their plans for use of the federal funds.

CP trustee hopeful William Stukas reported he learned from Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) officials Hoffman Estates has a number of illegal sewer connections, with residents draining storm water into sanitary sewers. Within the next four or five years, he predicted, systems treating the village's sanitary sewage flow will be over capacity, and the MSD may refuse to issue more sewer connection permits, as it has in Streamwood.

"Hoffman Estates can't afford to stop" its development, he said.

MRS. HAYTER questioned Stukas' prediction. The Salt Creek Tertiary Sewage Treatment Plant is to open in about 2½ years, and will have the capacity to meet village needs in all but western portions of the village, she said. She agreed, however, planning must start now to prepare to handle flows from western development. Mrs. Hayter also contested Stukas' contention that illegal hookups are the cause of the MSD's freeze on building in Streamwood. Stukas is representing a builder in negotiations with Streamwood and the MSD to permit new construction.

Galanter emphasized the need for a professional planner, saying trustees should provide liaison between the planner and the community and leave major decisions to experts. While CP has suggested Lee Dodgian, one of its trustee candidates and a planner for Union Oil Co., can relieve the planning needs, Ga-

Absentee ballots at clerk's office

Absentee ballots are available in the Schaumburg Township Clerk's office at The Buttery, 105 S. Roselle Rd., Schaumburg, for the April 3 township and library board election.

March 29 is the last day for absent voters to apply by mail for a ballot.

The last day to apply for a ballot in person is March 31.

Clerk Kay Wojcik said persons who will be out of the county on the day of election may obtain the applications for ballots.

Arlington man charged with kidnaping

by JOHN MAES

An Arlington Heights man was charged late Tuesday with kidnaping a 16-year-old Des Plaines food store clerk after he robbed the store and took her hostage at gunpoint, according to police.

The girl, Deborah Cook, 1805 Pine St., was released unharmed about a half hour later in Oak Park, where she called police.

Her alleged abductor, Roy Stover, 24, was captured later by Cook County Sheriff's police outside his home, 702 Haven St., and charged with kidnaping and armed robbery.

DES PLAINE police said Stover walked into the Convenient Food Mart, 1920 Mannheim Rd., shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday night and pretended to buy groceries. He displayed a pistol and threatened Miss Cook and night manager Charles Davis, 1652 Mannheim Rd., demanding money, police said.

Stover was given $65 cash, and told the two employees to lie on the floor behind the counter, police said.

Two unidentified customers then entered the store and Stover ordered Miss Cook into his car and drove off.

Using the license number of Stover's car obtained by Davis, plus description of an auto used in a Feb. 28 holdup of another Des Plaines food store, police traced his identity.

DES PLAINE detectives then staked out the Algonquin-Elmhurst Road Shell Service Station, where Stover was to report for work at midnight. He has been employed at the station since December.

But a night attendant at the station told police Stover called to say he would be late for work because he wanted to change clothes at home.

Stover was then arrested at home by sheriff's police, who said they found a gun and money in his car. A search of his house later turned up the clothes Stover wore in the robbery, police said.

STOVER ALSO WAS charged in connection with the Feb. 28 hold-up in Des Plaines and March 9 robbery in Mount Prospect. On Feb. 28, police said, he struck clerk Dale Baumann with an ice tea jar and took $100 cash from the 7-Eleven Store, 578 Thacker St., Des Plaines.

In the Mount Prospect robbery, Stover pistol-whipped Mary Kozel, 140 Morrison Ave., Mount Prospect, an employee of Western Fashion Store, 1749 W. Golf Rd., police said.

He fled with $90 cash and Mrs. Kozel was hospitalized with a fractured skull at Northwest Community Hospital, where she is now in good condition.

Stover, who was once convicted in Maryland of sexual assault, was charged with kidnaping and two counts of armed robbery by Des Plaines police. Mount Prospect police have charged him with armed robbery and armed violence.

He is currently being held in lieu of a total of $125,000 bond. Stover will appear today in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court and is scheduled for an April 23 appearance in the Mount Prospect circuit court branch.

'Tacit agreement' allows utilizing of disputed land

A "tacit agreement" exists between the mayors of Mount Prospect and Des Plaines to allow development of an 8.89-acre site at the southwest corner of Dempster Street and Elmhurst Road, despite the property being the subject of litigation between the two communities.

The property, a former mushroom farm owned by Kenroy Inc. of Skokie, has been the object of dispute for four years. Both claim to have annexed the property — Des Plaines in April, 1968, and Mount Prospect in March, 1969.

The agreement, revealed by Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert this week, is designed to allow Kenroy to develop the property now, rather than forcing Kenroy to wait until the courts decide which community the land is in.

UNDER THE agreement between Teichert and Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel, Des Plaines will rezone the property for multi-family use. Then Kenroy will be able to build using the stricter of the two communities' building codes and paying the higher building fees. Such fees would be placed in escrow until a court decides on community jurisdiction.

The property is already zoned for multi-family use in Mount Prospect. A public hearing is scheduled for April 3 before the Des Plaines Zoning Board of Appeals for similar zoning.

Under the Des Plaines petition the owners are asking for a multi-family planned unit development with 198 apartments in eleven 2½-story brick buildings. The proposed bedroom mix is either 99 one-bedroom and 99 two-bedroom units or 66 one-bedroom and 132 two-bedroom units. Parking for 330 cars will be provided.

Teichert told his village board Tuesday night the agreement was reached "so as not to hold up the property owner." He said the property owner has a right to develop his land, a right that should not be withheld because of the squabbling.

This past summer, Kenroy officials requested the court to allow them to intervene in the case "because neither the village nor the city has been able to resolve the issue."

A TRIAL date was originally set for October, but for a number of reasons has been postponed several times. The next scheduled court hearing is April 30.

James Sable, an attorney for Kenroy, said there is "some question as to whether the first annexation (to Des Plaines) was valid." Allegedly, Kenroy was "unaware of the proceedings of the municipalities at the time the annexation took place."

According to Teichert, Mount Prospect's position is that Kenroy officials petitioned Des Plaines for annexation subject to receiving multi-family zoning, but when Des Plaines allegedly failed to act on the petition, Kenroy withdrew the request.

Then Kenroy petitioned Mount Prospect, Teichert said, but Des Plaines annexed the land anyway. "We claim the Des Plaines annexation was not a proper annexation because it was not voluntary, but accidental," Teichert said last August.

At that time, Teichert added the landowner was being held "as a pawn." The agreement now is apparently an attempt to remove that pawn.

Man, 41, charged in peeping tom case

A 41-year-old Arlington Heights man was arrested Tuesday night after he allegedly was seen peeping through the bedroom window of an 11-year-old Mount Prospect girl.

Carlos M. Garcia, 1682 Windsor Dr., was charged with disorderly conduct (as a peeping tom) and is scheduled to appear April 18 in Mount Prospect Court. The homeowner, Ralph Kulin, 318 S. Emerson St., held Garcia until police arrived. A neighbor said he saw the incident and called Kulin.

Local man charged on cigaret tax count

Attorney General William Scott has named Joseph Marto, 213 Graylyn Dr., unincorporated Mount Prospect, as one of 14 persons charged with failure to pay cigaret taxes.

According to a statement from Scott's office, a $700 fine is being sought against Marto for possession of 170 packages of cigarets without tax stamps.

A total of $98,430 is being sought from all 14 persons, most of whom live in Chicago.

GASOLINE SPILLED from a truck inside the Des Plaines storage plant on Algonquin Road into the sewer system last night causing the roadway between Linneman Road and Rte. 83 to be closed to traffic. Mount Prospect firemen and state police hastened to Algonquin Road and detoured traffic around the area because of the possibility of an explosion. Fire Lt. Dennis Thiel, said as much as 1,000 gallons of gasoline may have spilled into the sewer. A crew of firemen poured water into the pipeline to dilute the gasoline. Cook County environmental units were at the scene testing the solution and explosive range. Firemen received the call at 5:15 p.m.

River trails school board OKs plan for staff cuts

The River Trails Dist. 26 board of education has approved a 1973-74 staffing plan that calls for a reduction in staff of four classroom teachers at the kindergarten through sixth grade level.

The plan calls for one less teacher each at Euclid, Peohamville, Indian Grove and Park View Schools. The number of teachers at Bond School will remain the same.

In recommending the plan to the board, Supt. Thomas Warden said there is "no one that will be extremely overjoyed or happy with it because it's based on a minimal educational level. Each of the principals has indicated he would like an increase in staff, but our budget committee has indicated serious financial difficulty next year and the staffing plan is based with this in mind."

THE STAFFING plan is also based on the fact that enrollment is declining in the district, Warden said. The administration has projected that the school district will have 100 less students next year.

At the junior high school, Warden has recommended that the number of staff should remain the same. "We've indicated that we'll place 34 teachers there next year, the same as last year, simply because we don't feel the things we're trying to accomplish at the junior high can be done with less people," he said.

Despite the cut in the number of teachers, the staffing plan projects that there will be an average of 25.1 students per classroom teacher compared to 27.1 students per teacher today. The same programs will be covered next year even though there will be four less teachers, Warden said.

According to Warden, there should be no need to let teachers go next year to achieve the staffing requirements. The plan is that the reduction in teachers will be achieved through normal attrition. "We already know we have 12 people who have indicated they're leaving next year," Warden said.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

A federal judge, saying the case "transcends anything yet encountered in the annals of American judicial history," quashed subpoenas sought by the Nixon campaign organization against 11 newsmen involved in coverage of the Watergate bugging case.

Senate Democrats charged that acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray bypassed Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst when he personally handed secret FBI Watergate files to a White House aide.

Led by a record one-month rise of 2.4 per cent in food prices, the cost of living took the biggest leap in 22 years. (Turn to page 2.)

The State Department said two Libyan jet fighters fired on an unarmed U.S. Air Force cargo plane south of Malta in the Mediterranean Sea yesterday. It called the attack an "unpardonable incident."

The state

After attacking his "liberal policies" for more than two hours, Senate Republicans blocked committee approval of David Fogel, Gov. Daniel Walker's choice to head the state Department of Corrections. The 13 Republican members of the Senate executive committee overpowered the nine Democrats and sent to the full-Senate a recommendation that Fogel's appointment be rejected. The Senate is expected to take up the matter today. A majority vote would override the committee action and approve Fogel's appointment, but that would take at least one Republican vote added to the Senate's 29 Democrats.

Attorneys have filed a motion asking a new trial for former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who was convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, income tax evasion and perjury. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., has not set a date for oral arguments on the motion, but gave the government until April 2 to file an answer to the defense arguments.

The Environmental Protection Agency has announced over $15 million in grants to 12 Illinois communities to help pay for improved wastewater facilities. The Metropolitan Sanitary District will get $11.5 million.

The world

The United States, using its veto for the third time in the 37-year history of the United Nations, killed a resolution on future Panama Canal control in the Security Council. The veto in the council came after 13 nations led by Panama voted in favor of the resolution and Britain abstained.

Electrician's union asks probe of non-union contract

Local 134 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) has asked the Illinois Department of Labor to investigate the awarding of a contract by School Dist. 59 to a nonunion firm.

Arthur Perry, assistant superintendent for administration, said he anticipated no problems with the investigation.

The contract was awarded this month to Arlington Electrical Construction Co. for electrical work at all 26 district schools to correct life safety code violations.

Arlington Electrical was low bidder at

Joseph Kingsley of Local 134 announced at the Monday board meeting that the investigation was being requested.

O'BRIEN ALSO appeared before the board. He said his company obeys all corporate laws of Illinois and he would make sure Arlington Electrical "is obligated to obey the laws of Illinois, as I am."

Monday's appearance was the second time O'Brien and Kingsley had come to the board. Two weeks ago when the contracts were first awarded, they informed the board they were opposed to Arlington Electrical getting a contract because they did not believe the company could pay a union-scale wage.

Under state law, the school district is not obligated to hire a union ship. However, the contractor is obligated to pay a union-scale wage to his employees.

At the meeting Monday, a letter from board attorney Frank Hines was presented to the members. In Hines' opinion, "it would be proper to award the contract to (Arlington Electrical)."

Fred Johnson, school architect, had reported to the board that Arlington Electrical has done satisfactory work for High School Dist. 214. He said there has been no problem with union shops working on the same site with Arlington Electrical.

IN OTHER ACTION at the meeting Monday:

- the board agreed on a long-term lease with the Mount Prospect Park District for the use of Kopp Pool, which adjoins Dempster Junior High School. When the park district signs the lease, the school district can begin life-safety code work on the pool.

- the administration was directed to prepare an impact statement on the effect of the proposed Devon-53 housing project in Elk Grove Village. The statement will be submitted to the village planning consultant.

- a contract for $4,800 was awarded to Anderson-Ross Floors, Inc., for the repair of the Dempster Junior High School gym floor.

- contracts were awarded for the school furniture and musical instruments for Friendship Junior High School, scheduled to open in Des Plaines for the 1973-74 school year.

- the board referred to committee a study of the rental fee charged for non-school related use of buildings. The action was in response to a request from the Rev. James Shea, pastor of St. Julian Eymard Church in Elk Grove Village.

Under the revised rental rate, Father Shea's charge for using Lively Junior High School went from $27 per Saturday to $153.

In a report sent to the board, church officials said they believe the rental rate does not fairly charge frequent, large-space users of the schools.

Intravenous fluid bottles recalled

About 60 bottles of intravenous fluid that may be contaminated have been recalled from Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, a hospital spokesman said yesterday.

"To our knowledge none of the contaminated fluid has been given to patients," said Burton Chatiner, vice president of hospital administration.

Cutter Laboratories, which makes the solution known as Cutter IV, is recalling 66,000 one-liter bottles of the fluid. The recall started Friday after three women at a Milwaukee medical center suffered blood infections after being given the solution. One of the women died.

Chatiner said Northwest Community, like other Chicago area hospitals, was notified of the recall Tuesday. Officials at three other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs — Holy Family, Alexian Brothers and Lutheran General — said they did not stock Cutter IV.

Currently, two patients at Northwest are receiving the solution, but have not been given any from contaminated lots, Chatiner said. The recall concerns only one-liter bottles manufactured in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Chatiner said the recall "will not cause any problem here." He said Northwest has half-liter bottles of the solution and other lots not made in Tennessee in stock.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has been studying the matter to see if they can find a conclusive link between the intravenous fluid and the three infection cases. Cutter spokesmen say there is no proof any contamination of the fluid occurred before the hospital received it.

A fourth possible infection has been reported at the Community Hospital in Springfield, Ohio, where a woman developed a high fever after gynecological surgery last Friday. Cutter IV fluid was used in the operation, but a hospital spokesman said the hospital has not connected the fever incident to the fluid. The FDA has also been studying that case, officials said.

Schools OK 6th grade plan

The River Trails Dist. 26 Board has approved a plan to accommodate all three sixth grades at Park View School next year by consolidating four classes into two.

According to administration projections, there will be three classes moving into the sixth grade at Park View next year. However, there are only two sixth-grade rooms available. The board proposes to provide room for the additional sixth-grade class by setting up two separate first grades, two separate second grades and one consolidated class of first and second grade. The board plan also calls for the consolidation of one third-grade with one fourth-grade class.

The result of this juggling will be that there will be enough room available for all three sixth grades in separate classes, plus a room for a special education class. At present, the special education teacher operates out of an office.

THE BOARD earlier had discussed the busing of the three sixth grades to the River Trails Junior High next year as one way to solve the crowding problem. However, in a special board meeting with the administration and several board members Monday night, parents said they were definitely opposed to busing unless all sixth grades in the district were bused and unless the parents and teachers were given at least a year to prepare for the move. Parents and the administration came up with the consolidation as a compromise solution.

In discussing the consolidation, Park View Principal Robert Hale said he is not sure yet what form the consolidated classes will take. "This is where I'm going to have to do some groundwork and some research, visit some schools and see how they're doing it," he said. "When we decide on some direction, we plan to ask a committee of the parents to sit in and discuss the plan."

Hale said he did not view the change to consolidated classes as a negative move. "I don't feel we're going to be having any less quality education by combining," he said. "It will give us a change to do some multi-age grouping and team teaching."

According to Asst. Supt. James Retzlaff, the consolidation of classes is nothing new at Dist. 26. The system is now being used at Bond School and in the first grade at Indian Grove, he said.

Sales tax battle may go to Springfield

Mount Prospect officials may take their fight to retain state sales tax revenues to Springfield next week.

The village board Tuesday authorized Mayor Robert D. Teichert to go to Springfield, if necessary, to testify in behalf of maintaining the current distribution system for municipal sharing of state income tax funds.

At least three laws are being considered by the Illinois General Assembly, according to Teichert, that would take away most of the village's estimated $330,000 annual sales tax receipts. Most of the bills want to take the 1 per cent local share away from the community that houses the businesses generating the tax and redistribute the money among all communities, on a population basis.

"Much of our income is derived from sales tax," Teichert told the village board. "The power to tax is basic to home rule. We must make our opinions known."

Teichert, who will also write to local state legislators on the village's behalf, said he heard there may be a hearing next week on two of the proposed House bills.

THE LOGIC BEHIND these bills, Teichert said, could eventually lead to the state collecting all real estate taxes and fine money and then redistributing it among communities according to population.

According to Teichert, Mount Prospect

Scottish evangelist to conduct meetings

The Rev. Peter D. Todd, staff evangelist with the American Evangelism Association, will be conducting special meetings at the Cumberland Baptist Church, 1500 E. Central Rd., Mount Prospect, beginning Sunday at 9 and 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and Monday through Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The Rev. Todd was born in Scotland and is a graduate of St. Paul Bible College, Macalaster College and Bethel Seminary. At the age of 16 he began a nine-year tour of duty in the British Royal Navy. He has had 15 years experience in the pastoring of four churches.

Teachers vote against IEA affiliation

High School Dist. 214 teachers voted against affiliating with the Illinois Education Association and National Education Association this week by a 2-to-1 margin.

Of 664 teachers voting, 448 voted against affiliating with the state and national groups and had 216 vote in favor of it, according to Vince Carioti, president of the Dist. 214 Education Association.

Carioti had said he would resign his post if the teachers approved joining IEA-NEA affiliation. The local association broke away from IEA-NEA in 1971 and has since been independent.

The vote was called by a member of last year's salary negotiations team. Critics of the local association had said IEA-NEA affiliation would strengthen the group's position in negotiations with the school board.

Last year contract talks between the association and board lasted for 10 months and a settlement was finally reached after spokesmen for both sides traded charges of bad faith bargaining.

Prior to the vote, association leaders said they opposed reaffiliation with the IEA-NEA because they felt the state group would limit their independence and not provide much help to the local.

Following the vote Carioti said he was happy with the outcome but, "I feel it's unfortunate that there has to be a division."

Driver in accident found not guilty

The driver of the car that struck Carleen Balzer, 1804 Ivy Ln., Mount Prospect, Jan. 7 was found not guilty of failure to yield the right-of-way to a pedestrian yesterday in Mount Prospect branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Adwait E. Hartwig, 49, of 728 N. Beverly, Arlington Heights, pleaded not guilty to the charge and waived his right to a jury trial. He said the girl ran in front of his car while he was driving 40 mph in a 50 mph zone on Euclid Avenue in Mount Prospect.

Carleen recently was released from Holy Family Hospital and is expected to make a full recovery from her injuries, according to hospital spokesmen. She was admitted to the hospital in a deep coma and there was concern that she might have been crippled for life.

Village Board meeting features presentations

Tuesday was a night of presentations for the Mount Prospect Village Board.

A police commendation was awarded to John Helm of Mount Prospect. A call by Helm on March 10 led to the arrest of Kent Peterson, 600 N. Eastwood Ave., Mount Prospect. Peterson was charged with theft and possession of burglary tools after he was found with $160 worth of automobile parts and personal items taken from several cars in a parking lot at 27 Judith Ann Dr.

Thesplaque was given to Helm by Police Chief Bert Giddens, who said, "Without the public's support, our task would be impossible."

At the start of the board meeting, there was a Presentation of Colors by the O-Ki-Tan-Lo Camp Fire Girls, under the direction of Rochelle Jesse and Susan Burnett. A troop of Bluebirds also gave each board member a cupcake in honor of the Camp Fire Girls' 63rd birthday.

Arlington man charged with kidnap, robbery

by JOHN MAES

An Arlington Heights man was charged late Tuesday with kidnaping a 15-year-old Des Plaines food store clerk after he robbed the store and took her hostage at gunpoint, according to police.

The girl, Deborah Cook, 1805 Pine St., was released unharmed about a half hour later in Oak Park, where she called police.

Her alleged abductor, Roy Stover, 24, was captured later by Cook County Sheriff's police outside his home, 702 Haven St., and charged with kidnaping and armed robbery.

DES PLAINES police said Stover walked into the Convenient Food Mart, 1920 Mannheim Rd., shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday night and pretended to buy groceries. He displayed a pistol and threatened Miss Cook and night manager Charles Davis, 1852 Mannheim Rd., demanding money, police said.

Stover was given $55 cash, and told the two employees to lie on the floor behind the counter, police said.

Two unidentified customers then entered the store and Stover ordered Miss Cook into his car and drove off.

Using the license number of Stover's car obtained by Davis, plus description of an auto used in a Feb. 28 holdup of another Des Plaines food store, police traced his identity.

DES PLAINES detectives then staked out the Algonquin-Elmhurst Road Shell Service Station, where Stover was to report for work at midnight. He has been employed at the station since December.

But a night attendant at the station told police Stover called to say he would be late for work because he wanted to change clothes at home.

Stover was then arrested at home by sheriff's police, who said they found a gun and money in his car. A search of his house later turned up the clothes Stover wore in the robbery, police said.

STOVER ALSO WAS charged in connection with the Feb. 28 hold-up in Des Plaines and March 9 robbery in Mount Prospect. On Feb. 28, police said, he struck clerk Dale Baumann with an ice tea jar and took $100 cash from the 7-Eleven Store, 578 Thacker St., Des Plaines.

In the Mount Prospect robbery, Stover pistol-whipped Mary Kozel, 140 Morrison Ave., Mount Prospect, an employee of Western Fashion Store, 1749 W. Golf Rd., police said.

He fled with $90 cash and Mrs. Kozel was hospitalized with a fractured skull at Northwest Community Hospital, where she is now in good condition.

Stover, who was once convicted in Maryland of sexual assault, was charged with kidnaping and two counts of armed robbery by Des Plaines police. Mount Prospect police have charged him with armed robbery and armed violence.

He is currently being held in lieu of a total of $125,000 bond. Stover will appear today in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court and is scheduled for an April 23 appearance in the Mount Prospect circuit court branch.

GASOLINE SPILLED from a truck inside the Des Plaines storage plant on Algonquin Road into the sewer system last night causing the roadway between Linneman Road and Rte. 83 to be closed to traffic. Mount Prospect firemen and state police barricaded Algonquin Road and detoured traffic around the area because of the possibility of an explosion. Fire Lt. Dennis Thiel, said as much as 1,000 gallons of gasoline may have spilled into the sewer. A crew of firemen poured water into the pipeline to dilute the gasoline. Cook County environmental units were at the scene testing the solution and explosive range. Firemen received the call at 5:15 p.m.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

A federal judge, saying the case "transcends anything yet encountered in the annals of American judicial history," quashed subpoenas sought by the Nixon campaign organization against 11 newsmen involved in coverage of the Watergate bugging case.

Senate Democrats charged that acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray bypassed Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst when he personally handed secret FBI Watergate files to a White House aide.

Led by a record one-month rise of 2.4 per cent in food prices, the cost of living took the biggest leap in 22 years. (Turn to page 2.)

The State Department said two Libyan jet fighters fired on an unarmed U.S. Air Force cargo plane south of Malta in the Mediterranean Sea yesterday. It called the attack an "unpardonable incident."

The state

After attacking his "liberal policies" for more than two hours, Senate Republicans blocked committee approval of David Fogel, Gov. Daniel Walker's choice to head the state Department of Corrections. The 13 Republican members of the Senate executive committee overpowered the nine Democrats and sent to the full-Senate a recommendation that Fogel's appointment be rejected. The Senate is expected to take up the matter today. A majority vote would override the committee action and approve Fogel's appointment, but that would take at least one Republican vote added to the Senate's 28 Democrats.

Attorneys have filed a motion asking a new trial for former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, who was convicted of bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud, income tax evasion and perjury. U.S. District Court Judge Robert Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., has not set a date for oral arguments on the motion, but gave the government until April 2 to file an answer to the defense arguments.

The Environmental Protection Agency has announced over $15 million in grants to 12 Illinois communities to help pay for improved wastewater facilities. The Metropolitan Sanitary District will get $11.5 million.

The world

The United States, using its veto for the third time in the 27-year history of the United Nations, killed a resolution on future Panama Canal control in the Security Council. The veto in the council came after 13 nations led by Panama voted in favor of the resolution and Britain abstained.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS

AFS card party tonight

The annual American Field Service card party will be at 8 p.m. today at the Arlington High School cafeteria. There will be refreshments and prizes.

The fund-raising event will enable an AFS student to come to the village and attend Arlington High School for one year.

There are two AFS students in Arlington Heights this year — Sylvia Issacs from Bogota, Columbia, who is living with the Jack Martin family and Helen Johansen from Denmark, who is living with the Frank Meko family.

Two Arlington Heights students James Karkula and Janet Wakely will study abroad as part of the exchange program next year.

More information on the card party is available from Mrs. Robert Huber at 253-5970.

Hobby show signups ending

Registration for the Arlington Heights Park District hobby show will end Saturday. Applications can be submitted to the park district at Olympic Park office, 680 N. Ridge, or any community center.

The show will be held March 31 in the basement of Olympic Park from 1 to 5 p.m. All ages and hobbies are invited to participate.

Ribbons and trophies will be awarded to the top hobbies.

Brahms 'Requiem' set

"A German Requiem," by Johannes Brahms, will be presented in English by the chancel choir of the First United Methodist Church, 1903 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights Sunday, April 8, at 4 p.m.

Directing will be Richard L. Carter, choirmaster of the church's chancel and high school choirs.

The performance will include solos by Stephen Swanson, baritone, and Patricia Duensing, soprano, both members of the Chicago Symphony Chorus. The organist will be Lloyd Davis. Charles Jenks will play the piano and Don Shupe will be the tympanist. Admission is free.

Fire set by worker's torch damages home

A small fire broke out yesterday in the home of George Wieder, 1711 W. Grove St., Arlington Heights, when insulation was ignited by a torch used by an employee of Miracle Water Co., Palatine.

The fire was extinguished before the Arlington Heights Fire Department arrived. There was little damage, according to firemen.

Cultural panel to seek bids for center south of library

The Arlington Heights Cultural Commission will seek bids from 25 architects during the next month to build a cultural center south of the village library, 500 N. Dunton.

A feasibility study for a center was completed last fall by George C. Izenour, a theater consultant. The study, which cost the village $6,000, suggested that a two-phase, $2 million cultural center be constructed.

"We will interview architects on the basis of the letters we receive back," said Sidney Rosenfeld, cultural commission chairman.

Rosenfeld also said the commission plans to mail a brochure to three fund sources including the Ford Foundation and the National Foundation for the Performing Arts. The third firm is a local group which Rosenfeld refused to name.

THE BROCHURE will include the Izenour study. Rosenfeld said. Funds from the foundation would be used for architect plans. Building funds will be solicited at a later date.

Though the cultural center plans include a 530-seat theater, Village Theater, Inc., a local performing arts group, is less than enthusiastic about the plan.

"Our attitude right now is wait and see," said Hank deGroot, president of Vil-

Art Institute Renoir exhibit school's best field trip yet

by CINDY TEW

Sculptures and miniature rooms at the Chicago Art Institute stole the show from Pierre Auguste Renoir as far as fifth graders from Susan Hardy's class at Dunton School in Arlington Heights were concerned.

The 45-minute bus ride, which included singing, looking at Chicago's pollution and high buildings and sketching memorable art pieces, provided a mini-classroom for the trip.

The class, bubbling and wide-eyed the entire trip, thoroughly enjoyed their third field trip of the year. Everyone agreed it was the best yet.

"We went to the forest preserve and it rained," said Joanne Bulger. "Besides you couldn't touch anything — they searched you on the way out — but one girl picked up some leaves and snuck them past the guard under her hat."

The second field trip was to "The Prince and the Pauper" at the Mill Run Theater. The most memorable part of that trip was shooting rubber bands at the players. No one could remember much about the play.

JAMES MONTGOMERY, director of instruction of Arlington Heights School

Dist. 25, said about 2,500 students per month take field trips. Local points of interest include the post office, fire station and library. Chicago area favorites are the Morton Arboretum, Field Museum and Shedd Aquarium.

"Field trips are used to extend the learning experience and give the students first hand experience," Montgomery said. "School isn't the only place where learning takes place."

And the learning that takes place on field trips isn't always the learning teachers have in mind.

Mrs. Hardy said the main reason for a trip to the Art Institute was to see the Renoir exhibit since it may be the last of its magnitude. But the crowded, stuffy Renoir exhibit made for restless students.

"Let's go to the miniature room. Can we go sketch some paintings now. It's too hot in here and this is boring," commented the fifth graders who paused only for a moment to see Renoir's famous portrait of his son, his self-portrait and some of the landscapes.

MOST OF THE class believed the best part of the museum was the miniature room with its doll-house sized rooms depicating living styles from the time of King Arthur through Thomas Jefferson. The students were fascinated with the tiny chandeliers and dime-sized clocks that really ticked.

"I liked the torture chamber best," said Brendan Joyce who let his imagination carry him away as he looked through a terrace door at what was probably a construction scaffolding.

Though modern art displays in vibrant colors and shapes dazzled the children's vision, they were unimpressed.

"That modern stuff is crummy," said Don DeMarie. "Like that orange and blue one. Anyone could do that."

Don enjoyed the sculptures, however. He couldn't even wait to get back to his class to sketch his favorites and struggled to steady his pencil on the bus. As the bus pulled up to the school he asked his teacher if he could stay in from recess to finish his masterpiece.

Enthusiasm for field trips spans grade levels. According to Helen Fichter, a first grade teacher at Dunton, trips provide instant motivation.

"Field trips rank near Christmas and birthdays in my class. They're always anticipated with eagerness," said Mrs. Fichter. "Some of my first graders enjoy trips primarily because they get a bus ride — some had never been on a bus before."

"And no one is ever absent."

Resident former POW listed in good condition

Army Staff Sgt. John A. Young, a five-year Viet Cong prisoner of war, is listed in good condition at Fitzsimmons General Hospital and may return home to Arlington Heights this weekend.

Officials at Fitzsimmons General Hospital in Aurora, Colo., said yesterday a release date has not been set but that it is possible Young could be released over the weekend. Details on his arrival in Illinois were not available.

Young has been undergoing a series of routine tests since he arrived at Fitzsimmons from Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines last Sunday.

Hospital officials said his condition was listed as good. He is being treated for parasites, slight malnutrition, some dental problems and an old fracture of the left leg that has healed over.

Today, Young is undergoing radiology tests, nerve conduction tests, an examination by an orthopedic physician, psychiatric tests and administrative discussions.

Young, whose wife Erica and sons John, 7, and Steven, 4, live in Arlington Heights, reportedly has been linked to antiwar statements and actions in prison camps of North Vietnam.

Principals to be named

The schedule of principals for Dist. 21 schools next year will be announced tonight by the school board at its regular meeting.

The session is set for 8:15 p.m. in the board room of the Dist. 21 administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd.

The board is to consider the list of principal assignments recommended by Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill.

According to tonight's meeting agenda, Ray Lee, principal of Sandburg School in Wheeling, plans to announce his retirement. Carl Ripley III, presently an instructor at the school, is scheduled to replace Lee next year.

In a memo to the board, Gill said of Lee, "We are very grateful for the contributions Ray has made during his time in Dist. 21. He has undoubtedly experienced many rewarding moments in his 38 years in public school education. We hope for him many more rewarding moments and much contentment in his retirement."

IN OTHER BUSINESS tonight, the board will consider a preliminary draft of the proposed policy manual for school board operation. The manual is reviewed and updated annually, according to Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger.

Gill is set to report on the status of bills currently before the Illinois General Assembly pertaining to education. He will also discuss his recent trips to two professional meetings.

Following the regular business portion of the meeting, the board plans to conduct an executive session to discuss the progress of negotiations on the 1973-74 teacher contract.

Negotiating teams representing the district and the Wheeling Faculty Council (WFC) have conducted four sessions. Since meetings are closed to the public, it is not known if agreement between the two teams is near. The next session is scheduled for April 2.

60 bottles of intravenous fluid recalled by maker

About 60 bottles of intravenous fluid that may be contaminated have been recalled from Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights, a hospital spokesman said yesterday.

"To our knowledge none of the contaminated fluid has been given to patients," said Burton Chatter, vice president of hospital administration.

Cutter Laboratories, which makes the solution known as Cutter IV, is recalling 66,000 one-liter bottles of the fluid. The recall started Friday after three women at a Milwaukee medical center suffered blood infections after being given the solution. One of the women died.

Chatter said Northwest Community, like other Chicago area hospitals, was notified of the recall Tuesday. Officials at three other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs — Holy Family, Alexian Brothers and Lutheran General — said they did not stock Cutter IV.

Currently, two patients at Northwest are receiving the solution, but have not been given any from contaminated lots, Chatter said. The recall concerns only one-liter bottles manufactured in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Chatter said the recall "will not cause any problem here." He said Northwest has half-liter bottles of the solution and other lots not made in Tennessee in stock.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has been studying the matter to see if they can find a conclusive link between the intravenous fluid and the three infection cases. Cutter spokesmen say there is no proof any contamination of the fluid occurred before the hospital received it.

A fourth possible infection has been reported at the Community Hospital in Springfield, Ohio, where a woman developed a high fever after gynecological surgery last Friday. Cutter IV fluid was used in the operation, but a hospital

ARTISTS OF tomorrow, including Debbie Doetsch, from Susan Hardy's fifth-grade class at Dunton School, took lessons from the master works at the Art Institute of Chicago during a recent field trip. As with most field trips in School Dist. 25, followup art and writing projects about art and the Art Institute are planned for the class.

Adventures of your Garbageman

Our recent ads about garbage contracts have prompted some good questions. A favorite is: "Why do refuse disposal contracts always grant an exclusive franchise?"

The answer is: "Because that way, you get a much lower rate." That's because the biggest item in the cost is labor time. If you serve every home in the block, it takes minimum time per home. But if customers are scattered, the crews can spend as much time driving from stop to stop as they do in actually working, and the cost per home jumps accordingly.

People sometimes think of an exclusive franchise as a "monopoly" whereby the contractor can charge whatever he pleases. The fact is, however, that disposal contracts set a fixed rate which can be changed only for special cause and by agreement of both parties.

(We'll agree — a monopoly would be nice!)

Pioneer basin cost: $1.75 million

It would cost an estimated $1.75 million to build an underground retention reservoir at Pioneer Park, 3800.000 more than a comparably-sized surface basin.

Preliminary design for an underground basin at the park has been submitted to the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding by the engineering firm of R. J. Peterson and Associates.

The underground plans were developed after the Arlington Heights Park Board voted 3-2 to protest plans for a five-acre surface retention basin in the northeast corner of the park.

If constructed, the underground basin would leave the surface of the park virtually unaltered.

The proposed underground reservoir is a rectangle, 220 feet by 240 feet (approximately two acres), and would be 20 feet deep. It would be constructed of non-prestressed concrete.

THE NEW PROPOSAL will be the subject of a meeting with the park board Monday night at Pioneer Park. If it is accepted by the board, the underground plan likely will be made part of a $14.32 million flood control package that will be voted on June 2.

The citizens' action committee held off making any formal recommendations on the underground basin, pending Monday night's meeting with the park commissioners.

The plans also call for a one-story pump house for the basin. The committee has suggested it be located behind the baseball backstop, although it could be positioned anywhere over the reservoir, Peterson said.

The pumps would empty the basin slowly, over about three days, in order not to overcharge downstream sewers, he said.

The top of the basin would be covered with two feet of top soil, deep enough, according to Peterson, to allow grass to grow.

The park board objected to plans for the surface basin because it would have interfered with a baseball diamond in the park. The majority of the board also felt it would be aesthetically undesirable.

THE VILLAGE has proposed compensating the park district $125,000 for the surface land that would be used. If an underground basin is built, the park district probably will not get any compensation money, however, since the surface would be totally restored.

The committee discussed the possibility of building the underground basin between Westgate and Dwyer schools, under an area that is already paved. Because the basin would be underground, it could be designed to conform to a variety of sites, Peterson said.

The Westgate-Dwyer site was discounted earlier for a surface basin because it was too small.

The committee also discussed an alternative to the controversial proposal to enlarge the existing retention pond at Hasbrook Park.

The plan, which is now being studied by the Peterson firm, involves the regrading of a baseball diamond near the pond so that during heavy rains when the basin filled up, excess water would spill over onto the ball diamond.

RESIDENTS have contended that when the basin overflows, water runs down Thomas Street, flooding houses along Dunton and Highland avenues. Citizens action committee chairman

Trustee Frank Palmatier said the plan to lower and level the ball diamond had been presented to the park board several years ago when it was considering putting a swimming pool in Hasbrook Park. "At that time, the park district's engineers, Consoer-Townsend, told the board it would have to provide additional detention if the pool were built, and suggested terracing down the baseball field," Palmatier said.

Regrading would actually improve the ball field, which now slopes toward the pond, he said. It would also eliminate any enlargement of the pond.

Details of the revised Hasbrook project also will be discussed with the park board Monday night.
